'Earthquake Bombs' Sink German Battleship Tirpitz

STRIKE TIES UP SUPER FORTS' ENGINE PLANTS

1,800 in Walkout; 40,000 Idle.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 13 [Special].—Production of urgently needed Cyclone engines for B-29 Super Fortresses was crippled tonight in the five north New Jersey plants of the Wright Aeronautical corporation by a strike of 1,800 supervisors whose walkout threw 40,000 other employes into idleness.

Gen. Arnold, army air force chief, had disclosed only last week that the army wants production of B-29 bombers doubled in the next three months, the company said.

The war labor board at Washington telegraphed a plea that the strike be stopped but strike leaders demanded that the army take over the Wright plants and declared the supervisors wouldn't go back to work until this was done.

Charge WLB Is Defied.

The company charged that the strike, called by the Wright Aircraft Supervisors' association [unaffiliated], was in direct defiance of a temporary regional WLB ruling agreed on by both sides last week concerning grievances of the unrecognized union.

In voting yesterday to go on strike at 1 a. m. today the union charged the company had transferred supervisors while awaiting settlement of a dispute on union recognition and working conditions.

Meantime, the United Automobile Workers [CIO], bargaining agent for 30,000 Wright employes, charged the company had shut off power at 10:45 a. m. and "is making us take part by locking out our members." The accusation was made by Albert Capone, president of the UAW local.

32,000 Sent Home.

David Newcomb, president of the supervisors' union, estimated 28,000 workers were out late today in plants at Patterson, East Patterson, Fair Lawn, and Wood Ridge, N. J., and said this number was swelled by 12,000 night shift workers. The company estimated 32,000 men had been sent home by late afternoon because they could not perform precision work on aircraft engines without supervision.

In a statement announcing the production of engines had been crippled, the company said it would "be forced to close down vital departments as soon as the ratio of supervisors to production workers becomes too far out of balance."

Because of the serious threat to war production, the company said it had notified Gen. Arnold, Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, director of the air technical service command, and other government and army officials of the "gravity of the situation." The company predicted the stoppage will seriously affect the war program, especially in the Pacific.

POLICE CALLED TO PUT END TO ROGERS' SNORES

When Ward C. Rogers, 900 N. Michigan av., sleeps he does a thoro job of it. While pounding the pillow early yesterday, Rogers knocked the telephone to the floor and the sound of his snoring was like a moan in the ears of the telephone operator. She quickly dispatched two squads of police to the Rogers home to investigate. When the officers finally roused Rogers from his slumber, they received the explanation that there was no moaning, only heavy breathing due to a cold. Rogers is head of five telephone message centers in the city.

Never Minus Black Eye, Wife of Nine Years Says

Camden, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP).—She didn't know what it was to go around without a black eye, Mrs. Stanley Chonentowski testified today in seeking a divorce from her husband of nine years. The divorce was recommended.

Shell Supply Dwindles; No U. S. Reserves

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—Under Secretary of War Patterson reported today that Gen. Eisenhower "has an imperative need for much more artillery ammunition than we are producing."

He told a news conference that troops on the western front are firing 35 days planned supply of heavy artillery ammunition in 10 days and there are no reserves in this country. That implied a tremendous drain on ammunition stockpiled in Europe.

Shipped Direct from Plants.

All such material produced here is being shipped overseas immediately.

"Altho our production of artillery ammunition has tripled since the beginning of this year, the needs of our armed forces have gone up even faster," Patterson said.

"The amount of ammunition which has been used in the campaigns of western Europe, especially in the major offensives, has been staggering.

"Gen. Eisenhower has cabled that the present needs for one month for the troops in northwestern Europe alone approximate 6 million rounds of artillery and 2 million rounds of mortar ammunition. The 1st army alone used more than 300,000 rounds of 105 millimeter howitzer ammunition in a two week siege of Aachen.

MacArthur's Needs Greater.

"Expenditure of ammunition in the course of the European campaign has thus far exceeded 375,000 tons. If Gen. Eisenhower's operations are to receive adequate support, it is necessary to fire four to five thousand pounds of ammunition every minute, 24 hours a day. This means 3,600 tons of ammunition per day."

Patterson said Gen. MacArthur's troops in the Philippines are expending a greater quantity of artillery ammunition this month than in the last 16 months combined and that the 5th army in Italy likewise is calling for bigger shipments.

Losses in trucks and tanks have been "very high in all theaters," he revealed, adding that "in the European theater alone we are losing 500 tanks and 900 trucks a month."

Other Shortages Told.

Tank and truck production, he said, is "way, way beyond that but we have got to give the troops far greater numbers."

He reported production was also short in cotton duck for tents, air borne radar equipment and other important items.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA CALLED BY PREMIER KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 13.—Canada's parliament, in adjournment since Aug. 15, has been called for an emergency sitting commencing Nov. 22, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced tonight. It was not to have resumed sittings until Jan. 31.

It is assumed his action is the result of a cabinet crisis, which resulted in the resignation of Minister of Defense Ralston on Nov. 1 after the cabinet rejected his recommendation that men enlisted for home defense be sent overseas.

DRUGGISTS FIND CIGARET 'LEAK'

Uncle Sam Sells 'Em

Short of cigarets? Then today is your chance to get some. At auction 82 cartons, 1,100 loose packs, and 75 boxes of 50 cigarets each will be offered to the eager public at the postoffice's semi-annual sale of unclaimed goods. Starting at 8:30 a. m. in the postoffice at Van Buren and Canal sts., the auction will continue until everything is sold.

The reason your corner drug store is out of cigarets most of the time is because the cigarets are going to outlets which can pay the jobber or wholesaler a higher price, representatives of the Chicago Retail Druggists association told A. E. Bradley, acting OPA district price executive, yesterday.

These outlets they divided into two classes: First, comparatively small consumers such as night clubs, which had a higher retail price on cigarets before the ceiling date and therefore can afford to operate with smaller discounts; and second, a rapidly growing black market.

Refuses to Permit It.

To remedy this situation, the druggists asked the OPA to permit them to accept smaller discounts from jobbers, which, in effect, would mean that the drug stores would pay the jobbers more for the cigarets they receive. Bradley refused to permit this, however, calling it a violation of OPA regulations, altho the druggists offered to absorb the price differential to protect the public.

A. C. Mayerson, president of the druggists' association, told Bradley he recently saw a carton of cigarets sold for $2 in a barber shop.

Get Less than Half.

Bradley told the druggists that state revenue stamp receipts show that the present supply of cigarets is only 10 to 20 per cent under the supply available at this time last year. The druggists, however, told him that they are receiving less than half the number of cigarets they received last year at this time, and that the remainder must be going into the black market or other channels.

NO CIGARETS FOR G.I.'S IN PARIS; FIGHTERS GET 2 PACKS A WEEK

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—The American cigaret shortage has spread to the European war theater. Enlisted men in Paris were informed today they would get no cigarets this week.

At post exchanges for officers the ration was reduced to five packs a week, which seems low to heavy smokers, but added to the chagrin of soldiers who get none at all. Cigaret supplies at the front also were low, with soldiers reported cut to two packs weekly in some sectors.

American cigarets—all diverted from army supplies—still were available on the black market in Paris at $1.50 a pack, and the price was rising. French cigarets are rationed to civilians at six packs monthly. They sell on the black market for many times the legal price of 24 cents a pack.

Ex-Ring Pilot Gets 3 Years in Army Trial

New York, Nov. 13 (AP). — Capt. Joseph Gould, 48, former boxing manager, was sentenced to three years at hard labor, fined $12,000, and dismissed from the army today after his conviction by a general court-martial of conspiracy to accept bribes on army contracts.

Joseph Gould.

Gould, charged with accepting more than $1,600 in the awarding of contracts worth $1,000,000 to the Cornwall Shipbuilding Co., Inc., also was convicted of seeking to have Stephen Patrick [Tex] Sullivan, a boxing associate, testify falsely in his behalf before the court-martial.

The 13 man military court deliberated three hours and 25 minutes before the verdict was announced by Col. Ralph Slate, president.

Gould, who had pleaded innocent to all counts, heard the decision with no show of emotion.

The man who once managed ex-Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock was found guilty of four specifications in the charge of violating the 96th article of war. Specification three was changed to read that he had received an amount in excess of $1,600 instead of $18,000 as originally charged.

FUGITIVE FLYER CAPTURED IN BAR

Seized in New Orleans with Girl Friend.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 13 [Special].—Graduating air cadets are not required by way of initiation to make parachute jumps into a swamp, but that was the best story Robert G. Kaslow could think of to account for his scratched face and torn uniform on a highway near New Orleans Saturday noon.

The motorist to whom he told the story became suspicious and notified the federal bureau of investigation. As a result, Kaslow, 21, a former second lieutenant, was back in federal custody tonight facing new charges, including escape from a guardhouse and stealing and crashing an army plane.

Roars Away in Plane.

Kaslow already is under sentence of 30 years in a federal penitentiary on charges including forgery and attempted murder. While awaiting transfer from Craig field, Ala., Friday night, he broke out of the guardhouse, retrieved his old uniform from a storeroom, helped himself to a parachute, and roared away in a plane.

FBI agents closed in on him at 5 p. m. today in the cocktail lounge of a downtown hotel where he was drinking with a 25 year old girl who had been his companion the last two days. She was held, but no charges have been preferred against her.

Kaslow said he headed the plane toward New Orleans because it was easy to follow the Mississippi river. About 11:30 p. m. Friday he decided to let the plane crash in a swamp. He bailed out, he said, and landed about four miles from where the wrecked plane was found. For 11 hours he fought his way thru the swamp, finally emerging on the Gentilly highway.

Traced by Girl's Ring.

He hailed a motorist and told him he was being "initiated" by fellow flyers. The motorist drove him to a New Orleans hotel, but later read about the plane theft and notified the FBI.

FBI agents trailed Kaslow to a turkish bath where they learned he had telephoned a girl who brought him money. Attendants said the girl was wearing a distinctive monogram ring. A jeweler remembered the ring and gave the agents the girl's name and address.

The chase led to the girl's home and to a series of drinking spots. Kaslow set a fast pace, with the girl paying the bill. When found he was attired in full uniform as a flying 2d lieutenant.

FLYERS TELL OF FIFTEEN MINUTE RAID ON VESSEL

Score Three Hits at Norway Fjord.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—The 41,000 ton Tirpitz, last of Germany's giant battleships, was sunk yesterday in Tromso fjord, Norway, when hit by three six-ton earthquake bombs dropped by royal air force Lancasters, the British air ministry announced tonight.

Where Tirpitz was sunk [arrow].

Attacking out of the Arctic mists, it took the British only a few minutes to finish off the great battleship, which the Germans built in five years at a cost of $50,000,000.

The cost to the British was one bomber out of an attacking force of 29, an air ministry bulletin said.

Three bombs landed on the deck of the Tirpitz, which blew up inside, keeled over, and sank slowly, ending a three year chase.

All Over in 15 Minutes.

Coming in at 10:30 a. m. from a height of 5,000 feet, the Lancasters quickly registered three hits on the battleship. Within 15 minutes the ship burst into flames and turned over.

"Her guns were firing like blazes when we arrived," said an Australian pilot, Flight Lt. B. A. Buckham. "After the first bomb hit, not a shot came up. Smoke began to pour out. It spiralled first in a column, then spread out over the ship.

"Afterward there were several explosions. One was very big and one of my crew shouted out over the inter-com 'She's on fire, skipper; she's on fire!'

"The fire did not seem to last more than two or three minutes."

Buckham's tail gunner added:

"The ship was already on its side when we came off our run."

Long Threat to Shipping.

The Tirpitz, which had been crippled by air and midget submarine assaults, had been a threat to the Arctic supply lines to Russia and a potential menace to any landing in Norway.

The battleship, one of the most powerful in the world, had been hounded persistently, but the British navy was never able to bring her to battle. She bristled with eight 15 inch guns in two turrets, had 12 six inch and 16 four inch guns, and carried four planes and a normal crew of 1,600 men. Some of the crew are believed to have been killed as she went down.

The Russians began the chase of the Tirpitz, which the Germans launched in 1939, by bombing her in Danzig harbor in November, 1941.

These are now the German navy: Two pocket battleships, the Scheer and the Lutzow; two 10,000 ton cruisers, the Hipper and the Prince Eugen, and four smaller cruisers.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 14 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The American offensive on Leyte Island, which made short new gains today, has dislocated Japanese preparations for a counter-attack in this pivotal Philippine battle.

Today's bulletin reported five Japanese divisions had been identified, without specifying whether they were estimated at their full strength, which would mean probably more than 60,000 men.

The Japanese 1st division has been thrown into the battle line along the Pinamopoan-Ormoc highway, and the 26th division has been identified by its dead. The 16th, 30th, and 102d divisions previously had been reported in action.

Penetrate Jap Areas.

The American offensive drive, said the bulletin, has "penetrated the enemy's potential assembly areas, compelling him to premature and piecemeal commitments of his forces for the defense of the main bastion of the Yamashita line."

That line runs thru the hill country surrounding Ormoc, Japan's last stronghold on the island. Fresh troops, under Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, were preparing a large scale attempt to break American encirclement on three sides.

Consolidate Heights.

Advance elements of the United States 1st cavalry are consolidating positions they have seized on Mount Catabaran and Mount Cabungangan, dominating peaks east of the Pinamopoan-Ormoc highway.

The cavalry men extended their left flank to include another key height, termed Hill 2926, eight miles south-southwest of Carigara. Patrols are probing westward.

The main force of the 24th division, pushing down the Ormoc highway, "is closing slowly along the Ormoc road in the face of increasingly strong opposition," the bulletin said.

To the east, the 96th division has broken organized Japanese resistance in the hills flanking Dagami and Patok, in central Leyte valley.

Artillery Creates Havoc.

American long range artillery "continues to create havoc" along the Ormoc corridor, the bulletin reported, and dive bombers Saturday attacked Valencia, near the center of the road. Numerous buildings were destroyed and many casualties resulted from strafing.

A headquarters spokesman disclosed the Japanese have infiltrated some American positions and sent small suicide squads against the Yank line. These assaults were stopped before causing substantial damage.

Enemy air activity "continues at a moderate scale, with persistent harassing attacks on shipping and ground installations," the bulletin said. Nine Nipponese planes were shot down.

Fred Hampson, A. P. correspondent with the 24th division, reported a significant change in enemy tactics. With larger forces and more automatic weapons and artillery than previously, the enemy, Hampson said, has lessened the number of his harassing night attacks but is concentrating on defense of every defensible point on the road from Pinamopoan to Ormoc.

15 MORE TOWNS OVERRUN ALONG 40 MILE FRONT

Drives Thru Snow Near Saar.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 14 [Tuesday]—(AP).—American infantry stormed and captured three of the forts surrounding Metz yesterday against scant opposition as a half dozen divisions swinging around the citadel from the southeast drove thru the snow to within 15 miles of the German border.

The main prize of the lightning stab was Fort l'Aisne—actually a series of subterranean fortresses joined together on much the same plan as bloody Fort Driant, across the Moselle to the west, which the 3d army recently tried and failed to take.

The other two are somewhat smaller ones, and all three are near Verny, 5½ miles south of Metz, which is one of four towns captured by the 5th infantry division while seizing the forts.

Other Fort Guns Open Up.

The operation was described officially as being carried out "practically without a fight," suggesting the Germans pulled out in the face of attack.

Principal opposition came from the guns on another fort, which boomed out in the first intervention of Metz's guns in the battles raging at the city's approaches.

The surprising capture of these outward defenses of Metz came as the 3d army plunged ahead all along a 40 mile front south and southeast of Metz, enveloping at least 15 more towns in gains of one to three miles, thereby maintaining the steady pace of Lt. Gen. Patton's offensive thru the sixth day.

[First intimation that the Germans might not make a last ditch fight for Metz came in a broadcast from headquarters of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt which asserted "Metz has fulfilled its task" in holding back Patton while "front zone fortifications" were deepened.]

Expand Moselle Bridgehead.

Far to the north of the menaced city, the Koenigsmacher bridgehead over the Moselle river was expanded and a German fort in that area was captured.

It also was disclosed officially that there were signs the Germans were withdrawing from the Metz area, but there still were no reports of actual evacuation of the city itself or of other forts in the defense ring, some of which stand between the city and those which fell yesterday.

Among the towns captured south of Metz were Lichon, Pommerieux, Verny, and Corny. Corny is 4½ miles southwest of Metz on the banks of the Moselle almost due east and across the river from Fort Driant.

One Point of Resistance.

That was on Patton's right flank, where the 26th infantry division burst thru the eastern edge of the forest of Bridge and Koecking, only to be pushed back about a mile by German counter-blows launched from the south.

[A front dispatch said this counteraction appeared to be designed to keep the Americans from a ridge in the forest which dominates the enemy base of Dieuze, more than 30 miles southeast of Metz.]

To the northwest, the Americans across the Nied river reached a point five miles beyond their first bridgehead at Han-sur-Nied and were within 15 miles of Germany's Saar frontier.

In this drive they cleared the Germans from Thicourt, five miles to the east; Many, four miles east, and from Arraincourt, Holacourt, Lesse, and Vatimont in the same general area.

To the southeast and north of the forest of Chateau-Salins the dough-boys gained another two miles and entered the towns of Villers, Achain, and Marthille.

Four miles northwest of Han, the town of Ancerville across the Nied river was cleared by forces which continued another mile to the northeast.

A new bridgehead was driven across the Moselle south of Thionville, but no change was reported in positions of these forces during the day.

The 90th division, in its Koenigsmacher bridgehead to the north, pushed south a mile into the village of Valmestroff, three miles east of Thionville. A fort near Thionville was captured.

There was little change on the 1st army front, where the Germans in the Schmidt area southeast of Aachen were beaten off by accurate artillery fire when they attempted to counter-attack.

Activity on the Holland front was confined to patroling and artillery fire from both sides. Planes were grounded on all sectors of the western front by bad weather.

[The Brazzaville radio quoted German sources as saying the allies had launched an offensive against the long besieged German U-base at St. Nazaire, in Brittany, and had broken thru the outer defenses, CBS short wave listeners reported.]

FINDS GERMANS RUNNING SHORT OF TRANSPORT

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY BEYOND THE MOSELLE RIVER, France, Nov. 13.—There are indications on this sector of a German lack of transport. Altho their retreat to date has been reasonably orderly, we have captured heavy guns, and ammunition that they probably would have taken along if transport were available. At Puttigny, 35th division troops seized 50 cases of German 88 millimeter shells, and four 150 mm. and four 120 mm. artillery pieces intact.

One difficulty the Americans are meeting now, which did not exist in western and northern France, is what to do with the civilians found in the various towns. In Haboudange, northeast of Chateau-Salins, 150 civilians were found.

There is the problem of "screening" the civilians to determine who are genuine civilians and who are German soldiers in civil dress and are potential or actual spies.

HITLER IS IN FINE HEALTH, GERMAN RADIO DECLARES

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP). — German news agencies in radio broadcasts today said the fact that Heinrich Himmler and not Hitler broadcast yesterday's proclamation to the German people under Hitler's name "was in no way proof" of reports that the dictator was incapacitated or dead. Himmler is chief of the German secret police. In the proclamation Germans were summoned to fight to the death.

Transocean, German overseas radio service, said: "In reply to rumors circulating abroad, authoritative circles in Berlin state that the fuehrer is in excellent health. Hitler has never read proclamations himself." The proclamation, Transocean said, "gave orders in his own vigorous manner."

The German people were told that Hitler was "too busy at headquarters, working unremittingly to bring a turn in our fortunes" to appear in public or make broadcasts.

Belgians Ask to Help in Occupation of Germany

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Belgium has asked the allied powers formally for permission to participate in the occupation of Germany, Paul-Henri Spaak, foreign minister, announced tonight. Spaak said one of the prime matters discussed with the British here had been the feasibility of "immediately equipping a Belgian army."

1918 WARFARE COMES TO LIFE IN VOSGES HILLS

Old Trenches Back; Yanks Gain in Snow.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY NEAR LUNEVILLE, France, Nov. 13.—Yank battalions of the 7th army struck east and southeast of the forest of Parroy today, advancing over flooded or snow clad fields and hillsides behind a heavy barrage. German self-propelled guns, mortars, and automatic weapons smashed back at them, but the Americans recorded gains and broke into Leintray, where they encountered many anti-personnel mines.

East of the scene of the infantry thrust are more of the difficult Vosges mountains, but there is an intervening barrier, an enemy defensive line of which the hinge at Montigny was taken.

Trench Warfare Comes to Life.

The Germans impressed French civilian labor to help dig long parallel rows of trenches similar to those that distinguished World war I, and studded this system with pilboxes. Barbed wire was spread in bands. It was believed to be the first time line trenches had been encountered by the allies in this campaign.

Our attack began with hardships. The Vosges area is experiencing the worst storms in 10 years and rivers are in the highest flood since 1919. Observation planes had difficulty in spotting artillery targets.

Yanks crunching thru the snow were black figures against white, and all their movements brought in streams of enemy fire. Many G. I.'s said they could have used white battle garb advantageously.

Snow Increases Mines Peril.

The blanket of snow increased the danger from mines, covering any disarrangement of the ground that might have betrayed the presence of buried explosives.

American artillery grabbed one chance to show its power. A reconnaissance patrol called for a shoot on an area of about 600 square yards. Long Tom 105 mm. rifles and 105 mm. howitzers threw in a "time on target" show, also known as a "murder." Guns at varying ranges dumped shells at the same moment in such profusion that the cannoneers doubted any Germans could survive in the small area.

U. S. SUBMARINE DARTER SUNK TO AVERT CAPTURE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—The navy announced today the submarine Darter was destroyed by its own crew to prevent capture by the enemy after it had run aground in an undisclosed area. All the complement of 65 officers and men escaped unharmed to an advanced naval base.

The year old 1,525 ton vessel was the 33d submarine lost by the United States fleet since Pearl Harbor. In that time the fleet has lost a total of 218 combat vessels, including the undersea craft..

TWO COMPANIES OF U. S. INFANTRY SAVED FROM TRAP

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY IN HURTGEN FOREST, Germany, Nov. 13.—After fighting out of a Nazi trap deep within these frigid woodlands, two companies of American infantrymen today were back with their comrades behind our lines. For three days they had fought in a snowstorm.

The companies were cut off last Thursday when they moved into position to attack enemy forest positions northwest of the town of Hurtgen and not until relief units reestablished contact with them last evening was their rescue assured.

The infantrymen withdrew from a wind swept clearing over which the Nazis tried to advance and overrun them. They left the clearing littered with the bodies of scores of enemy dead. The storm threw a white blanket of snow over the battlefield, mounds to mark where the dead lay amid the unforgettable beauty of the thick pine and fir woods covered with ermine.

Have Only Cold Rations.

During those three long days the companies fought off repeated counter-attacks hurled from all sides. The doughboys fought for their lives without food, except the cold rations they carried when they moved forward. They had no medical supplies except the small amount of bandages and plasma which ordinarily are carried for short periods.

Lt. Kirby Brigham of Bloomfield, N. J., and Lt. Robert Daspuit of Houme, La., the company commanders credited with leading the men, today told the story of the bitter fighting. The doughboys were saved, they said, because they were dug in before the German attacks began and they had radio communication with artillery, enabling them to call for fire to break up the enemy attacks.

Under Fire of Own Guns.

When German tanks came into view thru the driving snow, the infantrymen fought them with machine guns and bazookas from their foxholes while artillery poured shells into the attacking column. At one point the situation was so desperate the doughboys called for fire concentrations upon their own positions, then crouched in their snow filled entrenchments while the somber woodlands echoed to the sound of shells crashing around them upon the enemy.

They turned back six enemy attacks before Lt. Col. William Sibert of Hohokus, N. J., brought his rescue battalion thru the dense pines to cover their withdrawal. Sibert's unit got into trouble breaking thru the Nazi ring and lost contact for awhile, but it regrouped and succeeded in slashing an escape corridor for the lost companies thru enemy lines.

This battle was only a small chapter in the history of the campaign inside Germany, but it pictures hardships and fighting as savage as any anywhere in this war. The winding roads of this area, now thick with slippery and muddy ruts, comprise the only supply lines and jeeps often are not capable of reaching men farthest forward.

Water, food, ammunition, and medical supplies at times must be carried forward by hand; the wounded are brought to the rear the same way. Men, holding the front are living and dozing in slimy foxholes ringed by snow and swept by cold, damp winds. The more fortunate ones manage to install a flooring of pine logs, but others have never found time to acquire such luxury.

The continued wet and cold brought the first few cases of trench foot. Army medical units are moving to provide the men with additional supplies of dry socks and instruction in the care of their feet to avoid the crippling ailment.

Pass Army Tests

Twins Albert (left) and Bernard Friedman, who passed tests for army training, try a little legerdemain with an empty mirror frame.

Albert and Bernard Friedman, 17 year old twins, qualified before the United States army air force examining board yesterday for the army's specialized training program. The brothers, who have always done things together, are scheduled to graduate from Harrison High school next January.

Friends find it hard to tell the brothers apart except for a slight variation in their profiles. They have a brother, Corp. Sidney Friedman, who is in the army air force.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Friedman, of 3325 W. 15th st. Albert is a member of the school swimming team and Bernard is on the R. O. T. C. senior council. Airplane model building is the hobby of both.

BRITISH DRIVE TO LAST OBSTACLE BEFORE RAVENNA

ROME, Nov. 13 (AP).—British 8th army troops have crossed the Chiais canal, next to the last water obstacle before the German held port of Ravenna on the Adriatic coast. There were indications tonight that the Nazis were preparing to evacuate the city.

After crossing the canal, before which they had been stalled for several weeks, the British moved into a pine forest only four miles south of Ravenna. Still before Ravenna is the Fiumi Uniti river, less than a mile from the city's southern limits.

Patrols thrusting ahead of the main allied force reported they saw no sign of German troops. To the southwest, however, the Nazis held firmly to their positions on the north bank of the Chiais canal to prevent the 8th army by-passing Ravenna.

Radios Message to Patriots.

Ravenna, a city of 30,000 population, dates back to the first century and was once the capital of the Ostrogoths, who established a kingdom in Italy [493 to 539 A. D.].

An allied war bulletin said 8th army forces pushing northwest from the captured road junction of Forli toward Bologna, 38 miles away, had made further progress against "very strong resistance."

Gen. Alexander, allied ground commander in this theater, stated in a radio message to Italian Patriots in northern Italy that the battle at the edge of the Po plain must inevitably slow down because of the cold and mud of winter. He asked the Patriots to cease all large scale, organized activity, but to keep their weapons oiled.

"Some Inexorable Factors."

"The winter is upon us, and there are certain constant factors in warfare—of which winter is one—which have the inexorable force of laws from century to century, whatever may be the new inventions at the disposal of a commander," Alexander's message said.

"The slowing down of the tempo for regular armies has a parallel in the slowing down in the ancillary activities of Patriots, who are playing their part in the campaign to destroy the Germans and drive them out of Italy."

The allies never had more than a "slight superiority in numbers" in Italy, the message said, adding that the terrain in which they are fighting is "the best possible for defense and the worst possible for attack."

'WHAT A GUY!' IS HOW A SERGEANT SUMS UP BONG

Wears His Shirt Out, and Shoes Unlaced.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH AIR FORCE ON LEYTE, P. I., Nov. 13.—Here is Maj. Richard I. Bong, Poplar, Wis., America's greatest aerial ace, as seen thru the eyes of the man who keeps his plane in the air.

"He is a curly comic and the most relaxed man I have ever seen," said Sgt. John L. Lovek Cummings, Mobile, Ala., Maj. Bong's one man ground crew. "Let me give you one example. A few days ago a couple of Japs came in and strafed the field. The major and some other Lightning pilots had just landed and we figured the Japs had followed them in. Anyway, I was crossing the roadway and I'm telling you I flopped flat.

"But the major just kept taxiing his plane until he had it where he wanted it, then he left his motor running about fifteen hundred revolutions and watched until it was all over. Not until then did he shut off his motor and leave the cockpit. I told him he'd better get under the wing, because the flak was really coming down, but he said he guessed it was all right and walked off. I've never seen the guy get excited."

Paints 36th Flag On.

The 21 year old sergeant was busy painting the 36th flag on the fuselage—one for every plane Maj. Bong has shot down—while the major took a catnap in his plane.

"I'm leaving plenty of room for more," he said. The plane was a wood nosed Lightning, which has been flown only 82 hours.

"The major is partial to Lightnings," said the sergeant. "He has never flown anything else in combat. But maybe I'd better pipe down a little, because he is up for a sleep on the wing.

"He is particular about the condition of his plane. The big thing is that he wants his rear view mirror to be clean. If anybody is on his tail he wants to know it, and we've checked to see that his auxiliary tank is tight, too.

"Like a lot of other pilots, he doesn't want to be photographed before he takes off. Other than that he has no superstitions. He always carries a bag of hard candy, which he chews while he flies. He never smiles or kids like the other fellows. I guess the nearest I saw him excited was the other day when he came in after getting his 36th plane.

"'Nothing like a good scrap,' he said. He told me he had gotten the Jap over Ormoc with a 90 degree deflection job. That takes shooting experience. He saw the Jap go down in flames, he said, but did not see him crash." However, Maj. Gerald R. Johnson, Eugene, Ore., the squadron commander, verified the crash.

"Has his plane ever been hit?" the sergeant was asked.

Plane Has no Name.

"Well, the other day it came in with a left rear cooler shot off," the sergeant answered. "The major likes this plane, the best he ever had. Nobody flies it without permission. It hasn't got a name unless the major wants to call it Marge after his girl friend. His last plane had a big picture of her on it. One of the boys cracked up that plane.

"The major always carries a carbine in his cockpit. He isn't fussy about the way he dresses. He goes around with his shirt tail half way out, his collar turned up, his shoes—the plain G. I. kind—half laced with the strings tucked in."

Sgt. Cummings held his hand out. It had started suddenly to rain hard. Maj. Bong awoke, leaped nimbly from the wing of the plane, and walked away with a loose jointed gait. The sergeant started after him proudly.

"What a guy!" he said.

TRIBUNE MEN SWAP PACKARD FOR A FORD; NOW THUMBING RIDES

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE ISLAND, Philippines, Nov. 13.—The Tribune staff on Leyte Island is back on its feet and thumbing rides again after chasing about in the island's biggest car, a Packard limousine, which once was reserved for a Jap general.

An American general got his eye on it and his motor officer offered to trade a Ford for the Packard. Since a Ford can get over rough spots which stop a limousine, the trade was accepted. After two days the Ford broke down.

The Tribune staff is again hunting not only the news but a car. It has the condolences of the G. I.s, one of whom remarked, "When America can turn out generals faster than cars for them to ride, it sort of shakes your faith in American industry."

Believe Allied Air Attacks Cut Fuel for Robot Bombs

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Allied air attacks on German synthetic oil plants in the last two weeks were believed to have curtailed the production of fuel for flying bombs and V-2 rockets. Large sections of refineries in the Ruhr and elsewhere have been battered. Each rocket burns an estimated 2,500 gallons of fuel a minute, so that in a five minute flight from their launching sites they use 12,500 gallons—to deliver between one and two tons of explosive.

200 JAPS SEIZE TINY PALAU ISLE; YANKS MOVE OUT

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 13 (AP).—Two hundred Japanese troops occupied tiny Ngeregong Island, eight miles northeast of American held Peleliu in the Palau group, last Tuesday night, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

A small United States marine patrol, which had been on the island for reconnaissance, quickly evacuated, and the enemy was subjected to ships' fire and aerial bombing and strafing. Nimitz said the marines were removed aboard LCI's without casualties.

The Japanese were equipped with knee mortars and machine guns. Probably they came in small boats across the reef-infested Denges passage from Eil Malk island, two miles north of Ngeregong.

The purpose of the enemy occupation is vague, but probably was for reconnaissance. The Japanese could bombard Peleliu and other American held Palau islands from Ngeregong, but they would have difficulty in moving in artillery. The tiny islet, moreover, would give them little advantage over Eil Malk.

Nimitz said the Japanese landed under cover of a storm.

One United States destroyer and two gunboats quickly blocked Denges passage to cut off possible further landings, and bombarded Ngeregong. American planes bombed and strafed the islet and sank one barge. Land based aircraft centered their activity Thursday and Friday on the Palaus.

LEYTE INVASION ORIGINALLY WAS HEADED FOR YAP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—A last minute change in plans moved up the Leyte invasion many days. An army corps was at sea—headed for Yap—when Adm. Halsey, with information that the Japanese had suffered heavy fleet and air losses, recommended that the island be by-passed for the vital Philippines target.

This was related at a news conference today by Col. Alfred E. Kastner of Nevada City, Cal., first officer to return from Leyte.

The corps embarked at Honolulu Sept. 15, and on the next day the objective was changed. Leyte was hit Oct. 20.

RUSSIANS OPEN FLANKING DRIVE ON BUDAPEST

Two Forces Swing North Along Railways.

LONDON, Nov. 14 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The 2d Ukrainian army swept northward along two railways yesterday in an outflanking move against Budapest, capital of Hungary, capturing the terminal of Jaszapati.

A German announcement said the Russians had broken into the communications center of Jaszbereny, 37 miles east of Budapest but had been thrown back.

Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent, reported from Moscow that Jaszbereny was under siege from three sides and that the southern column of the Russian forces apparently had made a junction with another column striking from the northeast after crossing the upper Tisza river.

Flame Throwers in Fight.

The Germans were resisting savagely with tanks and flame throwers, but the Russians seized at least 10 towns during the day in a drive that carried 13 miles in its deepest penetration. Moscow said the soviet advance around Budapest's eastern flank had swept six miles northwest of Cegled.

Altho Berlin said the Russians had broken into Jaszbereny, Moscow did not mention the town. It announced, however, the capture of the suburb of Jasztelek, five miles southeast.

The objective of both columns of the 2d Ukraine army appeared to be Hatvan, a rail center 14 miles north-northeast of Budapest.

Tells of Fight Near Budapest.

A German broadcaster, Col. Ernest von Hammer, said the Russians were fighting in Vecses, five miles southeast of Budapest, but Moscow made no mention of this. He also said soviet forces held a bridgehead on the Danube at Dunaharaszti, opposite Csepel Island, five miles south of the capital.

Marshal Tito announced that his Yugoslav Partisan forces had broken into Skoplje on the railway escape route for German forces fleeing from Greece.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Berlin's broadcast bulletin said yesterday:

"The battle in the area east of Budapest increased in volume and ferocity due to increased enemy forces being brought into action. Our tank formations threw back in a counter-attack the enemy who had penetrated Jaszbereny, shooting up 33 soviet tanks. A further advance of 10 soviet rifle divisions and numerous tanks was prevented on both sides of Mezokovesd by tenacious resistance of German and Hungarian troops."

OIL AID FINDS WIFE IN COMA; POISON FEARED

Mrs. Queen Jay, 48, wife of Clarence H., assistant secretary and treasurer of the Pure Oil company, was found unconscious in her apartment at 675 N. Michigan av. last night. An empty glass was on a stand beside her bed.

David A. Musselman, an osteopath and friend of the family, was called by Jay, and he said the glass smelled as tho it had contained cyanide poison. Jay said he discovered his wife in a coma when he returned home from his office at 35 E. Wacker dr.

Mrs. Jay was taken to Passavant Memorial hospital, where physicians attempted to learn whether she had swallowed a drug.

BOMB ROOM FIRE FATAL TO PLANE SHIP PRINCETON

Carrier's Last Hours Told by Captain.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13 (AP).—The light aircraft carrier U. S. S. Princeton was lost in the battle of the Philippines because a shipboard fire reached one of the bomb storage rooms, Capt. John M. Hoskins, one of the first casualties of the naval engagement to be returned to the United States, said today.

Capt. Hoskins.

Capt. Hoskins, who had been slated to relieve the Princeton's regular skipper, lost his right foot when the bomb room exploded.

"Along for Ride."

"I just went along for the ride on that one," said Hoskins. He said he boarded the Princeton the day she left the embarkation port for the drive on the Philippines but "they shipped me back before I took command as relief for Capt. Buracker [William H. Buracker, U. S. N., Luray, Va.]."

"We had spent a few days busting up the Nansei Shoto Islands [the Ryukyus on most maps] and then took a few swipes at Formosa before heading for the Philippines.

Hit by Dive Bomber.

"We got hit when the Japs decided they'd better come out and fight. Our task force tangled with some of the Nips coming from the north and one of their dive bombers planted a big one on us amidships."

With the aid of fire fighters from an American destroyer and light cruiser, the Princeton crew managed to extinguish most of the flames.

"We thought we still could save the ship," Hoskins continued, "but the fire in the after part made headway and along in the afternoon one of our bomb stowage rooms went up."

Poll Tax Is Eliminated for All Arkansas Yanks

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 13 (AP).—Arkansas service men and women, both white and Negro, can vote in elections in this state henceforth without paying a poll tax as a result of a constitutional amendment approved in last Tuesday's general election.

'FIGHTINGEST' AMERICAN AIR CHIEF IS MISSING

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE, England, Nov. 13 (AP). — Col. Hubert Zemke, 31, fighter pilot from Missoula, Mont., known as the "fightingest" American pilot commander in Europe, has been missing since Oct. 30, it was announced today.

Col. Hubert Zemke.

Fellow pilots saw him go down inside Germany while leading his Lightning-Mustang group on a bomber escort mission. At that time, he was the leading American ace operating on the western front, credited with shooting down 19½ Nazi planes and destroying 8½ on the ground.

It was learned that he had planned to make the Oct. 30 mission his last as he had requested that he be relieved from combat duty on Nov. 1. Earlier in his career, he had rejected offers of assignments that would have removed him from active participation in the air war over Europe.

Fate Not Known.

Zemke's fate is not known, but his wing man thinks he may have been the victim of poor flying weather.

"We were flying at about 28,000 feet," said Lt. Richard D. Creighton of Los Angeles, "escorting bombers to Hamburg when Zemke appeared to be having trouble. The weather was very bad.

"I was having trouble about the same time and found myself on my back, hanging by my safety belt. Before I managed to get straightened out I lost track of him in the clouds."

Thirty Aces in His Group.

Three days after Zemke went down his score was passed by Maj. George Preddy, Greensboro, N. C., who ran his total to 29½ in the battle over Merseburg when the 8th air force fighters destroyed 155 German planes.

At one time there were 30 aces in a Thunderbolt fighter group he commanded—a group the German radio denounced as "Zemke's murderers."

Among Zemke's more noted proteges were Lt. Col. Francis S. Gabreski of Oil City, Pa., who was shot down after destroying 31 German planes and now is a prisoner in Germany; Capt. Bob Johnson of Lawton, Okla., who was the leading American ace in Europe when he returned to the United States, and Maj. Walker Mahurin of Fort Wayne, Ind., first American pilot to bag 20 German planes.

Studied Forestry.

Born March 14, 1914, Zemke studied forestry at the University of Montana. His wife, Mrs. Anna Zemke, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benny Zemke, live in Missoula.

When he was graduated from the university, Zemke enlisted and was commissioned in the air forces in June, 1936. He went on active duty two years later and visited England and Russia as an observer and to demonstrate the Kittyhawk fighter.

Blow Up Liuchow as Japs Advance.

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 13 (AP). —The Japanese drive to clear American air power out of southeastern China appeared near completion tonight with the Chinese high command reporting only localized street fighting in Liuchow, former site of the last main United States air base in that area.

The city, which the Japanese announced last Friday they had taken, was abandoned by the United States 14th air force on Nov. 8 after all runways and installations had been destroyed.

Japs Strike West.

The current enemy offensive already had swept the Americans out of air bases at Hengyang, Lingling, and Kweilin.

[AP Correspondent Clyde A. Farnsworth in a dispatch from Kunming said that with the loss of Liuchow "southeastern China for a long time, if not forever, thus has been eliminated as a possible zone of an allied offensive against the Japanese armies."]

The Chinese bulletin said another Japanese force, which had cut the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway 11 miles west of Liuchow, was striking toward Ishan, 43 miles west of Liuchow, and had attacked Chinese positions only 18 miles from the town.

No Contact with Kweilin.

Another Japanese column which by-passed Liuchow on the south also was reported cutting westward in the general direction of Ishan apparently in an effort to link up with the force from the north. A junction of the two groups would give the Japanese an all-land route from Canton to Manchuria and completely seal off the Chinese forces in the Liuchow area.

The Japanese apparently had completed occupation of Kweilin, 95 miles north of Liuchow. The Japanese said the city, which the Chinese earlier had said would be made "China's Stalingrad," had fallen last Friday. The high command acknowledged there had been no radio contact with the garrison since then.

SLOVAKS AGREE WITH CZECHS ON NATIONAL UNITY

New Constitution to Be Set Up by Parliament.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A full agreement has been reached between the Czechoslovak government in London and delegates representing the Slovak National council on present and future problems regarding national unity and collaboration, diplomatic circles here said today.

The keynote of the understanding is said to be decentralization in administrative matters for Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia, and the sub-Carpathian Ukraine [Ruthenia], with maintenance of the federal president, the government and parliament in Prague.

All Three to Be Represented.

All three divisions will be proportionately represented in the government and parliament. But in all administrative questions it will be Bohemia-Moravia for the Czechs, Slovakia for the Slovaks and Ruthenia for the Ruthenians. Local district and provincial councils will be set up in each region.

Details of the new constitution will be framed by the national parliament as soon as possible after the so-called liberation of the country.

Representatives of the Slovak National council, now in London, deny they want an autonomous regime or independent parliament.

They claim that the parties grouped in the national movement have reached an agreement among themselves and that the memorandum they submitted to the government in London has been formally approved by President Benes.

Want More than Pledge.

Settlement of the Russian-Polish dispute probably will have to wait until President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Premier Stalin meet. The Poles apparently insist that they be given something more "tangible" than verbal assurances if they accept the new Curzon line frontier suggested by Moscow.

[The Curzon line would push Poland's eastern border about 160 miles westward. It extends generally from Grodno thru Bialystok south to the Bug river and Brest Litovsk, thence to the Carpathian mountains.]

This means that not only will the Poles demand compensation and an adjustment of their western border but will demand that their independence and liberty be guaranteed by the "big three." Replying to a question in the house of commons Oct. 27, Churchill said: "Britain is prepared to join in such a guarantee with Russia but I cannot, however, speak for America."

Polish quarters here are said to be pinning high hopes on a more active participation in the Russian-Polish feud by the American government, now that the election is over.

Iran Stands Pat.

Competent observers here do not believe that the resignation of M. Mohamed Saed as Iran's prime minister will end the Iranian oil crisis or result in any radical change in Iranian policy. Nor is it believed Iran's government is likely to withdraw its refusal to grant the Russian request for oil concessions until the war is over.

Moscow now is accusing the Iran government of having—contrary to its official attitude of not granting oil concessions to foreigners for the duration of the war—granted concessions to American companies not only in southern, but also in northern Iran. This is the area in which soviet oil experts are said to take a keen interest.

Altho this allegation is neither confirmed nor denied by Washington, the Russian foreign office has sent a note to the Teheran government accusing it of a breach of the Russo-Iran treaty of 1921.

PROTESTS PLAN OF SENATORS TO WRECK GERMANY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.] tonight said a senate military subcommittee proposal to strip Germany of much of her industry might serve to bolster a Nazi resistance in the war.

Revercomb, a member of the subcommittee, disclosed he had not signed the group's report, which was made public yesterday. He called its issuance "untimely and unfortunate," and said it would bring no benefits to the allied cause.

Comparing the proposal to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's plan to reduce Germany to an agricultural state, Revercomb said he believed "the armament industries of the enemy must be eliminated but there is no purpose to be gained by taking away from them the means of making a peaceful living."

BRITISH IMPERIALS CLOSING IN ON JAPS' BURMA SUPPLY BASE

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Nov. 13 (AP).—British imperials converged on two sides of Kalemyo, 55 miles inside the Burma border today, and brought the key Japanese supply center under shell fire.

Driving over the Chin hills into the Kabaw valley, Indians cleared the stockades, two strongpoints on the road east from Tiddim, and pushed to within 10 miles west of Kalemyo. East Africans driving south down the valley brought the town under fire of their guns.

In the Irrawaddy valley, 160 miles northeast, Chinese advanced to within seven miles of Bhamo in an attack from the northeast. The British 36th division pushed to within seven and a half miles of Naba junction, 60 miles to the west.

HITCH-HIKES TO AUSTRALIA AND BACK IN 2 WEEKS

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 13 (AP).—An unnamed Australian airman hitchhiked to Australia and back to Canada on his two weeks' furlough, arriving back at his station at Vulcan, Alta., with five hours to spare.

After hitch-hiking to Lethbridge, the story says, he went to the airport and mentioned to United States ferry command pilots he was headed for the United States and asked for suggestions. They flew him to San Diego and passed him along to fellow flyers.

The airman passed from one group of ferry pilots to another, landed in Australia, spent three days with his family, and United States airmen flew him back to North America. The distance he travelled equalled a trip around the world.

DONNELL CLINGS TO SLIM LEAD IN MISSOURI RACE

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 13 (AP). — Atty. Gen. Roy McKittrick faced an uphill fight for the United States senatorship tonight as Gov. Forrest C. Donnell clung to a lead of 3,843 votes with only about 23,000 absentees yet to be counted.

The slow going absentee count showed 33,918 for the Democratic attorney general and 28,623 for Donnell, a gain of 5,295 for McKittrick who was getting about 54 per cent of the mail vote. But the home vote, with only three normally Republican precincts missing, gave Donnell 736,186 to McKittrock's 727,048 for a Donnell lead of 9,138.

CHURCHILL AND DE GAULLE AGREE ON 3 BIG POINTS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE FRENCH 1ST ARMY, Nov. 13.—Prime Minister Churchill of Britain and Gen. de Gaulle, head of the French provisional government, came to the Belfort front today from Paris and drove thru heavy snowstorms on a visit to French units. They met Gen. De Lattre de Tassigny, commanding the French 1st army, and he accompanied them on a tour.

It was the first trip here for Churchill, who met all commanders of French divisions and received a briefing of the military situation.

See French Training Camp.

The visitors reviewed tanks and infantry at Camp Valdahon, a training ground 15 miles east of Besancon. The camp is now equipping and preparing French Forces of the Interior units for combat duty in the regular army.

As Churchill and De Gaulle arrived at Valdahon, they passed down a lane bordered on one side by American Sherman tanks, with which we have outfitted the French, and on the other side by infantrymen. The troops wore United States army helmets and overcoats and their weapons included American tommy guns.

F. F. I. Men Snap Into It.

The two leaders were impressed by a battalion of 1,000 soldiers who only a month ago had been recruits from the F. F. I. in Paris. The unit moved with precision.

Churchill's daughter, Capt. Mary Churchill, when asked if the prime minister had visited any American unit, said no, but "I believe my father may do so in the next few days."

Agree on 3 Issues.

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—Agreements on three important issues were reached over the week-end by Prime Minister Churchill of Britain and Gen. De Gaulle, it was reliably reported tonight. The decisions were for demilitarization of the Saar, with France in control of the mines, as was done after the last World war; full participation by France in the post-war development of Europe, and the speedy rearmament of the French army.

[German radio reports of an Armistice day attempt to assassinate Churchill and De Gaulle as they were riding in the Champs-Elysees were laughed off at Paris as a propaganda attempt to make the German home front believe life in Paris was worse than in Berlin.]

Plan Speedy Rearming.

Churchill and De Gaulle were reported agreed that a strong French fighting force should be equipped as quickly as possible and that the French should participate in the military occupation of Germany along with the British, Russians, and Americans.

It was generally believed that as soon as equipment was available the De Gaulle government would issue new calls for military service.

[Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain has returned to London from Paris, it was announced.]

France Orders Arrest of Man Who Would Be Nation's King

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The count of Paris, pretender to the throne of France, has been ordered arrested at Perpignan near the Spanish border, it was announced tonight.

Count of Paris.

Under French laws, the count of Paris and all members of the royalist Bourbon family are forbidden access to the soil of France. The Bourbons usually reside in Sicily or North Africa.

Ministry's Announcement.

The ministry of interior of Gen. De Gaulle's provisional government said:

"According to information, which seems to be well founded, the count of Paris recently returned to France. He is said to have been wounded at Perpignan. The French department of justice has begun the process against infraction of the law, which prohibits the head of any royal family having reigned in France to live in France, and the decree law of April 6, 1940, which prohibits illegal crossing of the French frontier.

"The minister of the interior ordered the regional police commissioner to arrest the count of Paris and to imprison him in the state prison."

Royalist Movement Exists.

A strong royalist movement, tho of limited adherents, is known to exist in France. The royalist movement was headed until June of this summer by Charles Maurras, editor of the newspaper Action Francaise.

After France's liberation, Maurras was arrested. His paper was suppressed. He was charged with having sympathy with the Vichy government.

The count of Paris was in North Africa at the time of the assassination of Adm. Darlan, and his family had lived there for half a century. He later went to Spanish Morocco. The De Gaulle administration has said the count would be arrested if he returned to France.

HOME LOOTED OF JEWELRY, CLOTHING.

Edwin Pentland, 6033 N. Maplewood av., yesterday told police thieves broke into his home and stole jewelry, clothing, and a shotgun, all valued at $350, and $31 in cash.

He added at his news conference he had received a number of oral responses in addition to formal memoranda submitted by Venezuela and Uruguay and considered all analytical and helpful.

HOOSIER KEEPS COFFEE HOT FOR YANKS AT FRONT

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN,
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 13.—Less than 1,000 yards from the Vosges front line in this time of snow and rain there is a warm oasis, fragrant with the aroma of coffee and well cooked foods. It is a mess kept open every hour of the day and night and presided over by Sgt. Woodrow Howe, Oristow, Ind., the cook, and his assistant, Pvt. Merle A. Anderson, Assumption, Ill.

Others on duty there are Pvt. Walter Holevinski of New York City and Pvt. Elisee Dutil, Lewistown, Me. Dutil speaks French and does all the bargaining with the natives for potatoes, eggs, and fresh vegetables. "This mess essentially is for staff officers and other officers visiting our regiment," Howe explained. "But no combat rifleman is ever turned down if he comes in for a snack.

"We have fresh meat whenever we can close a deal for a calf or a young pig. Once we bought a calf and had it all ready for butchering when the Germans zeroed in with their big guns. The calf, frightened, took off. We chased her down and with the assistance of our commanding officer we did a professional job of cutting her up during the artillery barrage."

TAVERN ROBBED OF WHISKY.

Burglars yesterday broke into Martin Duke's tavern at 5012 Diversey av., took 24 bottles of whisky valued at $72, and an unknown sum of money from the jukebox.

Fresh orange rolls—perky salads,
Meats and fish that get ya.
Good? Our dinners?? Betcha!

SUGAR TO MEET NEW STAMP HELD AMPLE BY DIRECTOR OF OPA

Chicago stores are expected to have enough sugar to meet the demand when sugar stamp 34 in war ration book 4 becomes valid for five pounds Thursday, Marion W. Isbell, area office of price administration director, said yesterday. The stamp will be good indefinitely, as are stamps 30, 31, 32, and 33. Isbell said the supply "is not yet full," but is not as short as it is reported to be in New York.

The OPA said yesterday in Washington, D. C., that lower retail prices probably will prevail for all canned or processed minor fruits, berries, and vegetables of the 1944 crop, except sweet cherries and tomato products. New methods by which processors will calculate their ceiling prices were outlined by the OPA. They will result in prices about the same as in 1943 for tomato products, and somewhat higher prices for sweet cherries, because of higher raw fruit costs, the OPA added.

MEXICAN PARTY LEADER DEFIES OUSTER ORDER

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13 (AP).—Dismissal of Manuel Torres Bueno as head of the Sinarquist union, Rightist party with a large Catholic and peasant following, was announced today in a "bulletin" of the organization's "supreme council."

"Torres Bueno has declined to give up his post, and has fortified himself in the central offices, disposed to resist the orders of the supreme council, which until now had always been respected," the statement added.

The council charged that Torres Bueno had dismissed his principal chiefs. It blamed him for discontinuance of "The Sinarquista," the official organ.

TWO U. S. JAPS GIVE LIVES FOR AMERICA, 'A DAMN FINE' NATION

Belmont, Mass., Nov. 13 (AP).—"America is a damn good country, and don't let any one tell you otherwise."

That's an excerpt from George Saito's letter to his father, Kiichi, a Japanese butler, after another son of the family, Calvin, had been killed in action in Italy on July 7.

Three months later George also died in action in France.

They were two of the first five Japanese-Americans at the Amache, Colo., relocation camp to volunteer for army service in 1943.

Still another son, Shozo, is in military service.

Kiichi's fourth son, Kazuo, is a war worker in Chicago.

JAP TRANSPORT PLANE IS BAGGED ON THE BOUNCE

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE ISLAND, P. I., Nov. 13.—Navy bombers striking at Luzon from Leyte today had to their credit their first kill in the Manila area—a two motored transport plane. Lt. Richard Umphrey, Oak Grove, Ore., a navy flyer and veteran of Guadalcanal, said the plane went down at sea with its full load of passengers.

Umphrey was flying at 1,000 feet returning from a mission. "We came up under her and my turret gunner took some shots at her," he said. "We rolled even and saw frightened faces at the window. Then we climbed over her and the turret gunner fired some bursts.

"One engine caught fire and the co-pilot was killed, but the plane kept on till we made a run from the sky and hit her with our nose gun. The plane glided towards the sea. We thought she was finished, but instead one wing dipped into the water and spray shot back, putting out the fire, and then—I know it's unbelievable — the plane bounced into the air and began to fly. If the pilot dipped that wing on purpose, it's as pretty a piece of flying as I ever hope to see. We came on her and virtually cut her in half. This time she fell for good."

Meteor Probably Caused Blinding Flash in Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 13 (AP).—Dominion observatory officials today said a blinding flash reported in the North Bay, Ont., district early this morning possibly was caused by a meteor and not some German robot weapon.

HITS OPTIMISTS WHO THINK WAR WILL END SOON

The war in Europe won't end as quickly as some optimists think, and the Pacific struggle will last at least two more years, Brig. Gen. Percy J. Carroll, commanding officer of Vaughan General hospital at Hines, told members of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion yesterday at Sherman hotel.

Gen. Carroll, who recently took charge of the hospital, was chief surgeon of American forces in the South Pacific and far east before returning to this country in December, 1943. He was in command of Sternberg General hospital in Manila when the Japanese invaded the Philippines, and successfully evacuated the wounded from Manila to Australia.

Allied troops won't land in Japan until they have defeated the Japs in China, Gen. Carroll said. Such an operation, he said, will require several million men. With this situation confronting us, complacency has no place on the home front, he warned.

STORY OF A LADY WHO OFTEN SEES SELF IN PAPER

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 13.—You've seen pictures of landing ships, transport, LST 386, many times in many poses from training maneuvers to real action under fire. When this type of craft was still on the secret list, LST 386 was a guinea pig for landings and beachings in the United States. The first official releases showed the ship disgorging troops, tanks, and motor vehicles on beaching maneuvers in the United States, and since then it has had a large number of "firsts" to its credit.

Commanded by a Swede from Minnesota, LST 386 is manned mostly by middle westerners, including many Chicagoans. Most of them, including the captain, had no experience at sea or on ships until after America entered the war. Despite this they have conducted themselves under enemy fire like veterans and have received five combat stars for bravery and seamanship under fire.

First in Africa.

LST 386 was the first LST in African waters, the first to use a pontoon causeway for landing troops and tanks, the first to carry and launch her own aircraft, and first on the beaches of Sicily and Salerno.

Altho out of action for four months after being struck by a floating mine at Salerno, she has carried 31 combat loads up to fighting fronts—11 to Anzio, four to Sicily, one to Salerno, 14 to Normandy, and one to North Africa from the United States via Bermuda.

LST 386 now is continuing to pour tanks, bulldozers, vehicles, and troops onto French beaches. A Tribune correspondent crossed the channel on her yesterday, driving a car, which was brought from France in 1940, into the nose and then off on the French beach. While the tide was running out, two bulldozers constructed a gravel roadway up the steep embankment of the beach. It was sufficiently firm to support the heaviest tanks and motor vehicles.

In 386's Crew.

Among Chicagoans in 386's crew are Boatswain Peter Ventrelli, 4911 Melrose st., Seaman Ronald Schultz, 1804 Lowell av., Signalman Daniel Burns, 5730 Emerald av., Machinist Joseph Cohen, 5486 Greenwood av., and Eddie Polozynski, 8714 Houston av.

Other midwesterners in the crew include Machinist Murel Vincent, who left a farm at Loyal, Wis., to become a sailor; Boatswain's Mate Wilfred Millad, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Machinist Karrel D. Boarman, Muskegon, Mich.; Ivan W. Babbitt, Morocco, Ind.; Roland Arnold, Belford, Ind.; Glen Longman, Brookville, O.; Allan H. Carley, 125 S. Main st., Crete, Ill.; Hans A. Schumacher, 506 Du Page st., Michigan City, Ind.; Robert H. Cruoch and Henry Dismen, both of Davenport, Ia.; Quartermaster Richard T. Hosking Jr., 818 Park av., Wilmette, Ill., and Lt. (j. g.) Paul Gilpin of Topeko, Kas., third mate.

Recall Toughest Hours.

These midwest home town boys, several just off farms, all regard the air raid on Anzio and the invasion of Salerno as their most thrilling experiences to date, altho they had a tough time, too, landing the first wave of invasion troops on Omaha beachhead in Normandy.

At Salerno the ship was commended for "unflinchingly landing your forces under heavy enemy shell fire and retracting under trying conditions."

Most of 386's crewmen are looking forward to going home and settling down after the war, but in the meantime 386 may get another job to do, in the Pacific. She is an obsolete model now but probably will be refitted and remodeled in the United States before continuing to the western Pacific.

SAWS AND TOOLS STOLEN.

Two electric saws with motors and four boxes of miscellaneous tools, valued at $550, were stolen from the James Burton company's storehouse at 830 Blackhawk st., William Wolder of 2619 Lakewood av., the foreman, reported to police yesterday.

NAVY TO PUT ON LANDING SHOWS, USING MARINES

Seven demonstrations of beach landings in which eight types of invasion craft will be used by a force of 300 marines will be given during the navy's "Pacific theater" exhibition at Navy pier, opening Saturday noon.

The first will be made at 3 p. m. next Sunday on the Foster av. beach. Other demonstrations will be Nov. 22, Foster, 3 p. m.; Nov. 24, Jackson park, 8 p. m.; Nov. 26, Foster, 3 p. m.; Nov. 29, Foster, 3 p. m.; Dec. 1, Foster, 8 p. m., and Dec. 3, Foster, 3 p. m.

The exhibition, given in conjunction with the 6th war loan, will be visited by several top ranking officers, headed by Adm. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet. Many spectacular demonstrations will be given by the navy, marine corps, and Coast Guard, including a sea rescue by a helicopter.

WORKER'S LEGS CRUSHED.

George Kobelak, 52, of 8734 S. Francisco av., a car inspector for the Wabash railroad, was found unconscious Sunday on the Wabash railroad tracks at 79th st. and Kedzie av. with both legs crushed. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital, where physicians said an amputation may be performed.

U. S. GROUP EYES CHICAGO-EUROPE AIRWAY DEMAND

Decision on Action at Conference Awaited.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

Gov. Green's request for the listing of a direct Chicago-to-Europe air service in the route plan presented by the United States delegation at the International Civil Aviation conference in the Stevens hotel here, brought the subject of air routes up for review in informal discussions of the American delegation, it was learned yesterday.

Some of the delegates began to re-examine the route plan brought here from Washington, D. C., by Adolf A. Berle Jr., chairman of the United States delegation and assistant secretary of state, on the basis of Gov. Green's statement that he was disappointed to find Chicago the terminus of only one international air line—the one to Tokyo.

CAB Responsibe for Plan.

Basically, the route plan Berle submitted on behalf of the American delegation is the one outlined by the civil aeronautics board in Washington last summer. Edward Warner, vice chairman of CAB and a member of the delegation here, was asked in a press conference yesterday why CAB had omitted a Chicago-Europe route.

He said that the question was not one for him to answer, because he had confined his discussions with newspaper men to "technical" aviation matters, but he said there had been some doubt about the "precise terminal" for international air lines in this country at the time CAB drafted its report.

Several members of the American delegation have been reading a book published by the Brookings Institution last month and written by J. Parker Van Zandt, which has just been placed on sale in the Stevens lobby. This volume, "Civil Aviation and Peace," is a penetrating research job into the past and future of international air transport.

Facts Based on Chicago.

The delegates, recalling Gov. Green's protest, find new interest in the fact that all of Van Zandt's tables on future air travel, fares, distances, hours, days saved over surface travel, and the like are based on take-off by air from Chicago. He remarks that he used Chicago "as a convenient central point of departure." New York, which is the European point of embarkation on most of the CAB routes, scarcely rates a mention.

The great circle route from Chicago to northern Ireland or London passes directly thru Goose Bay airport in Labrador, the only fog free, year 'round airport on that coast, whereas the New London route clears thru Botwood, Newfoundland, where thick weather is not uncommon.

Important Developments of Day.

Along with the new discussion of international air routes, these developments occupied the conference yesterday:

1. Berle and Philip Cunliffe-Lister, titled Viscount Swinton, chairman of the United Kingdom delegation, are still conferring in efforts to break the deadlock between British and American positions. The British want international control, but Berle has pledged the United States to complete freedom of the air. Rumors were current that the British may accept the United States stand.

2. The delegation from Eire declared that it intends to open a "customs free" airport and asked that the conference do nothing to prejudice this plan. Observers say this was notice that Eire intends to become a great terminal air center—not a way station on the American route to London.

Technical Issues Resolved.

3. Warner, CAB official, reported that the conference's technical subcommittees were about ready to agree on a preliminary draft for an international convention covering operating practices, standards, communications, and other technical matters.

4. Prime Minister Churchill's current visit to France was looked upon by some as an attempt to win that nation closer to Britain's orbit and away from America, and as a possible reason for the failure of the French delegation here to take definite sides.

5. The recent trans-Atlantic flight record set by a British Lancaster plane was considered by some Americans as no coincidence. These observers said it probably was timed to synchronize with the conference to demonstrate that America is not the only country where fast, transoceanic aircraft are built.

HUNDREDS OF BLOOD OFFERS FOR AURORA GIRL, 7, ARE MADE

Patricia Attaway, 7, a lymphatic leukemia blood disease patient in St. Charles hospital, Aurora, was offered blood transfusions yesterday by 50 persons who visited the hospital and several hundred more who telephoned, many of them from Chicago.

The child, a student at St. Joseph's Parochial school in Aurora, became ill three weeks ago. Her mother, Florence, of 617 Cleveland av., Aurora, appealed to the Red Cross to find donors of blood of types A or 2.

Efforts to communicate with Patricia's father, a navy Seabee in the South Pacific, still were unsuccessful, altho the Red Cross received a report that he may have started home on a routine leave. Mrs. Attaway said she hopes Patricia may regain strength if her father returns.

2 TRIBUNE MEN BACK BRIEFLY FROM WAR JOBS

Two Tribune reporters on military leave, holding the rank of naval ensigns, arrived in the city yesterday. Ensign Jack Foster came to visit his wife, Joan, and daughter, Anne Carol, who was born after he left for England 22 months ago as naval correspondent for Stars and Stripes. Foster, who received his commission recently, covered the Normandy invasion for the service men's paper and later reported the battles of St. Malo and Brest.

Ensign Foster.

Ensign Norman.

Foster, since being commissioned, has been assigned to the office of deputy chief of naval operations in Washington, D. C. In his last weeks in London, Foster said, he had been near-by when several of the Nazis' V-2 bombs dropped.

Ensign Lloyd Norman, former Washington correspondent, was en route to an undisclosed fleet center for reassignment after serving as gunnery and navigation officer aboard a minesweeper in the North Atlantic. In his months' patrol duty, there had been only one scare — when a companion ship's instruments detected a submarine that escaped without surfacing, he said.

RADIO INVASION FROM MARS STIRS PANIC IN CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13 (AP).—At least one death from a heart attack and injuries to several persons were attributed today to the panic caused by Chile's radio "invasion fr .n Mars" last night. The broadcast upset this country just as the radio show on the same subject produced by Orson Welles did the United States in October, 1938.

An adaptation of the Welles broadcast, based on the H. G. Wells story, "Wars of the Worlds," was broadcast by a Santiago station.

STATE NAMES 6 TO FIGHT FOR CITY'S AIR AIMS

Six prominent Chicagoans who for more than three years have studied air routes from Chicago to all parts of the world via the great circle lines, agreed yesterday to act as a committee to lay the city's claims before the International Civil Aviation conference in the Stevens hotel.

Asked by Ben Regan, chairman of the Illinois aeronautic commission, to form the committee, the members said they would at once get together and lay their proposals before the conference within the next few days. They are Robert Kingery, engineer, executive director of the Chicago Regional Planning association; L. E. Leverone, former president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce; H. L. Stuart, broker, chairman of aviation for the Commercial club; Paul H. Davis, chairman of the aviation legislation committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Merrill C. Meigs, chairman of the Chicago aero commission, and Ralph Burke, representing Mayor Kelly.

Chicago National Air Hub.

The action grew out of a request by Gov. Green that the American delegation reconsider international air routes submitted to the conference last week, and include recommendation for one from Chicago to Europe via Goose Bay airport in Labrador.

Regan pointed out that the United States delegation must be impressed with the fact that Chicago is the natural air hub for all the vast territory between the Alleghenies and the Rockies from the standpoint of the great circle routes over "top of the world."

City a Production Center.

Kingery said: "Chicago unquestionably is a production center from which tremendous shipments in mail, passengers, and materials will in the near future be most quickly and economically flown to all the great centers of Europe and Asia.

"Visualized in terms of the great circle routes, Chicago, for instance, is only 4,485 miles from Berlin, which is 4,200 miles from New York; Chicago to London is 3,990 miles, while New York to London by air is 3,475 miles."

Ready to Press Claims.

Kingery, chairman of the new committee, said he believes the air conference must take Chicago's hub position into consideration. He pointed out that any certificate granted for an air route by the civil areonautics board already includes Chicago as a port of entry, to be operated under the customs.

"That alone is a big point in the city's favor," the engineer said. The committee, he added, has routes, maps showing mileage, all the facts, ready to lay before the conference.

All Members Are Experts.

Regan pointed out that all the new committee members are experts on the subject of Chicago-great circle air routes.

"These men," Regan said, "have been studying the great circle routes for more than three years."

Meanwhile, A. F. Heino, member of the Chicago airport terminal committee for United Air Lines, announced that all the air lines are in agreement on the kind of new terminal they want at the Chicago airport. He said it remains only for the city engineers to pass on the plan.

FLIGHT 25 YEARS AGO TODAY LED TO AIR EXPRESS

Today is the 25th anniversary of the first major experimental air cargo flight in the United States. During the day 206 such flights will enter and leave Chicago, and thousands of others will operate from 375 other airports in the United States and Canada.

E. S. Buckmaster, superintendent of the air express division of the Railway Express agency, said yesterday that 50,970 air shipments have been carried from January thru August this year, an increase of 12.3 per cent over the same period last year, when the figure was 223,338.

"It was early the morning of Nov. 14, 1919, Buckmaster said, "that a [then] huge four motored Handley-Page bomber took off from Mitchell field, N. Y., for Chicago with 28,000 pounds weight aboard, much of it merchandise. The flight had been projected as a nonstop one. After eight hours, however, the pilots encountered strong head winds and a forced landing was made at Mount Jewett, Pa.

"The express packages were then loaded on the first westbound train and thus was started the coördinated air-rail service, which has since grown so that 23,000 nonair cities and towns are serviced by it from 375 others where it may be loaded by air and transferred to rails."

How many lies will he have to live through?

It has been said that truth can make men free. And it will.

You have seen it in your lifetime and you will see it still more in your son's—human progress is directly related to the number of times the average man must stumble over a lie, pick himself up, dust himself off, and go forward once more.

For the lies men live through are by no means all deliberate. A lie is simply an untruth. And truth is hard to come by. Truth is more than fact—it is fact plus what it means.

Thus accident, or carelessness, or even incompleteness in handling news can result in untruth in the minds of men.

Here in America, a magnificent and fearless working press ranges your world on the everlasting qui vive to pick up the world's news and spread it before you.

Newsweek, as its part in this task, is dedicated to helping you grasp the news as well as get it—to helping you know the truth in your world as fully and completely as human vigilance can bring it to you.

FILIPINOS PLUG BULLET HOLES IN VILLAGE SCHOOL

Recall Town's Attack on Jap Garrison.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LILOAN, Leyte Island, Nov. 13.—This village at the southern tip of Leyte today began plugging up the bullet holes in its three school buildings, proudly recalling the day last March when the citizens attacked the Jap garrison.

Our PT boats stopped at the half ruined village at dawn on the way home from a night patrol in Ormoc bay. Virtually every one in the barrio [village] came down to the dock to greet us. The three school buildings were the pride of the town. They were large frame structures which had been a gleaming white until the Japs smeared them with brown paint as a camouflage.

Aided by Other Villages.

The section between the schools and the wharfs was where the town's best houses were—homes of the mayor, the traders, and the police magistrates. Now it is just a mass of empty foundations.

Talking all at once, the Liloan people told us how one day when they could tolerate the Japs no longer, they called in the folks from other villages. The Escanos, a wealthy Spanish family, sent one of their sons to help lead an attack on the invaders.

Sixty Japs garrisoned Liloan. When the revolt started most of them were on a hill behind the school buildings. They retreated to the school which had been preempted as Jap headquarters. All day the citizens peppered the buildings. The Japs radioed for help, and toward evening bancas [Philippine Islands sailboats] carrying 64 Jap soldiers started thru a 100 yard wide strait leading into Liloan harbor. The Filipinos waylaid them, sank the bancas, and killed all the Japs. In the town the battle continued thru the night.

Retire to the Hills.

In the morning Jap gunboats entered the harbor and the citizens retired to the hills. The boats shelled the town, then several hundred Japs came ashore. For days the Japs scoured the hills and killed the first 19 men they found in retaliation for the 30 Japs killed in the school.

From March until the Americans landed on Leyte, Liloan was virtually a ghost town. The Jap garrison was pulled out almost at once when the Americans came and Liloan came back to life, so today the citizens started cleaning up the wreckage of the Jap occupation.

Any day now the schools will reopen as schools, not as forts to protect the conquerors from the wrath of the people.

COURT TO TAKE WEEK TO STUDY DORIS DUKE SUIT

Reno, Nev., Nov. 13 (AP).—Judge William McKnight of Washoe County court ruled today that he would take until next Monday to read the depositions in Doris Duke Cromwell's legal action to outlaw a New Jersey court ruling that her Nevada divorce was void.

She instituted action here to have the Nevada court reaffirm its decision granting her a divorce from James H. R. Cromwell, former United States minister to Canada.

Judge McKnight explained that the depositions could not be entered as evidence until he had read them. He said it would take him a week to read them, as one of the 54 depositions contained 300 pages.

Mrs. Cromwell has sought to prove she is a bona fide resident of Nevada, contrary to the ruling of the New Jersey Chancery court.

In New York Cromwell said, in a statement, that the reopening of the case is "purely for smear purposes."

MRS. CLARENCE KOVIANEK.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Clarence Gilbert Kovianek, 16, was ordered held under $5,000 bond today by United States Commissioner R. Beverly Sloan on a federal warrant charging kidnaping.

Mrs. Kovianek, who told the commissioner "There's no sense in pleading not guilty, because I did it," was taken into custody in Raleigh, N. C., Saturday with 19 month old Janice Ruth Peacock, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. E. T. Peacock, formerly of Billings, Mont.

Sloan said he would enter a plea of innocence for her, but Mrs. Kovianek asked, "Are you trying to make a liar out of me by saying I didn't do it when I did?"

Police Chief L. J. Campbell quoted the young woman as saying she took the baby "because she favored my husband and I loved her the first time I saw her." She said her marine husband was stationed in the Pacific area.

MISS BARRYMORE REPORTED TO BE MUCH IMPROVED

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Actress Ethel Barrymore was reported by her physician early tonight to be "much improved," after being taken to the Flower Fifth Avenue hospital earlier in the day because of congestion of the lungs.

Dr. Louis Rene Kaufman this morning said the noted actress, 65, was suffering from "pneumonia and a cardiac condition." Later at the hospital, however, this statement was issued:

"Increased congestion of the lungs. No evidence of pneumonia. Heart satisfactory."

Miss Barrymore missed her first New York performance in 50 years last Friday night when she became ill. All performances of "Embezzled Heaven," in which she was appearing, were canceled pending her return.

TRIBUNE RAPS U. S. AP THEORY AS 'GROUNDLESS'

Brief Hits at 'New' Law of Justice Department.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE told the Supreme court today that the justice department advanced a new and groundless theory of law in its civil anti-trust suit against the Associated Press.

THE TRIBUNE made the contention in a reply to a department brief presented earlier. The government brief supported a lower court decree which would restrain AP from observing by-laws which permit members to consider the competitive effect of an application for membership.

THE TRIBUNE, among the newspaper defendants in the government action, said the justice department brief advanced a new theory which the lower court had rejected.

Theory Is Outlined.

This theory, THE TRIBUNE said, is that the AP and its member newspapers illegally restrained trade by agreeing to gather, distribute, and interchange news jointly and collectively and to deny to competing newspapers what the government termed "opportunity to participate in the advantages in trade derived from such collective action."

"Such collective action, the government repeatedly asserts, illegally restrains trade because the parties to the agreement enjoy a 'trade advantage' over a newspaper not a party," THE TRIBUNE stated. "This principle is clearly a recent invention without foundation.

Recalls 1915 Theory.

THE TRIBUNE recalled that the attorney general of the United States in 1915 stated: "It is no violation of the anti-trust act for a group of newspapers to form an association to collect and distribute news for their common benefit, and to that end to agree to furnish news collected by them only to each other or to the association."

The "new principle" if correct, THE TRIBUNE said, would not be limited to the news industry; it would embrace all fields.

The Supreme court has set Dec. 5 for oral argument on appeals by AP and the government from the lower court's ruling. The case originally was set for hearing today, but was postponed because of illness in the family of one of the attorneys.

G. I. PAPER SAYS WE DON'T GIVE ENOUGH BLOOD

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—The army newspaper Stars and Stripes in an editorial today said "There just isn't enough blood being given by the folks back home" for the blood bank in the European theater of operations.

Under the editorial headlined "It takes blood to win a war," appeared a picture of British girls donating blood with the caption: "Stack this against what medical headquarters reports about blood shipments from the United States to the E. T. O. [European theater of operations]. The editorial said doctors have a quota of five pints of blood for every G. I. in combat and thus far they have been able to store up only two pints for every man in action.

"For the lack of that blood—some suffering G. I.—many suffering G. I.'s—will die," it added. "Strangely enough blood donations in the United States rise when the war news is bad and fall when it gets good. But when the war news is good is when the blood is needed, because it takes blood—lots of blood—to make it good. All honor to these patriotic British girls. American patriots please copy."

DRUGGISTS TELL OPA WHO GETS THEIR CIGARETS

Blame Black Market and High Pay Outlets.

Southwest Drug company, Inc., 2535 W. 63d st., a vice president of the Retail Druggists' association, told Bradley he formerly purchased cigarets at a 10 per cent discount from a jobber in Blue Island, but that since the cigaret shortage the jobber has refused to sell him any cigarets, preferring to dispose of them to customers at smaller discounts.

Turns Thumbs Down.

Bradley likewise turned thumbs down on a suggestion by several druggists that cigarets be rationed to equalize their distribution. He said the OPA has no rationing powers of its own, but merely exercises such powers delegated by other agencies. He suggested that the druggists carry their problem to the war food administration.

The druggists said they will poll their members on the volume of cigarets now being received, in comparison with last year, and give the results to George B. Haddock, special assistant attorney general engaged in anti-trust cases.

Earlier in the day, the OPA filed suit in Circuit court to enjoin James Karos, owner of the Town Club tavern, 9157 Commercial av., from selling cigarets above ceiling prices. The suit alleges he has sold cigarets at $2.10 a carton.

GOUGE ON MEAT COSTS DEALER $3,899 VERDICT

Judgment for $3,899.28 against John Puzauskis, 6559 S. Campbell av., charged with over-ceiling sales of meat on his distribution route, was granted the office of price administration yesterday before Judge Barnes in federal District court. An injunction to restrain further selling above the legal maximum was granted. Judgment for $264.18 was granted against Emil Kahn & Co., 79 South Water market. Judge Barnes also granted an injunction to restrain the firm from further over-ceiling sales of poultry, potatoes, onions, lettuce, apples, and strawberries. Tie-in sales and side payments were charged by OPA.

Name Jury for Retrial of Accused Rapist, Thief

A jury of eight women and four men was sworn in yesterday before Judge John Prystalski in Criminal court for a trial to determine the sanity of Irwin Kadens, former soldier and postoffice clerk who was sent to the Menard state hospital in 1942 after he had been indicted on rape and robbery charges. A month ago another jury failed to agree on a verdict in his case.

TRAIN CARRIES A BUS 900 FEET; CROWD MENACED

Persons waiting on the Chicago and North Western railway station platform in Des Plaines dispersed last night when they heard a crash and then saw a big United Motor Coach company bus hurtling toward them on the pilot of an east bound limited passenger locomotive.

Before the train stopped in the station, the moving wreck smashed a fence between north and south bound rails and scattered pickets like arrows in all directions. Every one in the vicinity escaped injury, including Francis Morrison, 2127 Miner st., the bus driver, who jumped out when his empty vehicle stalled on the Graceland av. crossing, 900 feet west of the station.

Morrison and Policeman Byron Foote and Edwin Meyer, who helped him try to get the bus out of the way, ran up the track several blocks to flag the engineer, but he did not see them soon enough to avert the collision.

BLOOD BANK LAG IS SET AT 3 PINTS ON EACH FIGHTER

Three more pints of blood for each fighting man are needed by American front line troops on battlefields thruout the world, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, head of the department of physiology at Northwestern University Medical school, yesterday told members of the City club at a luncheon meeting in the LaSalle hotel. Present blood shipments, he said, are approximating 2 pints for each man. Five are needed for the blood bank reserve.

In connection with Dr. Ivy's disclosures and a recent editorial in the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, which said "There just isn't enough blood being given by the folks back home," the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross in charge of the local blood bank yesterday announced it was up on its quota of 2,500 pints a week.

This quota, blood bank officials said, had "slumped" several weeks ago but now had returned to normal after an increase in donors.

TRIAL DELAYED FOR 4 ACCUSED OF $58 ROBBERY

Charges of assault and robbery against four men in Boys' court were continued yesterday until Dec. 6 by Judge N. J. Bonelli to permit further preparation of the case. Under $200 bonds are Robert Hollriegel, 34, 2708 Normal av.; Robert Soapes, 17, 2616 Normal av.; Edward R. Flynn, 457 W. 28th st., and Arthur D. Welch, 2722 Normal av.

While Chicago basked in sunny, springlike weather yesterday with a high temperature of 67.6 degrees, snow fell in the mountains around Los Angeles, Cal., where the maximum temperature was only 57 degrees and the minimum was 47, the United States weather bureau reported. The highest temperature on record on Nov. 13 in Chicago was 70 degrees in 1909, the bureau said. Scattered showers fell in Chicago last night, and the outlook was for cloudy weather with occasional showers and a high temperature of about 68 degrees today.

HOW THE Jitterbug WAS BORN...
It was a typical Manhattan dance-hall. Gay bunting hung in folds from the ceiling and from the walls. In the center of the room, a mirrored chandelier revolved scattering reflections on the dancers below. A jazz orchestra beat out the popular tune of the day . .
Over in the corner, a dancing couple was getting a lot of attention. Their dancing was completely different . . . foot work and body gyrations were set to the fast, jazz tempo. Some times, the couple broke apart . . . each partner dancing alone. A new, revolutionary style of dancing was born! It was 1927, the year of Lindbergh's epic flight. Someone gave the new dance a name . . . the Lindy Hop.
The Lindy traveled all over the country. In many places it was called the "Jitterbug." Gradually, it picked up the steps of Mooch, Sugar, Charleston, Shag, and Suzy-Q. Finally when "swing" music hit its real stride, the Lindy burst forth in America's night clubs.
Today, the current version of the Lindy, or Jitterbug, is smart everywhere. The acrobatic routines have been taken out, so it has become a smooth, stylized dance, perfectly suited to the modern dance music of today—and danced by everyone, regardless of age.
Jitterbug steps and routines are not difficult to master. A free trial lesson at the Dale Dance Studios will show you how quickly you can learn them. Private Studios are open seven days a week for your convenience.

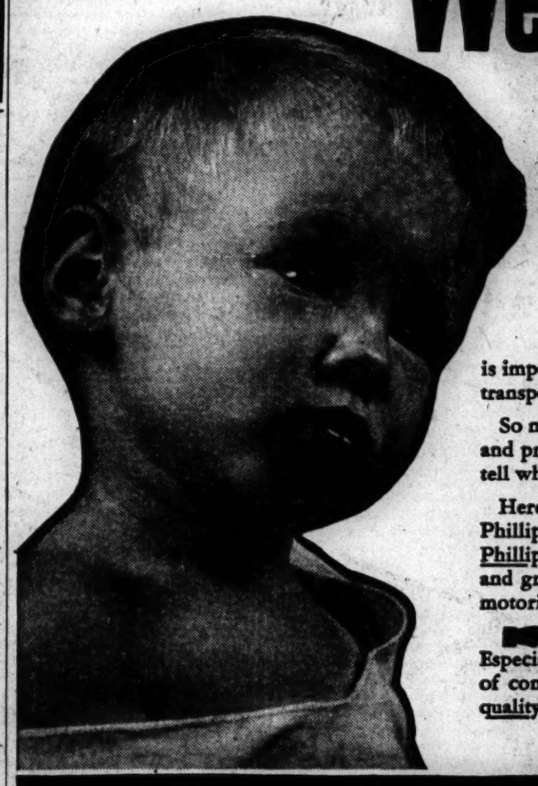
We used to ride a lot


Wistful young America may not be able to understand why those long, lovely rides in the country are now only a memory.
But their patriotic fathers, meeting the necessity for conserving gasoline and for prolonging the life of tires and cars, have reduced their driving to a minimum. They know that "Care for your car—For your country" is more than a slogan, that such care is important lest the nation face a wartime crisis in domestic transportation.
So now, more than ever, they want a quality oil to preserve and protect their motors. Their only question is: How can I tell which are the quality oils.
Here is one easy answer, in a very frank statement by Phillips: If you want our best oil, remember we specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality . . . the highest grade and greatest value . . . among all the oils we offer to average motorists.
Experts recommend changing oil every two months. Especially, don't neglect the seasonal change this fall. Get rid of contaminated, summer-thin oil. Drain and refill with a quality lubricant. Ask for Phillips 66 Motor Oil.

3 NEW ARRESTS SOLVE MURDER, POLICE ASSERT

Confession Is Announced in Michigan City.

Chief of Police Wolf of Michigan City disclosed yesterday that three new suspects had been arrested in the slaying Sept. 24 of Harry Akchevon, 48, of Joliet, reputed bodyguard of George Nahas, 44, Michigan City gambling czar, who was wounded by three masked gunmen when ambushed in his home.

One suspect has confessed, implicating the two other men, Chief Wolf said, and state police now are dragging the White river near Indianapolis where the men, all ex-convicts, said they threw the murder weapon with watches and trinkets they picked up while waiting in Nahas' home for his return.

Earlier Suspect Confesses.

Meanwhile, three other men, previously charged with the murder, are being held by Michigan City police. Chief Wolf asserted the new suspects committed the crime, tho Nahas "positively identified" the first trio and a murder confession was signed by one of them.

On Friday, as the result of an anonymous telephone call, Indiana police arrested Lloyd Mantell, 26, who lives outside the South Bend city limits. Mantell confessed the murder and implicated John Francis Hanrahan, 27, of Indianapolis, and Robert Brown, 34, of Niles, Mich.

Police Tell Confession.

According to Wolf, Mantell told this story: He and the other two men started for the Nahas home from Niles with the idea of robbing the gambling czar; that Hanrahan got into the house thru the basement and then admitted the other two; that while going thru the house, they discovered Nahas' 11 year old son, George Jr., whom they bound and gagged; that when Nahas returned with his wife and Akchevoun at 2 a. m. and turned on the lights, Hanrahan fired the shots that killed the bodyguard and wounded Nahas.

Nahas will not view the new suspects, Chief Wolf said, until the Indianapolis search for the gun is ended. The police quoted Mantell as saying the weapon belonged to Nahas and was found in the house.

A grand jury session set for today to hear evidence against the first trio arrested was postponed. The first men held were Leroy Swathwood, 24; Carl Henry Nichols, 21, and Marcellus Harry Headley, 33, all of Ekhart, Ind.

Marital Tangle

Atty. Gabriel Goldberg, who appeared before three judges Saturday attempting to obtain a divorce for Pvt. Charles Adams from his second wife, was rebuked by Superior Judge John A. Sbarbaro yesterday for "unethical conduct" and was forbidden to practice again in his courtroom.

Judge Sbarbaro, the third judge visited Saturday by Goldberg, was about to grant the decree to Adams, 27, of 1440 N. Wood st., when he learned the divorce petition had been denied 10 minutes earlier by Judge John P. McGoorty in Superior court. Goldberg had taken Adams before Judge Joseph Sabath before he called on Judge McGoorty. Judge Sabath did not have time to hear the case, and Judge McGoorty said the evidence was not sufficient.

Adams offered additional evidence of cruelty when he appeared before Judge Sbarbaro, who said yesterday he will study the case. Adams said he wants the divorce from his second wife, Harriett, 24, of 2135 N. Halsted st., to remarry his first wife, Thelma, 24.

Goldberg said Harriett wants to be remarried to her first husband, a soldier who is overseas.

SAYS MISFITS USURP NEEDS OF 'REAL' SOLDIERS

L. R. Benston, director of rehabilitation of the Illinois American Legion, said yesterday that thousands of men who never should have entered military service are crowding facilities of veterans' hospitals that are needed for "real" soldiers. He blamed the induction system for the congestion.

Addressing a state conference on post-war education in the Stevens hotel, with 89 college presidents, deans, and other officials present, Benston declared many men, who were in the army only a few days until they were weeded out at induction centers, now have legal claim to all advantages offered by the veterans' administration. They are entitled to receive care as long as they need it, he pointed out.

Formal Discharges Given.

He said the induction system for this war was adopted over protests by the American Legion, which favored the World War I. system. Under that system, he said, a prospective inductee was given a "discharge from draft" when he failed to meet requirements and therefore never was regarded as having been a part of the army. Under the present system, he said, the rejected man must be discharged formally from the army or navy and the discharge paper entitles him to all veterans' benefits.

On the other hand, Benston said, many were rejected who would have made good soldiers.

Conservative estimates show that Illinois will have three times as many veterans in this war as in World War I. Already, Benston said, more than 18,000 are receiving compensation from the veterans' administration, compared with 17,000 for the last war.

Many Mental Disorders.

Forty-five per cent of the veterans discharged from this war have a nervous or mental disorder, Benston continued. C. E. Hostetler, vocational rehabilitation officer of the veterans' administration, said the job of rehabilitating World War II. veterans will be the same as after the last war, only bigger, and that better care is probable because more attention has been given the problem.

The Illinois Higher Education Survey commission, meeting in the La Salle hotel Sunday and Monday heard suggestions for the establishment of a state-wide system of junior colleges and for improved service by state teachers' colleges. The commission was authorized by the last general assembly to study the state's needs for higher education and to report at the coming general assembly.

Telephone equipment is fighting on every front

Wherever America's Army, Navy and Air Forces are fighting, there is telephone equipment a-plenty. For this is a war of fast movement . . . and victory demands fast communications.

Telephone equipment is being made here at home for fighting use overseas; in factories that in peacetime supply America's civilian telephone needs.

That is why there is now a shortage—and why you may have been asked to wait your turn for home telephone service.

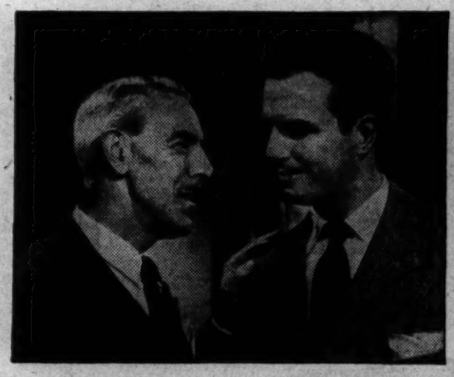
"Will Thompson and his brood are coming here for a visit, that's what's the matter!"

"... I grew up with him, from the time we were both six. He moved on here during the last war, and I got him a job at the plant. Wages were way up, and we all had money in our pockets.

"Trouble was, he couldn't keep his there. They spent it as fast as it came in—parties, extra shows, needless trips around the country. You'd have thought he'd got hold of a fortune, instead of a job.

"I told him he'd better save his money. 'This may not last,' I said. 'Things can be a lot different, after the war.' But he just laughed. 'Plenty more where this came from,' was his idea."

"Well, in 1918 the war boom ended, and the big money stopped coming in. I 'lent' him some to tide him over, and I've 'lent' him more since then. He could get along on what he makes, but he never saves any of it for emergencies.



"So that's why I say to you and everybody, Joe, take a tip from the Government and put your money in War Bonds, and life insurance, and a savings account. You may never again have as good an opportunity to build up a backlog."

ALBANY REGIME LIKENED TO THAT OF BOSS TWEED

Democrat Rule Termed 'Slimy Mess.'

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 13 [Special].—Supreme Court Justice Parton Swift, presiding over a case arising from the grand jury investigation of the Albany Democratic machine, today refused to strike from the record tapped telephone conversations indicating an improper link between Daniel P. O'Connell, local Democratic boss, and members of the Supreme court in this district.

Denial of the motion followed an assertion by Special Prosecutor George P. Monaghan that conditions in Albany county disclosed "one of the most shocking and slimy messes since the days of Boss Tweed."

Justice Swift reserved decision on a motion by Monaghan for a change of venue in the trial of John J. Murphy, chief aid to O'Connell, who is charged with the theft of party campaign contributions.

Monaghan cited the intercepted telephone talks, particularly one between O'Connell and Justice Gilbert V. Schenck, in support of his plea that a "fair and impartial trial could not be had in Albany county.

Venue Change Opposed.

Daniel H. Prior, counsel for Murphy, said the venue change was sought to transfer the trial to a county where some political leader might control the jury system.

Prior enlivened the proceedings by serving upon Monaghan an order and stay by Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray of Troy, requiring the prosecutor to show cause Nov. 17 why five of the indictments in the Albany investigation should not be quashed.

The indictments in question are against Michael T. Smith, Cohoes Democratic leader, charged with conspiracy; Daniel Willigan, head of an alleged policy ring in Albany; James Collins, charged with perjury; John Dougherty, Cohoes corporation counsel, charged with conspiracy; and Prior himself, charged with failure to file income tax returns.

Assails Orders.

Monaghan lashed out at the "show cause" orders, which were granted on an affidavit by Prior charging that the grand jury which returned the indictments was selected improperly.

"These orders," said Monaghan, "signed by 'our friend Bill,' constitute an illegal stay. They came from 'our friend Bill' after the disclosures in my affidavit of last Friday."

In the affidavit the name of Justice Murray was mentioned in connection with an alleged plan by Robert E. Whalen, Albany attorney, to "obstruct the investigation."

Late today Harris B. Steinberg, assistant to Monaghan, obtained from presiding Justice James P. Hill of the Appellate division an order vacating the stay by Justice Murray. Daniel O'Connell, in his reported telephone conversation with Schenck, is alleged to have referred to "that big bum Hill."

Denounces Hookup.

The special prosecutor asked the change of venue in Murphy's case because, he said, the jury system in Albany county is "packed with henchmen of the O'Connell organization"; the Democrats have "inflamed" the people from whom the jurors would be drawn, and "the slimy, corruptible hand of the organization is reaching up to the throat of justice itself."

Monaghan dwelt at length upon the alleged telephone conversation of last Jan. 18 in which Justice Schenck was quoted as reporting to O'Connell his efforts to swing some of his colleagues on the Appellate division to his side in a case arising from the investigation.

"We have the amazing spectacle," said Monaghan, "of an Appellate division justice breaking his neck to get off the bench to make a hurried report to the ex-convict political boss while the case is still before his court.

"Schenck certainly was in there slugging for old Dan that day. He wasn't pulling a punch trying to get that vote which would prevent an appeal to the Court of Appeals. And when the Court of Appeals sustained our position, there was another report to Overlord Dan by Schenck that 'If I'd gotten the little boy from Schoharie there never would have been an appeal.'"

The reference to the "boy from Schoharie" was assumed to mean Justice F. Walter Bliss of Schoharie county, a Democrat, who was defeated for reelection last Tuesday.

"It is one of the most shocking and slimy messes since the day of Boss Tweed. It makes me shudder to think a member of the bench can run off to report while a decision is still before his court."

Dismissal Motion Denied.

Monaghan asserted that Murphy was responsible for helping to pack the jury lists with stooges of the machine.

Justice Swift denied Prior's motion to dismiss the change of venue motion. Prior characterized Monaghan's statements as a "political speech."

He said the justices mentioned in the Monaghan affidavit are "not on trial here" and that the prosecutor was making statements in a forum where they were "helpless to intervene or utter a word of defense."

The affidavit filed by Monaghan accused Justices Francis Bergan, Harry E. Schirick, Schenck, and Murray, all Democrats, of "flouting" the "well recognized concepts of comity and judicial propriety."

Contends Proof Lacking.

Prior said no proof had been presented that the alleged conversations between O'Connell and Justice Schenck and between O'Connell and Whalen "ever took place."

"I move to strike from this affidavit," he said, "all statements as to conversations obtained by Gestapo methods. . . . How do we know this is not a framed conversation?"

Justice Swift denied the motion.

Both the state constitution and law permit wire tapping by public officials, provided they first obtain a court order. There is nothing in the statutes to prevent the use of evidence gathered by such tapping, provided it is corroborated by witnesses who can swear that the voices they heard were those of the persons specified.

Upheld by Supreme Court.

The United States Supreme court, in Olmstead vs. United States, has ruled that wire tapping evidence also is admissible in Federal courts and that such use is not violative of the 4th amendment to the federal Constitution.

Monaghan said the Albany county commissioner of jurors, Mrs. Elizabeth Pinckney, "owes her all to the O'Connell organization," that she didn't proceed under the law in selecting veniremen, and that she went to "somebody above the law, John J. Murphy."

"Political henchmen and ward heelers," he added, "visited her office and presented the names of friends who were safe for the organization. It is common knowledge in Albany that the jury list has been a source of political pap for years. The jury lists have been packed by henchmen of Dan O'Connell and of Murphy, the defendant."

HITLER IN DEFEAT.

Herr Hitler's failure to appear publicly in person to encourage the Germans in the defense of their soil has given rise to innumerable conjectures regarding his physical and mental condition, and even as to his present political status in the Nazi party. The party anniversary of the beer hall putsch went unobserved on the appropriate day, and in the delayed recognition of it, Sunday, Himmler of the Gestapo and Goebbels of the propaganda bureau substituted for the party chief. Some of the wilder rumors coming out thru neighboring neutral territory say that Himmler has taken over the leadership and cannot announce the change because of the effect it might have on German opinion and sentiment.

Hitler has always flattered himself publicly in his exhortations on his resoluteness and his indomitability. However, he is known to be of an unstable nature, which requires an excess of emotion to function as a public speaker. His habits of life are those of a border line character, at the best. Even when his star was rising and the portents were all favorable he needed frenzies for self-expression.

Only a very queer fish would have built the rock tunneled eagle's nest which so astonished Francois Poncet, the French ambassador, who was one of the few aliens ever to see the mountain aerie which Hitler's engineers fashioned for him and which armed men guarded at every avenue of approach. That Hitler should have gone out of his head as the result of his military reverses, the bursting of his imperial dreams, the collapse of his allies, and the approach of his destiny is quite credible. If he should be at this time raving in the collapse of megalomania it would not be an untoward event.

Normally, it might be expected that one of his ruthless and ambitious associates, notably Goering, in one camp, or Himmler, in the other, would step into his place and take over. Against this probability would be the legend of Hitler's personal leadership and indispensability. The Nazified state was built exclusively on this fiction of invincible intelligence and supernatural powers. It might not be possible to discard the long nurtured idolatry and transfer devotion to any other personality in the Nazi regime.

It could be suggested that German generals, knowing that the idol had fallen apart, would be able to escape from the domination of any of the subordinate terrorists. However, such a speculation discounts the power of Himmler's police and the special troopers who permeate all ranks of the army and who are bound to party fealty by a common danger. It may be that even if Hitler has disappeared from the scene the army is too enmeshed in the Nazi net to make an escape and seize control. The one attempt which was made, when Hitler nearly lost his life, was a failure.

Furthermore, the generals have not been led to expect anything tolerable for their profession in the peace which will be the fate of Germany on surrender. As for Himmler, Goering, Goebbels, and all the officials and agents of the party, none of them can look forward to anything except summary punishment. No peace which they can see would offer anything except complete ruin. So long as Germany fights they are still alive. There is no promising avenue of escape or asylum open to them.

No prudent person bases any expectations on the present condition of Europe's number one madman, but if he is both a mental and a physical wreck by this time it would astonish no one who has observed the symptoms of his career.

FLYING REPORTER.

Two crackups in his career as aviation editor for The Tribune have failed to dissuade Frank Sturdy from his belief that aviation has a great future. Mr. Sturdy for some weeks has been exploring military fields and plane routes in Alaska and Canada to discover just where the far north is going to fit in when the age of commercial aviation arrives. He is the first reporter to have flown over most of these routes and his stories have provided the first real picture of lands which up to now have been considered almost terra incognita. Mr. Sturdy the other day reached the army air base at Southampton Island, Canada, after flying at a temperature of 15 degrees below zero, with the propellers throwing ice slugs back against the fuselage with the sharp whack of a hard hit baseball. It was all interesting and novel. The Tribune gets stories like Mr. Sturdy's because it is the only newspaper that sends men out on such assignments.

NINE RAHS FOR LEARNING.

Many a graying alumnus of the University of Chicago knows just how Mr. Arch Ward is feeling these days. It seemed for a time that the tradition could never die which included Eckersall, Steffen, Norgren, the Thomas boys, Five Yards McCarty, and the lad from Dubuque with the German name who graduated into the tire business but before that ran [generally to his left] in matchless style.

Just so, Mr. Ward remembers his Four Horsemen. He is sure they will ride again and, of course, he may be right. Notre Dame is not yet negotiating a contract with Mr. Shaughnessy, but on the other hand it must be noted that Mr. Ward speaks of the 17 and 18 year olders who were unequally matched against the big boys. Troubled voices talked to the same effect around the Midway after the games. By the following Thursday hope sprang, but not eternally. The moment came when Dr. Hutchins decided for the higher learning.

The students never seemed to mind much. Even when the big boys wore Northwestern's purple or Harvard's crimson the young men and women along the Midway readily found solace. Perhaps they found it in the great books. It was the alumni who suffered. The attitude of the young people said more plainly than words that their elders were the victims of an outworn educational theory. The beneficiaries of the New Plan had been enriched by philosophy.

It begins to look as if Notre Dame is going the same way. The playing fields of South Bend will resound with the laughter of the 17 and 18 year olds indulging in volley ball and touch football. There will be taffy pulls, carnivals on the ice, and graded gymnastics. The ivy, having climbed the outer wall of the stadium, will twine over the seats. [No doubt a few hundred will be cleared of entanglements so that the alumni returning to view the class day pageant depicting the triumph of learning will not be tripped up. There will be no clipping penalty.]

SOME ABSENT ALLIES.

Gen. Yamashita, the Jap who drove the British and Australians out of Malaya, has taken over the job of attempting to stop Gen. MacArthur's Americans in the Philippines. He has not reckoned the cost of attempting to land reenforcements on Leyte, as the loss of 13 destroyers, seven transports, and thousands of men in two days shows. Gen. MacArthur, meanwhile, is fighting with the same divisions which made the original landing Oct. 20. The Americans are fighting effectively, but they must be beginning to feel weary.

The British press since the invasion has described it as an "allied" operation, but the American troops can look around and wonder what allies may be meant. The British and Australians who were forced to yield Malaya have not returned for another bout with their conqueror, and the Canadians who lost Hongkong have since done no fighting in the Pacific, except in one Aleutian operation.

Australia cannot have so soon forgotten that Americans in the Solomons and New Guinea saved their homeland from Japanese conquest, and now that the Americans on Leyte are fighting desperately, we would expect dominion troops to come rushing to the side of Gen. MacArthur. We would also think that a Canadian contingent would want to avenge the massacre of the Canadian regiment at Hongkong. But even the veteran Australian troops which came home from North Africa are not in the Philippines fight, and Canada's refusal to send draftees overseas has so incensed the country's own defense minister that he has resigned.

If we cannot expect help from our allies, we might at least hope that the single mindedness with which Americans of the east coast focus their attention upon Europe would not continue to keep MacArthur depleted of supplies in order to overload the British and the Russians with lend-lease. Gen. MacArthur's original defense of the Philippines was hamstrung in advance by the failure to place adequate resources at his disposal. He may no longer be operating on a shoestring, but even a pair of them isn't quite enough.

CREATING DISTRUST OF THE COURTS.

The state of law enforcement in Miami, Fla., recently caused the Herald of that city to criticize the conduct of two Circuit judges. They had dismissed eight rape cases and a number of padlock injunction suits against gambling houses, largely on technicalities. In one gambling case the defense had been granted continuances for five months, after which the case was called for trial while the prosecuting attorney was engaged with the grand jury and dismissed because he was unable to be in two places at once.

The conditions in the Miami courts caused the Herald to say, "The seeming ease and pat facility with which the criminally charged have been given technical safeguards have set people to wondering whether their courts are being subverted into refuges for lawbreakers." On the gambling case it commented, "The defense got delay when it wanted it and prompt decision from the court when it profited it."

The two judges concerned, Paul D. Barnes and Marshall C. Wiseheart, thereupon cited the Herald and its associate publisher to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court. The citation asserted that the Herald's editorial and a cartoon on the same subject "tend to create distrust" of the court and "tend to prevent and prejudice a fair and impartial action of the said court and the judges."

That's garbage. Newspapers do not create distrust of courts. It's the acts of poor courts, reported in the newspapers, that create distrust of corrupt or incompetent judges. None of the cases on which the Herald commented was still pending and, furthermore, the comment was directed to the conduct of the trial judges, not to the merit of the charges tried. Thus the charge that the Herald was prejudicing "fair and impartial action" of the court could apply only to cases that might be brought before the court in the future.

No judge can prefer such a charge without confessing his unfitness for the bench. What he says, in essence, is that he is a poor, weak vessel, so lacking in courage and in fidelity to the law that criticism of what he has done in the past will make him incapable of dispensing justice in the future. Such a judge should find another occupation, preferably raising rabbits, with whom he has much in common.

Judges are responsible to the people for their acts. Judges are not expected, nor indeed, permitted, to hand down opinions as from some oracular sanctuary. The Constitution provides for public trial. The public right to watch what goes on in a court necessarily includes the right to criticize what goes on there.

The post-war prospect becomes more wonderful by the hour. Now announced is a featherweight lawn mower so light that it can be pushed by a husband. —Detroit News.

THE EIGHT SEASONS.

Since reforms are in fashion and any one who resists them is regarded as an anti-social character who deserves liquidation, let us join the parade and modernize the ancient divisions of the year called the Four Seasons. They have contributed greatly to poetry, the clothing business, and the traditions of the nation, but the country's future is so bewildering that we need more space in the weather department. Science has already observed that large portions of the United States have six seasons, and that northern and southern extremes run the count up to eight. To enjoy them all, of course, you will have to do some scampering about.

* * *

The eight seasons are defined according to statistics of average day-and-night temperatures, called daily normals. They are: Spring, mild spring, summer, hot summer, Indian summer, cool fall, winter, and cold winter.

* * *

* * *

In these terms the central zone which includes Chicago has everything except cold winter. The deep south has no winter or cool spring and fall periods. Much of the upper south is shy on winter. Much of the north escapes hot summer and a small part of it, around Lake Superior and in Maine, gets no summer. Most of the Pacific coast lacks winter and summer.

POEM FOR PAM—XXXIII.

O, Pam has Learned a lot at school.
She now can lace her shoe—
And comb her hair
And dress herself
Like all the big kids do!
She's so well versed in etiquet
We watch
Our Qs and Ps—
And don't dare skip a "thank you"
Nor dare omit
A "please."
There's just one spot
Upon the score
Of all she's seen and heard—
For somewhere in her schooling
She has learned
A naughty word!

No Stop Lights in Italy.

A bulletin issued to drivers of army vehicles in southern Italy ended with the wry admonition: "Be particularly careful driving thru cities. Italians are not traffic conscious." One might go further and say that Italians are unconscious. They regard 2½-ton trucks much as gnats which, while bothersome, aren't worth any violent exertion to avoid.

Whether this is merely typical of the blasé Italian's attitude toward modernity in general, or whether it is the outgrowth of the Italian street plans, I couldn't say. Certainly it is obvious that the streets were laid out by a large group of self-willed individuals. There is no other way of explaining streets which weave and twist, double back on themselves, and generally behave like the peculiar paths in the Looking Glass Garden on which it was necessary to walk in the opposite direction to arrive at one's destination.

Streets like these are inclined to turn the hardiest G. I. truck driver's hair gray, but it is the maddening indifference of the populace which causes him to begin throwing C ration cans at his top sergeant and putting thumbtacks on his C. O.'s chair. There is something about sitting in a cab of a large personnel carrier that makes a truck driver feel like a demigod, and to find that he is not so considered by the pedestrians, but is, rather, ignored, is to induce a feeling of frustration comparable to that of the man who labored in seclusion for 20 years to produce a horseless carriage and emerged to find the streets full of automobiles.

Correction: The latest count on dead Presidents runs to 29, not 30 as stated in this column on Nov. 9. Blame the miscount on election night jitters. J. M. Hill, calling our attention to this error, writes:

"It has occurred to me that possibly your article was written prior to the unpleasant episode of Nov. 7 and that you had at that time considered a certain incumbent as good as dead, while it now looks as tho he might have the nine lives of the proverbial cat. On the other hand, you may have figured that a certain ex-incumbent is dead but does not know it."

Do you think that in recognition of the services rendered by Fala, the President will create a new post for him? Philardee.

Mrs. T. L. writes: "I understand that my son has been wounded and has received a Purple Heart. Does that mean that he will be sent home, or will he be sent back to active service if his health improves?"

Many who have earned the Purple Heart go back into active service if well enough to do so. Receipt of the decoration does not necessarily indicate a man will be sent home.

Mrs. M. T. writes: "Can you advise me if widows of soldiers of World War I., not killed in action, receive pensions?"

In some cases such widows may receive pensions, even if the deaths are nonservice connected, but, as a rule, they are limited to cases in which a veteran who has service connected disabilities dies of other causes. Contact the Veterans Administration at Hines, Ill. Provide complete information concerning the case, and you can be advised.

THE "SHAKES" MAY MEAN FATIGUE.

WE ARE all interested in symptoms, especially those that attract attention. If one is bothered with a "tic," such as periodic winking of an eyelid, it may prove embarrassing.

We are all familiar with the difficulty presented by the patient who is suffering from a toxic thyroid gland. If the arms are extended and the fingers spread apart, the digits will exhibit fine movements regardless of all attempts to hold them still. We look upon this phenomenon as one of the characteristic signs of thyroid disturbances.

In Parkinson's disease, there is considerable agitation of the extremities [and sometimes the head]. Here there is a real organic basis. There must have been a time when an infection damaged the nervous system and encephalitis is commonly accepted as an important factor.

As a rule, however, trembling does not point to a serious malady, one that is likely to take life. It may be the result of fatigue. After an exhausting "workout" nerves and muscles may be on a narrow edge of control. The sprinter who is tense and keyed up prior to a hundred yard dash may display this condition.

Every now and then women particularly will complain that occasionally they feel weak and shaky. When seated they are comfortable and composed. But if asked to stand erect or bend forward, marked quivering of the legs will appear. At times "drawing" sensations including cold chills will be mentioned. Most of these persons feel better after sleep. As one remarked, "I don't have the slightest trouble in the morning. It is only toward the end of day." While this disorder is associated with posture, it will vanish if the patient can walk about, lie down, or remain seated. During relaxation it is absent entirely.

While the exact cause has not been discovered, the "starter" seems to bear some relation to a sudden strain on the muscles. Furthermore, exhaustion apparently exerts an influence, altho occasionally one will note that it is worse in the morning than later in the day. Attempts to find an emotional element have failed. There is no evidence of a neurosis or a psychosis. In consequence, psychiatric measures will not be of value.

It is not shaking palsy as routine remedies used against this affliction have no effect. Sedatives, on the other hand, may be helpful but they should be employed with caution and under the watchful eye of the family doctor. No muscle rigidity occurs and the individual has perfect control except for the "quaking."

The best advice that can be given is not to pay too much attention to the manifestation altho it may be well to add to the rest intervals. It is probably merely a sign of slightly lowered resistance. In one case an active program of outdoor exercise was followed by considerable improvement. The patient now observes the signs but rarely.

CONTRASTS.

E. A. writes: Is it harmful to eat ice cream and drink hot coffee at the same time?

REPLY.

A teaspoonful of ice cream, followed by a sip of coffee, will be hygienic if the heat of the liquid melts the frozen product before it passes down the gullet. On the contrary, swallowing very cold edibles subsequent to the drinking of hot fluids, will shock the stomach out of its wits. Congestion will succeed blanching, with some damage to the delicate mucous surface within the gastric pouch.

TONGUE LESION.

Mrs. R. writes: My 15 month old baby has white rings on his tongue. Is this a symptom of anything?

REPLY.

Probably a fungous infection. Your family doctor will know what to do. A mild cauterizing chemical may be required.

PUS IN CHEST.

K. A. writes: What is empyema?

A collection of pus [abscess] in the pleural cavity. It may follow or accompany pneumonia or any severe infection within the chest.

MORE THAN THAT.

Something the Matter?

The writer of the letter said that something must be the matter with her; that is, she amended, something specifically the matter with her where the war is concerned. She said she finds herself becoming increasingly disgusted with the whole business which, despite the magnificent job being done by American fighting forces, has developed here at home into a Grade-A mess.

She briefed her case ably. She divided it into daily exhibitions of discourtesy and selfishness, and the multiplication of small nastinesses in the general public.

Ordinarily, she said, we prefer to overlook discourtesy, defining it as a gesture [or the gesture] of ignorance, but she has witnessed so many examples of what seem deliberate discourtesy that she wonders whether it is the general pressure that makes these acts more evident, or have we always been that way?

She cites many examples: The street car conductor who shouted some heavy sarcasm after a woman passenger calculated to put her in her place and then remarked bitterly to the other passengers on the rear platform: "Damn woman!"; the conductor who watched an elderly woman sprint for his car and then, when she reached the step, signaled the pilot to go ahead and laughed lustily as the car pulled away from the woman's already begun-up-step to the platform; the recent discourtesies [to put it mildly] to those who dared declare themselves in favor of Mr. Dewey as candidate for the Presidency, evidenced by missiles hurtling thru windows carrying his picture; the discourtesies of shoppers who buy up quantities of merchandise under the thin delusion they are being forehanded, as shown in the woman who tried to take 18 packages of a well-known dessert from the store shelves and grew loudly abusive to the helpless clerk when told such purchases were limited to two to a customer; the woman voter who stepped ahead of those in line for the voting booths at 7:30 a. m., remarking that she was "in a hurry."

And selfishness: Disparaging references to the seemingly unlimited travel of certain personages, but coy reference to personal junkets made by virtue of the ownership of a C card; the whole new field opened up for its practice, to both customer and dealer, by the cigaret and cigar shortage.

Under small nastinesses she lists marriages entered into for the sake of a service man's allotment, children abandoned by parents, service men getting double-dealing from their wives and wives getting double-dealing from their absent husbands, citizens double-dealing the country and the country double-dealing its citizens.

"Tell me," she concluded, "doesn't anything nice ever happen around here any more?"

To be judicious about all of this is difficult. It exists. But it has always existed. Our ccuntry, as the world, has always been well seasoned with heels. Selfishness and discourtesy are ancient manifestations of the diseased spirit and go hand-in-hand, and no new world we ever make will weed them out. Nor will education. But does anything nice ever happen any more? Yes, of course, all the time, and in extent far exceeding the other. But we take courtesy for granted, probably just the same way far too many take for granted an early peace and, with it, business-as-usual.

MOVE THE CAPITOL WEST.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 10.—If the middle west is the stronghold of the Republic why don't we do something about it? Since we are the heart and the breadbasket of the nation why don't we use our power? Few of us have any interest in or respect for the foreign ruled east coast or the glamor made west coast; why do we allow them to dominate? Our government would show more sanity if it were moved to a small town in the middle west. Our cities are rapidly becoming seats of chicanery and corruption in political matters and, so, are unfit. They are as unfit as Washington, D. C. For God and America, let's do something!

BEE KAY TEE.

WILL GET WHAT THEY DESERVE.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 8.—I wish to express my appreciation of the courageous stand taken by The Chicago Tribune in the Presidential election, and in its efforts to present the real issues to the people.

This election proves that slightly more than one-half of the people of this nation prefer vaudeville to the preservation of their civil liberties. It is incredible that a handful of clever men, by use of the wise-crack, quip, and invective, can foist their foreign ideologies on an unsuspecting and liberty-loving people.

The voters who played into the hands of this group, "more clever than honest," as Sen. Barkley put it, will get exactly what they deserve. The unfortunate thing is that they will drag with them the other half of the nation's population who understand what it is all about. The greater burden will be upon our children and our children's children. JAMES M. BARKDULL.

F. D. R. DIDN'T THINK SO.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The Republican Bible [Chicago Tribune] with its blundering editorials and devastating cartoons are solely responsible for the defeat of Gov. Dewey. By this they have brought out before the people all the good things the present government has accomplished. Every knock was a boost for the New Deal. So thanks again for your splendid coöperation in returning Mr. Roosevelt to office for another four years. A DEMOCRAT.

GLAD SHE LOST.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—I voted for Dewey, but somehow or other I was hoping he would be beaten. Why should he clean up all the dirt and then be blamed if the war doesn't end with an everlasting peace, which I don't think will ever be? As long as the human race survives, somebody will always want what the other fellow has. MRS. ELSIE STRUB.

NOW WE'RE WAR MONGERS.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—Now that the American people have spoken and have let you know that they are not to be intimidated with the "red herring" scare I suggest that you take a walk. We can do very well without your evil smelling rag and your war mongering editorials.

C. E. GEIGER.

MOST PIPE SMOKERS ARE FAT.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Wouldn't it be grand if women would take this opportunity, during the present cigaret shortage, to develop their will power and stop smoking, rather than expend their efforts toward the growth of the new and disgusting fad of smoking pipes? GERTRUDE MCALPINE.

STILL VOTING AGAINST HOOVER.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 9.—You seem to think that the common man and laborer in this country has not enough brains in his head to think for himself. You certainly are only fooling yourself about that. I happen to belong to that great class and have not forgotten the good old Hoover days of the depression when I pounded the streets and roads of this country like a professional hobo looking for a job at any price.

Since Roosevelt has been in office I have purchased me a home, and if good health smiles upon me, in a few years I hope to pay for it in full. Could I have done that prior to his going in office? Maybe one man in 5,000 or more could have, if he had had $2,000 or $3,000 to pay down and then borrowed the rest at 7 or 8 per cent interest, with all living relatives signing your note as security.

FOREST B. LOVE.

THE PAY CHECK VOTE.

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 9.—As a campaign worker in a small way I found a number, so well pleased with their war plant wages they could see no reason of any kind for a change. Even some wives and parents of men in service, openly said that was their main reason for voting for the administration to continue. I could hardly believe that many felt that way, but after seeing the election returns, I feel that I was wrong.

Rural areas and small towns have their quota of men in service, the same as large cities, but do not have the war plant money, and all reports showed those areas voting for a change.

DUMB GUY.

WANTS AN EXPLANATION.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Out of fairness to the American smoker the rumor that attributes the cigar and cigaret shortage to lend-lease should either be substantiated or squelched by the government. If our smokes are being shipped to foreign lands let there be a frank admission of it, and, if possible, enough real justification to mollify growing anger. Or does lend-lease—from our end—boil down to simply this: "Here, brother, take not only my tools, food, and shirt, but all my cigarets, too."?

F. A. RECKART.

THE FRAUD FIGHTERS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—On behalf of the joint civic committee on elections I want to thank you most heartily for the very excellent coöperation which The Tribune gave us in our effort to raise an army of poll watchers in order to hold vote frauds to the minimum. We had something over 3,000 observers, which we felt was a good showing in view of the man power shortage.

AURORAN SEEKS 3 WAY PARLEY ON RAIL STRIKE

Wants Lines and Unions to Meet Commuters.

Altho unions and companies in the five day old strike on the Aurora-Elgin and North Shore railroads report their deadlock almost hopeless of settlement, L. M. Doolen, president of the Aurora chamber of commerce, made a new move yesterday to bring both sides into conference with commuters along the Aurora-Elgin who have been inconvenienced by the wage dispute.

Doolen disclosed he had communicated to Leo Huntoon, general passenger agent of the Aurora-Elgin, a request that railroad officials meet with brotherhood officials immediately in Aurora or Elgin or any other town to consider resumption of service pending a settlement.

Hopes to Achieve Accord.

Doolen said he hoped such a conference would produce an accord authorizing a new appeal to Washington, D. C., probably for an executive order under which the transportation stoppage could be relieved until an agreement is reached on whether the trainmen should get a 5 or a 9 cent an hour wage increase.

Doolen said Huntoon promised to reply by noon today. If the reply is affirmative, Doolen will sound out the brotherhood officials. Doolen said he believed that some agreement to get the trains moving could be reached if both sides met with some of the 75,000 commuters who have been obliged to find substitute transportation.

Glen Mount, a real estate dealer in Warrenville, Du Page county, where some 800 commuters live, quickly supported Doolen's plan. Mount said the Warrenville commuters have had to travel four miles to Naperville or six miles to Wheaton to obtain other transportation since the strike began.

OPA Boards to Issue Gas.

Marion W. Isbell, director of the office of price administration, instructed local ration boards in strike bound areas to issue emergency gasoline allotments immediately. Car pools have served to ease the tieup in many sections north and west.

The unions, which rejected a 5 cent raise recommended by a panel appointed by President Roosevelt, are demanding 9 cents because steam railroaders received a 9 cent raise under a Presidential order last January. Company officials said the claim was "ridiculous" because the two suburban lines were just "glorified interurban street cars."

A company official estimated that the business revenue loss for the first four days of the strike was $151,000 plus the payment of salaries to 1,500 employes such as electricians, office personnel, flagmen, ticket agents, and maintenance workers who have drawn approximately $75,000 in pay altho the lines have not been in operation. The estimated loss in wages for the strikers up until last night was $17,600.

Meeting Held in Waukegan.

A meeting was held by the Waukegan-North Chicago Chamber of Commerce in Waukegan, on a call by George W. Morris, its president, to consider what action could be taken for resumption of service. Action was deferred until another meeting today.

Army spokesmen at Fort Sheridan said there was no reason for them to take action because the North Western railroad was "adequately" serving their needs, and except for inconvenience to navy personnel who want to spend their off hours in Chicago, officials of Great Lakes naval training station said "other arrangements have been made for our needs."

VET CAN BE AID OR FOE, NEW 6TH AREA HEAD SAYS

Discharged service men will be valuable to their communities or potentially dangerous, depending upon how they are received on their return and accepted into civilian life, Brig. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, new commanding general of the 6th service command, told his military and civilian staffs yesterday at his first monthly conference.

Gen. Reynolds told his officers to prepare for big responsibilities ahead. He warned them against complacency because the army has been built and more than half of it is overseas. He said the nation today faces the most critical and serious supply problem of the war.

He reminded the staff that the need for heavy artillery ammunition is so great that it is being loaded for shipment overseas while still hot. There also is a shortage of heavy trucks and tires, he said.

THE QUESTION.

Do you have a nickname and how did it originate?

WHERE ASKED.

Lane Technical High school.

THE ANSWERS.

Stan Bugay, student, 2744 Evergreen av.—When boogie-woogie music became popular, boogie sounded so much like Bugay that my friends started calling me "Boogie" instead of Bugay. Sometimes they call me by my nickname just to tease me because I'm not too fond of it.

LeRoy Dzierzanowski, student, 2614 Augusta blvd.—In school and wherever I go people always have such a hard time pronouncing my last name that they just call me Shorty instead. The fact that I'm only 5 feet 1 inch tall may have had something to do with it.

Donald Coope, student, 2632 Winnemac av.—After I moved to Chicago, the boys in the neighborhood started calling me Chicken, so when they put my whole name together [using my nickname] it's Chicken Coope [coop]. They thought that was clever.

Richard Palewicz, student, 2339 North av.—In grammar school, I was a newcomer after the class had started and the students didn't know my name. One of the boys shortened my last name to Polly. The nickname was passed on and now every one calls me Polly.

William Bourque, student, 5235 Patterson av.—About four years ago I got a crew cut. My hair, perfectly straight, looked even straighter. My friends started calling me Curly. Persons who haven't heard why would find it difficult to figure out the reason.

Harold Diez, 2656 Bosworth av.—It's one of those nicknames that so many unfortunate fellows have—Junior. Since I can remember I've been just plain Junior because my father's name is the same as mine, and folks would get us mixed up if they called us both Harold. No kid of mine will be a Junior.

HUNT MOTHER WHO DESERTED CHILD OF YANK

While 3½ year old Marie Harris was taken to the juvenile detention home for care last night Warren Avenue police started a search for her mother, Mrs. Ruth Harris, who left the child with a friend three months ago when she went to New York.

Police said the friend, Mrs. Betty Manning, 27, of 2129 Jackson blvd., is now in the county jail under $2,500 bonds on a charge of stealing from the mails. When Mrs. Manning went to jail she turned the child over to Allen Mallonee, with whom, police said, she had been living.

Mallonee in turn took Marie to Palos Park and left her with a man he said he thought was Mrs. Harris' brother. The latter returned the little girl to Mallonee, who then turned her over to Warren Avenue police. Mallonee was jailed pending an investigation. Mrs. Harris' husband is a soldier on overseas duty, police said.

"Since 1933," he said, "36 million dollars of motorists' tax funds have been used for schools. Other states also are big offenders. In 1942, 204 millions dollars in state highway taxes were diverted to non-highway purposes.

MOTHER DENIES BEATING, INTENT TO KILL CHILD

Mrs. Dybicz Says Infant Was Hurt in Fall.

Her calm broken for the first time, Mrs. Betty Jane Dybicz, 19, of 7201 Lowe avenue, sobbed out a denial yesterday in court that she ever had beaten or injured her 5 month old son, or that she ever wished to kill him.

Charged with assault with intent to kill, the young wife took the stand in her own defense before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward after the state had rested its case. A jury of eight women and four men is hearing the evidence in Criminal court.

In the morning session, Chester, 25, her husband, was presented as a state witness and told the jury he had nothing against his wife. A policewoman testified Mrs. Dybicz told her she had bitten her baby on the head.

Denies Intimacies.

Upon examination by her attorney, Harold Levy, Mrs. Dybicz said she loved the baby, Dennis, as much as she did her older child, Richard. She denied she had been intimate with another man, as the state previously had charged, and said her husband was Dennis' father.

She said she was getting the baby ready for its bath Aug. 10 when her dress caught in the bassinet, tipping it over and throwing the baby to the floor. When the baby turned white and stiffened, she testified, she called a pulmotor squad to resuscitate the child. Later, she took the child to a physician, who found the baby's leg was broken.

On Aug. 16, she told the jury, she placed the child on the couch and it got white and stiff again. She later noticed its arm looked twisted.

Previous Admissions Denied.

Atty. Levy then read all the various statements she had made previously admitting she harmed the child intentionally and she sobbed out a denial of each admission.

Assistant State's Atty. Edmund Grant asked why she did not tell her husband the infant's injuries were the result of accidents, instead of maliciousness, as he believed, and got his reply from Mrs. Dybicz:

"To tell the truth, I didn't care what he thought."

Syphilis Report Read.

A hospital report that Mrs. Dybicz is suffering from syphilis was read to Dr. Alex S. Hershfield, 325 Fullerton parkway, by Atty Levy. Dr. Hershfield testified that a person suffering from the condition shown in the report would be a neuro-syphilitic, indicating emotional instability.

The defense is expected to call another doctor today to testify to Mrs. Dybicz' mental condition, after which the case is expected to go to the jury.

Earlier in the day, her father, Albert Lindquist, 9306 Albany av., testified that he insisted his daughter marry Chester when she became pregnant. He also said that as a child, his daughter had suffered severe headaches and had thyroid trouble.

DELAY HEARING IN DORSEY FIGHT CASE TO NOV. 21

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13 (AP).—Dismissal of assault charges against Bandleader Tommy Dorsey, his wife, Actress Pat Dane, and Allen Smiley, Hollywood figure, was blocked today when the court was informed that an absent witness now out of the country soon will return. He is Antonio Icaza, a Panamanian actor who sued Dorsey for $40,000 for injuries allegedly received in the fracas.

The defendants appeared in court with Deputy District Atty. Vernon L. Ferguson, who had announced plans to request dismissal of a grand jury indictment accusing them of assaulting Actor Jon Hall during a party in the Dorsey apartment last Aug. 5.

In view of Icaza's expected return, Ferguson announced that he felt he could not ask dismissal. Trial was continued by Superior Judge Arthur Crum to Nov. 21.

WOMAN TO FACE TRIAL ON $50,000 SWINDLE CHARGE

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday denied a motion to dismiss an indictment against Mrs. Margaret Michler, 40, of 3114 Clifton av., charged with using the mails to defraud.

In the indictment Mrs. Michler is charged with swindling four men of $50,000 after answering their ads in German language newspapers for a wife or companion.

Judge Barnes denied the motion at the request of Assistant United States Atty. George Kelly and said trial would be set within the next three weeks.

SEAL COAT, CHUBBY, RING STOLEN.

A Hudson seal coat, a black marten chubby, and two diamond rings, total value $505, were stolen in a burglary at the home of Miles Murphy, 9926 Campbell av., he told police yesterday.

Have a "Coke" = ¡Adelante con la musica!

(GET IN THE GROOVE!)

. . . or getting along in Guatemala

Music makes friends among our Latin-American neighbors, just as it does here at home. There's another custom that helps make friends even faster. It's the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Have a "Coke" is an invitation of welcome as quickly understood in Guatemala as in Georgia. In many lands around the globe, Coca-Cola has become the same symbol of friendliness that it is in your own living room.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola. It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

GOLD GROWS ON TREES

California's golden citrus fruits . . . oranges, lemons and grapefruit . . . have greatly added to the state's prosperity. Today, these vitamin-rich fruits help to maintain the health of our armed forces and home-front workers.

It was the lure of hidden gold that attracted adventurous prospectors to California. But the Golden State had much more to offer settlers who believed that success could be achieved through hard work and individual enterprise. It had other precious metals, vast forests, rivers to provide irrigation. The settlers developed these natural resources and built an empire.

Packed in refrigerator cars, California's fruits and vegetables are shipped via Union Pacific to distant markets. Products of mines, forests, ranches and factories also are transported over "the strategic middle route" uniting California with the East.

California and Union Pacific have a common objective; to speed the day of victory and maintain the fundamental doctrine of equal opportunity. Upon that doctrine rests the future security and welfare of your America.

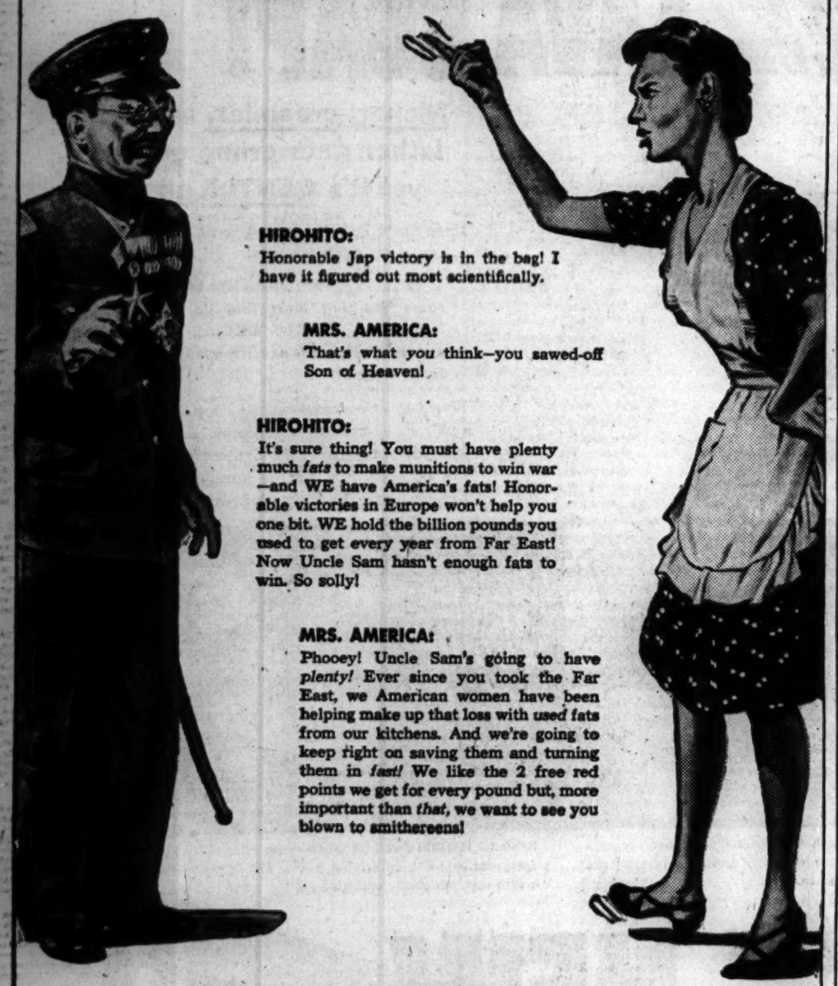
American Woman Gets Last Word with Hirohito!



HIROHITO:

MRS. AMERICA:
That's what you think—you sawed-off Son of Heaven!

HIROHITO:
It's sure thing! You must have plenty much fats to make munitions to win war—and WE have America's fats! Honorable victories in Europe won't help you one bit. WE hold the billion pounds you used to get every year from Far East! Now Uncle Sam hasn't enough fats to win. So solly!

MRS. AMERICA:
Phooey! Uncle Sam's going to have plenty! Ever since you took the Far East, we American women have been helping make up that loss with used fats from our kitchens. And we're going to keep right on saving them and turning them in fast! We like the 2 free red points we get for every pound but, more important than that, we want to see you blown to smithereens!

Keep Saving Used Fats until V-J Day!

COUNTY G. O. P.'S HOUSE NOMINEES AHEAD OF DEWEY

Find 'Me, Too' Foreign Policy Made Him Trail.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Altho Republican candidates lost in nine of the 10 congressional districts of Cook county, they ran ahead of Thomas E. Dewey, G. O. P. nominee for President, a tabulation disclosed yesterday.

Normally fewer votes are cast for congress than for President, because the latter office is at the top of the ballot. This held true as to the Democrats on Nov. 7, with Roosevelt getting 1,272,756, compared with 1,200,678 for his men running for congress.

"Me, Too," Stand Blamed.

However, Republicans cast 926,615 votes for congress and 919,207 votes for Dewey. From one viewpoint the Republican congressional candidates thus were about 79,000 ahead of their normal total of ballots relative to the Presidential nominee.

Some observers deduced that the congressional candidates of the G. O. P. achieved this feat because of their greater frankness than Dewey on foreign policy. These politicians hold that Republicans in Illinois were hampered by Dewey's "me, too" stand on internationalism.

Switch in 45th Ward.

The largest change from the unofficial returns reported by watchers of the canvass at the Chicago election board yesterday was in the 45th ward on the north side. This showed Dewey carrying the ward by 586 votes instead of losing it by 3,662 votes—a change of 4,248 votes.

The change gave Dewey seven of Chicago's 50 wards, and reduced his unofficial margin of loss in Illinois to 138,000.

Sveinbjorn Johnson, Democrat, shown defeated by 44,000 votes by Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, said yesterday that he is conferring with party leaders about a plan to contest the results. He charged that there were many apparent vote frauds downstate.

"The talk of downstate vote frauds comes with bad grace from the defeated candidate of the Kelly machine," Atty. Gen. Barrett commented. "That machine is known thruout the nation for its vote frauds in Chicago."

F. D. R. ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF FLY FROM FCC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 (AP).—President Roosevelt today accepted "with great personal reluctance" the resignation of James L. Fly as chairman of the federal communications commission. It is effective Wednesday.

The President told the FCC chairman, who announced his resignation last week: "You are only on 'furlough.' I shall have to have your help from time to time, particularly in the field of international communications, and I know I can expect you to respond."

In submitting his resignation Fly said he was quitting for personal reasons but assured the chief executive he will be ready "from time to time and in a private capacity to assist in any manner possible." Fly will return to the private practice of law.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Aviation, a war industry which many women have entered, was chosen by this department for the first in its series of surveys on the subject: Do Chicago women war workers intend to remain in industry after the war?

Interviews with women on the assembly lines of the Chicago plant of the Douglas Aircraft company, Park Ridge, and of the Illinois division of the Bendix Aviation corporation, 505 N. Sacramento blvd., disclose opposing preferences for post-war activity.

Only 39 per cent of the Douglas women questioned expressed a desire to remain in the same kind of work after the war, whereas 72 per cent of feminine employes at Bendix hope to retain their jobs.

Fifty-nine per cent, all of them married, of the Douglas women war workers want to return to homemaking when their jobs of riveting on the C-54 transport and cargo planes, which the plant assembles, no longer are war essential. The other 2 per cent, both single and married, wish to return to the usual peace time occupations.

A condensation of the Douglas survey indicates that single women want to stay in industry and married women wish to return to the home. Typical workers were three single women, all riveters, who want to continue doing that work when the company makes commercial planes again. One married woman, who runs a milling machine, will return to her peace time occupation of silverware saleswoman, a job which permitted some free time in which to run her household.

A machine operator who is the mother of four children, ranging in ages from 8 to 16, said she will be a homemaker 100 per cent of the time again when the war emergency is over. Another operator commented: "The 'boys' can have my job after the war."

The Bendix women, who build carburetors for Warhawks, Thunderbolts, Black Widows, Corsairs, Hellcats, Liberators, Avengers, Skytrains, Skytroopers, Skymasters, and other war planes, comprise 75 per cent of the total employe roll call. At Bendix 72 per cent of the women want to keep their jobs when the carburetors once more go into commercial aircraft.

The Bendix personnel director said that, because the plant is one built since the declaration of war, there is no question of "women taking men's jobs," so the women want to keep the positions which have taught them an interest in machinery and work with instruments. Many of the women interviewed reported they enjoy being a part of an accelerated production program, as contrasted with the static quality of office work and other occupations, and that they are looking forward to post-war manufacture.

The director also said that the work at Bendix, because it is not physically arduous and is adapted to the natural manual dexterity of women, has converted many an office worker to factory jobs.

Several Bendix women said they plan to hold their jobs, at least for a while, after their husbands return from service, in order to insure financial security for their families in the period when the men will be readjusting themselves to civilian wage earning status.

[Another article in this survey series will appear tomorrow.]

Welcome Signs Out to Several Ex-Chicagoans

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOW in Chicago or soon to be welcomed here are several former Chicagoans who have been away in service or living elsewhere. Some are returning on visits and others are back for good. The junior Ross J. Beattys and their two little girls are in the latter category. They have been lucky enough to find an apartment on the near north side, which they now are settling after having lived for the last two or three years in Tilton, S. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris of New York are expected in Chicago tomorrow and will be at the Racquet club until after Thanksgiving. They went first to St. Paul, Minn., to see their new grandson, the baby born to their son, Lincoln S. Harris, and Mrs. Harris, in August.

Now that Lt. George Ryerson has left for sea duty, his wife, the former Phoebe Massey, and their children will be living in Winnetka with her father, George B. Massey. The Ryersons returned several weeks ago from Norfolk, Va., and spent his leave on the north shore and in Evansville, Ind.

Lt. Richard Poole, who is at home following two years of duty with the navy in the Pacific, is spending his leave with his parents, the Ralph H. Pooles. His next post will be Washington, D. Christmas Opening.

It would take some stuffing to make Eddie Dowling resemble Santa Claus, but if all goes well Mr. Dowling will come down the Civic theater's chimney Christmas night with a bag of plays. Opening, and I trust not holding, that bag will be Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," for which Maj. Jo Mielziner, for the last 30 months a camouflage officer, will design the settings, and in which Mr. Dowling and Laurette Taylor will co-star in a cast of four which also holds Julie Haydon and possibly William Gargan. Mr. Dowling is associated with Louis J. Singer and Alex Yokel, and the idea is to give us several plays, including a new one by William Saroyan and "The Brass Ring," written by Lee Falk, for Ethel Waters. Possible revivals might include "The Time of Your Life," "Shadow and Substance" [with Sir Cedric Hardwicke], "The Plough and the Stars" [preferably with Barry Fitzgerald], some matinées of "Outward Bound," and perhaps "Little Women," now being revived by Mr. Dowling in New York. The whole thing is past the pipe dream stage.

Julie Haydon.

Ballet Theater Notes.

Cast Changes.

Ruth Clayton is coming out from New York to succeed Dorothea Freed as Ado Annie in the Erlanger's "Oklahoma!" taking over Nov. 21. Two replacements for the Civic's "Sleep No More" next Sunday night are Ben Laughlin for James W. Fallon and Robert A. Harris, who staged the play, for Saul Z. Martell.

Schwartz for Douglas Park.

Maurice Schwartz opens an eight week season of four plays at the Douglas Park theater, Ogden and Kedzie avs., Friday evening, Nov. 24, with "The Three Generations." . . . The junior theater group of the Jewish People's institute needs a director available Monday thru Thursday from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and one night a week. Apply to Fred L. Ottenheimer, president of the institute, who says the class is nonsectarian.

Notes.

There will be 120 seats in the orchestra pit to help take care of the crowd at Marian Anderson's Civic Opera house recital Sunday afternoon. . . . Luther Adler is in town to see about a play. . . . My face is red, tho it should be burnt cork, for saying Sunday that Heinie Brock is Bert Williams without the apple. But of course you knew I meant Bert Wheeler.

Give Benefit Performance of New Revue Tomorrow

A special performance of Michael Todd's "Star and Garter" revue at the Blackstone theater tomorrow night will be given for the benefit of the Fox River sanitarium. Mrs. Victor Nasitar, president of the Young Women's Service league, said yesterday that the league will sponsor the show the one night and give the net proceeds to the sanitarium. Tickets for the benefit are being sold at the Patsy Rue shop, 15 E. Washington st.

Women Give One of Their Best Concerts

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

With a wisely chosen program the Woman's Symphony orchestra managed to give an entertaining turn to the second program of the season under the direction of Jerzy Bojanowski in Orchestra hall last night.

None of the music attempted taxed the orchestra's capacities more than they could bear, and the resulting relaxation of tension produced some good, obviously carefully rehearsed playing of a freedom and variety of color this group does not often achieve.

The overture to "The Bartered Bride," the preface to the program, sounded this note of confidence in a reading that had brilliance and spirit. The strings, always the best section of the Woman's Symphony, followed with an attractive arrangement of four Rameau clavecin pieces by R. Temple Savage. Sometimes the tone of the entire string body was a bit too thick for the purpose, but as a whole there was clarity and graceful phrasing, and a certain limpid charm which, in spite of the conductor, one might define as feminine.

Mr. Bojanowski revealed himself as a composer for the first time since his residence here in a suite of "Indian Sketches." Indian music as inspiration for American composers went out of style with Edward MacDowell, and was never in very good standing. However, even with this handicap, Mr. Bojanowski chose themes of rather more than common interest and subjected them to orchestral dress which does not distort their native qualities and which, as a program note proudly stated, dispenses with such obvious devices as native instruments. The first of the set, the "Eagle Dance," is the most conventional. The second, a lullaby, creates a mood out of a haunting fragment of melody, and the third, "Welcome Song on a Ceremonial Day," gets tangled up, not always too successfully, in a Stravinskyian net of mixed rhythms.

But nothing but gratitude is due Mr. Bojanowski for programming the delightful suite made from Franz Schreker's ballet-pantomime, "The Birthday of the Infanta." In a day when choreographers are making ballets of the most unlikely sonatas and symphonies, here is true ballet music, colorful, bright, and brimming with life, lying in dusty neglect. It makes you wonder about dancers.

Jennie Tourel was the soloist, omitting the announced Stradella number because the music hadn't arrived, but making of the aria from Rossini's "Cenerentola" the same tour de force as when she sang it at Ravinia last summer. If there is another mezzo-soprano of today who can match this, we don't know her name. In place of the missing number Miss Tourel added the Shepherd Lel's song from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Snow Maiden," sung in the original Russian.

Later she brought to attention two splendid songs by Samuel Barber—"Sure on This Shining Night" and "I Hear an Army"—and sang the famous aria from Tschaikowsky's "Jeanne d'Arc" with intense eloquence.

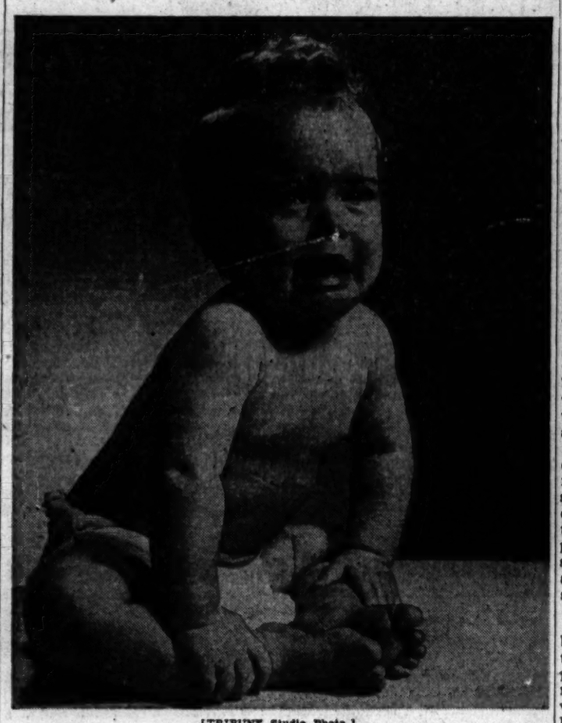
If Baby Cries, Find Out Why



[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

What to do when a baby such as this one suddenly starts crying in his crib is discussed by Mrs. Bevans today.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The baby was asleep on his mother's bed—because it was cooler—surrounded by pillows to keep him from rolling off.

The baby's mother was finishing a cake for her husband's birthday dinner. I had just snatched the baby's wash from the line before the evening coolness set in, and was dressing for the big occasion, hoping to get the table decorated before my son came in from the flying field—when the baby cried.

"O, dear . . ." I heard from the kitchen.

"Go on with the icing," I called out. "I'll attend to the baby."

I snapped on the hall light, which shed a little glow in the bedroom, and went in. I bent over the baby. Big eyes looked up at me, and the crying stopped.

He'd been fed only an hour before and couldn't be hungry, but he was what we called "sipping-sopping wet." So I changed his panties, using that wonderful olive oil powder, talking to him as I did so. Then I found that with the sudden evening coolness, he was too cool in only his little sleeveless shirt. Even his feet were cold. So I slipped him into one of those convenient open-front wrappers, put on a pair of booties and bunnied him up in his "square," in that tricky way they have in the hospitals. All this time he was watching me with those big gray eyes.

"Now, darling," I was saying as I tucked and changed his position, "you have nothing to cry about. Your panties are dry and you're warm as toast and your little tummy is full and everything's okay. Now go to sleep like a little lamb." A few minutes later I peeped in and my little grandson was fast asleep.

How much better to manage in some such way as this, than to let a baby always "cry it out," for fear he might be "spoiled" if he got some attention! Of course, at two months our baby couldn't understand what I said. But he did get the reassurance of the voice and presence and gentle ministration of some one who loved him. He had really been in a measure of discomfort: wet panties on a cool night and a change in body temperature had possibly awakened him. When your baby cries, first try to find out what is the reason. Don't dance constant attendance, but—as the boys say—give nim a break.

This I know: When I had to come away, "our" baby wasn't in the least spoiled. He was happy, responsive, and jolly. To be sure his routine wasn't regular to the minute, and he did enjoy some attention. But after all, a baby isn't a machine or a vegetable. Who would want him to be?

Cut Childbirth Deaths in State to Record Low

BY ROY GIBBONS.

Since 1932 the maternity death rate has dropped from 7 to an all-time present low of fewer than 1.9 for each 1,000 live births in the state, Dr. Frederick H. Falls, professor of gynecology and obstetrics at the Research and Educational hospital of the University of Illinois medical school in Chicago, disclosed yesterday.

As chairman of the governor's advisory committee on maternal welfare since the year the childbirth death rate started its downward slide, Dr. Falls has headed the combined state-federal program aimed at making it safe in Illinois for women to have babies. He disclaimed any personal recognition for what has been accomplished, saying the achievement is the result of wholehearted effort and coöperation by state and local health departments, the Illinois State Medical society, and other medical groups, and the faculties of all the medical schools in Chicago.

Puerperal sepsis, which is childbirth poison and fever, and the toxemias [self-generated poisons] of pregnancy that produce the dread manifestations of eclampsia [convulsions of child bearing] have been practically eliminated as the No. 1 and No. 2 killers, respectively, of childbirth, Dr. Falls related.

Prenatal examination of the expectant mother likewise is reducing the perils of ectopic pregnancy, a condition of pre-birth in which the child is formed abnormally inside the mother's body and subject to hemorrhagic rupture, he said. Use of a hormone extract, first tried experimentally on a human mother at the University of Illinois medical school four years ago, has resulted in "considerable salvage" of new born babies by reducing the number of cases of women who show an involuntary tendency to lose their child in the early months of pregnancy, he added.

Last of the leading killers still striking at childbirth is hemorrhage, which once was No. 3 on the list of death causes but now is No. 1 as a result of the virtual elimination of the two other principal causes of maternal mortality, Dr. Falls said.

Hemorrhage is being attacked on a statewide scale, he reported, and shows early promise also of becoming a minor menace thru the introduction of universal blood banks and plasma and dissemination of information on latest surgical techniques in Caesarian deliveries and other abnormal pregnancies. Compulsory improvement of sanitation and procedure in the maternity wards of numerous hospitals under state supervision likewise has contributed to the drop in the maternity death rate, he said. So have the sulfa drugs and penicillin increased the safety of the delivery room.

As a result of progress in reducing the number of childbirth deaths, 350 Illinois women a year since 1932—or 4,200 mothers in all—are now alive, whereas they would have been dead according to the mortality tables which prevailed before that year, Dr. Falls said. This achievement, he said, has been the result of infinite education thruout the last 12 years, reaching members of the medical profession and lay persons alike. Shared equally by both the state and federal governments, it has cost approximately $100,000 a year, he said.

Under Dr. Falls' guidance, postgraduate and refresher courses in obstetrics have been taken by physicians in all parts of the state, and similar courses have been made available at the University of Illinois here. Exhibits done in marble, molded to scale in natural colors, have been shown at state and national medical meetings. Community demonstration centers, emphasizing the necessity for prenatal care and examinations, also have been set up.

The post-graduate courses to bring latest obstetrical findings to physicians have been illustrated with lantern slides drawn by Miss Charlotte S. Holt, a medical illustrator who is Dr. Falls' assistant in preparing the visual material.

You, Too, Can Learn Dancing, Shy Yank Told

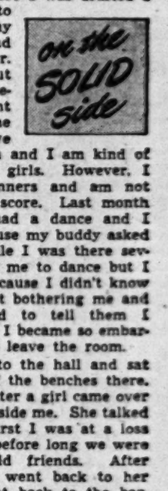
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"I am 18 years old and I am in the army. Before I was drafted I was helping to support my mother and younger brother. I didn't go out with girls because I spent most of my time working. I have not dated much and I am kind of bashful around girls. However, I have good manners and am not afraid on that score. Last month our company had a dance and I went to it because my buddy asked me to go. While I was there several girls asked me to dance but I didn't accept because I didn't know how. They kept bothering me and I was ashamed to tell them I couldn't; finally I became so embarrassed I had to leave the room.



"I walked into the hall and sat down on one of the benches there. A short while later a girl came over and sat down beside me. She talked to me and at first I was at a loss for words, but before long we were talking like old friends. After some time she went back to her date and I went back to the barracks. Later that night I realized that I wanted to see her again. I found out that she is very popular and therefore I don't think I have a chance. I haven't been around much and I don't know the proper way to meet her again. . . ."

Next time your company has a party, mark it down as a superspecial evening. Start out first with those same gals to whom you gave the gentle brush-off when they asked you to dance. When some honeychile, a hostess presumably, approaches to ask you if you'd like to make with the rhythm, tell her you would like to but you didn't do much dancing before you went into the army. Any average girl will be flattered to teach you all she knows.

Practice with a few of the more amiable pigeons until you get self-confidence and then look around for the other dream gal. If she was at one company dance, chances are good that she will be at the next one, and if she enjoyed talking with you, she will probably enjoy dancing with you, too. On second sight she may not be the sugar and spice and everything out of this atmosphere you had thought her to be but, after all — you've met some interesting date-bait in the meantime, haven't you?

'Personal and Private'

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1944: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS: John Ranger, owner of the Circle-JR ranch, and three of his men go in search of the rustlers who shot and killed Rod Spillman. On the way to the crossroads store, Sandra Ranger and her brother, Nelson, are intercepted by bandits. Sandra sees a horseman gallop down the slope. Two men, riding warily out of the hills, scrutinize the valley below.

INSTALMENT II.

PRISONER.

Out of a gash in the hills two men rode warily to the edge of the mesa and searched with their eyes the torn valley below. Seen from above, its floor was as wrinkled as a crumpled sheet of brown wrapping paper.

A brazen sun beat down on baked terrain sown with cactus and greasewood. The animals that at rare moments flitted thru the brush were fierce and furtive.

But no more savage than the men whose gaze squinted up and down the basin at their feet. The skin of the cholla was less tough than theirs.

Across the saddles of the two men rifles lay ready for instant use. The butts of revolvers projected from the pockets attached to the shiny leather chaps they wore.

His companion added dryly, "I hope."

The first speaker, a long, dark man with a scar across his left cheek from ear to chin, lifted a hand in a signal. Cattle dribbled out of the cut thru which they had just come, pushed forward by a heavy-set squat man bringing up the drag. The animals moved wearily. The bawling of the beasts for water was almost incessant.

Anxiously the scarfaced man slanted a look at the westerning sun. "Come dark we'll be in the clear—if night ever gets here. Once we reach the pass they'll never find us."

"Likely we had a long head start. No use getting scary I reckon. Loan me a chaw, Sim."

Sim was the oldest of the three and the smallest, with a face as seamed as a driedup winter apple. He drew a plug of tobacco from his hip pocket and threw it across to the other.

They turned the leaders into a draw that dropped down to the valley and presently the herd was in motion again. A cloud of fine dust, stirred by the tramping feet, rose into the air and marked their progress. The cattle smelled water and began to hurry. Scarface tried to check them, fearing a stampede, but the cattle pounded past him on a run. They tore down to the creek, which was dry except for half a dozen large pools, and crowded into the water.

They were getting the last of the cattle out of the bed of the creek when Chunk looked up and gave a shout of warning. Four armed men had just topped a knoll 200 yards away and were coming up the valley toward them. The heavy-set man whirled his cow pony and jumped it to a gallop. Scarface took his dust not a dozen yards in the rear. Sim was on the inside of the herd nearest the approaching riders, and he lost more time circling the closely packed cattle.

A voice called to him to halt, but Sim had urgent business elsewhere. He stooped low in the saddle, his quirt flogging the buckskin he rode. The crack of a Winchester sounded, then another. The body of the little man sank lower. He clutched at the horn of the saddle. His head slid along the shoulder of his mount toward the ground.

Three of the pursuers went past him without stopping, the fourth pulled up and swung from the saddle. The body of the little man lay face down in the sand. He turned it over. Altho the lips of the rustler were bloodless and his face gray, he was still alive. He recognized John Ranger, the man at his side.

"Who got you into this mess, Sim?" the cattleman asked.

The outlaw shook his head. His voice was low and faint. "You've killed me. Ain't that enough?" he murmured. They were his last words.

Rustlers and cowmen had disappeared over a rise, but to Ranger had come the sound of shots, four or five of them, the last one fainter as the distance increased. He remounted and rode after his friends. The reason why the thieves had fled without a fight was clear to him. They were not so much afraid of a battle as of having their identity discovered.

Near the end of the valley Ranger pulled up, uncertain whether the riders had ridden to the right or to the left of the great rock which rose like a giant flatiron to separate the two canyons running out of the desert to the hills beyond. A rifle boomed again, far above him to the left. Before he reached the scene of action he heard other shots.

The canyon opened into a small park hemmed in by a rock wall, at the foot of which was a boulder field. In one swift glance Ranger's eyes picked up his companions. Two of them were crouched behind cottonwoods and the third back of a fallen log, all watching the rock pile lying close to the cliff.

"Got a coon treed, Pete?" Ranger asked.

"Y'betcha. He's skulking in the rocks." The voice of the speaker was flat and venomous, his fox-like face sour and bitter. Peter Sholte was his name. He ran a small spread up by Double Fork. "Darned fool hasn't anything but a six-gun. We'll smoke him out soon."

The man behind another cottonwood had a suggestion. "Can't get at him from here, John. How about you riding up the gully and potting him from the bluff? He'll have to throw in his hand then."

"All right, Russ. The fellow you knocked off his horse down below has cashed in. He was old Sim Jones."

Russell Hart frowned. He was a quiet and responsible cattleman. It gave him no pleasure to know that he had killed a man, and particularly as inoffensive a man as Sim Jones.

"That's what bad company does for a man," he said. "If he hadn't thrown in with Scarface he would have gone straight enough. Sim was trifling, but there was no harm in him."

Ranger swung his horse around and guided it into a sunken channel that had been cut by floods from the ridge above to the park. At the summit he dismounted and tied the pony, then moved forward cautiously to the edge of the precipice. The trapped man was kneeling back of a boulder, revolver in hand.

The cattleman took careful aim and fired at the flat plane of one of the rocks. Startled at this attack from the air, the man below looked up. The face turned toward Ranger was bearded but young.

"Throw up your hands and walk out of there," ordered Ranger.

The man with the revolver knew he was beaten. His .45 would not carry accurately to any of his foes. Ranger was quite safe on the bluff, but from where he stood he could send bullets crashing into the body of the other.

"What's all the shooting about? demanded the stranger. "Why should you fellows jump me when I'm riding peacefully about my business?"

"Don't talk. Drop that gun and get going."

"All right. Call off your wolves and I'll go out."

Ranger shouted to the others that the fellow in the rocks was surrendering. Hands up, the man walked out from the boulder field. Two rifles covered him as he moved forward. He was a slim young fellow, coffee brown, in cowboy boots, levis, and well-worn Stetson. His blue-gray eyes were hard and frosty.

"I'll listen to yore apologies," he drawled.

Pete Sholte tittered, his small eyes gloating. "He's gettin' fixed to saw off a whopper on us. I'll bet it's good."

"What is this—a sheriff's posse?" the prisoner snapped.

"If any questions are necessary, we'll ask them," Hart answered harshly.

Thru the Looking Glass

It's common sense for the business girl to keep a little "beauty box" handy in her desk drawer, filled with the items that are necessary to keep her looking well groomed thruout the day. Few of us can go straight thru our working hours without having to cleanse the face in midafternoon, removing carbon smudges, the ordinary accumulation of grime that's part and parcel of working in crowded places, or renewing makeup that has lost its freshness. When cleansing cream, makeup base, powder, puffs, rouge, lipstick, and hairbrush or comb are kept together, ready for instant use, we're more likely to whip out of the office for a quick cleanup than if we have to go rooting thru various drawers hunting for things.

The midday beauty rite is as good for the disposition as it is for our complexion and good looks. When a woman knows she looks bedraggled, her spirits are inclined to droop and her efficiency as a worker suffers in consequence. But let her freshen her face and smooth her hair and she feels like a real person again.

We know that some business girls overdo cosmetics, paying more attention to their faces than to their work, but by and large, the average among us is too willing to let our fresh morning face grow gradually dimmer thru the day until by 5 o'clock we aren't even a reasonable facsimile of our nicest selves.

If you're a slipshod Susie, get working on that beauty cache, dig into it at least once a day, and see how much less like a tired toiler you look and feel. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Rutabagas and parsnips are economical vegetables to buy right now, but many families won't touch them. These poor misunderstood and abused plants deserve better treatment. Both vegetables are good sources of vitamin C, and both, when carefully prepared, are perfectly delicious. Trouble is, most cooks know of only one way to prepare each vegetable. They mash the rutabagas, and fry the parsnips.

Small whole parsnips may be glazed like carrots. For eight or 10 parsnips, melt 2 tablespoons margarine in a skillet or saucepan, add ¼ cup corn sirup and enough water to just cover the bottom of the pan. Heat previously cooked parsnips until glazed, turning them to coat evenly. A sprinkling of minced parsley is attractive.

Or split cooked parsnips, lay them in an ovenproof baking dish, sprinkle with brown sugar and margarine, and glaze under the broiling unit. A little dry mustard may be added with the brown sugar. If you have pineapple juice on hand, pour a little of it over the broiling parsnips for extra-special flavor.

For either of the two recipes suggested, parsnips should first be cooked in salted water until almost tender.

Rutabaga Croquettes.

[Serves four.]

2 cups mashed, seasoned rutabagas
3 tablespoons grated hard cheese
3 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons chopped peanuts or walnuts
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons margarine
Flour
Salt, pepper

Combine ingredients except margarine, shape into patties, and dip in flour. Saute until browned in the margarine, sprinkling lightly with salt and pepper.

Rutabagas and spinach make an attractive casserole because of the color contrast of bright yellow and green. Mash the rutabagas, season well with salt and pepper, and place in greased baking dish. Cover with creamed spinach or freshly cooked spinach without a sauce. Top with fine crumbs and cheese and bake until browned.

Cooked parsnips and cooked rutabagas both make good salads. Marinate the slices of vegetable in a highly seasoned French dressing and serve well chilled on greens.

Parsnip halves or pieces of rutabagas which have been cooked may be dipped in slightly beaten egg, then into crushed cornflakes and French fried until well browned. They're really good that way!

Film Gives Us a Bit of Corn from Corn Belt

"I'M FROM ARKANSAS."

A PRC picture, directed by Lew Landers, with Slim Summerville, El Brendel, and Irene Adrian, and presented at the Downtown.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

This one really plows up the old cornfield.

Esmerelda, a sow of Pitchfork, Ark., makes the headlines when she accomplishes the porcine equivalent of Mme. Dionne and throws [apparently the trade term] a litter of 18 little porkers.

She even makes the front page of Variety, where her story gives ideas to the manager of a troupe of burleycue girls on their uppers. Taking Variety's word for it that Esmerelda has b. o. value [probably a double entendre here], the gals and their boss repair to Pitchfork to get in on the publicity.

But they're not the only ones with the same idea. Masquerading as the real article, also comes a group of hillbillies of the New York radio studio variety. They mystify the girls for a while, but when the entertainment begins, the evenings being on the dull side in Pitchfork, competition develops—also romance.

More serious business is afoot when it is discovered that there are peculiar minerals in the mud of Pitchfork that enable Esmerelda to throw 18 piglets instead of—well, whatever the regulation number is. Investigation reveals that underneath the rude rural mud of Pitchfork are hot springs which contain properties salubrious to humans as well as pigs.

There is a county-wide celebration to mark the event, when to the dismay of every one Esmerelda disappears. Guess what follows—a pig calling contest, by gum!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 13.—Bob Hope seldom goes to night clubs or parties. Now he's going everywhere, all because he's not working. When Hope is on a picture, his set is always the gayest on the lot. Everybody congregates there for laughs and to swap stories, and any resemblance to hard labor is purely coincidental. But it's the spirit of fun that gets on the screen, and by nightfall Hope's had himself a time, and is only too eager to go home, have a quiet dinner, and tuck himself into bed. Now when evening shadows fall, he ain't tired. . . . Fay Bainter heard from her son about his entrance into liberated Paris. The first picture he saw there starred his mother. It was "White Banners," so he introduced his mother via the screen to his gang.

Bits, Scraps, and Pieces.

Carlos Ramirez goes from Metro into "Johnny Angel" with George Raft. . . . Skippy Homeier, who plays a little Nazi devil, is called "Junior Hiss." . . . Shelly Mitchell, Xavier Cugat's songbird, will sing but not be seen in "G. I. Joe." . . . Now it's RKO who's paging Lionel Hampton and his boogie-woogie players for "Sweet Georgia Brown." . . . Joel McCrea, in "The Virginian," is using the same stallion, Steel Dust, which he rode in "Buffalo Bill." Joel says, "Even if I'm not good in the picture, the horse is bound to be." When asked why he didn't use one of his own, he remarked that his cowboy friends, who rent their horses for pictures, had to make a living, too. Besides, they used to let him use their horses when he didn't have one of his own. . . . Harry Sherman's first Hopalong is "Murder on the Range" and will have a trained moose. No, not the kind you mean when you ask for ice cream.

Eddie's a Versatile Cuss.

Eddie Goulding didn't have the cash to buy a play, so he's writing one. It's "Last Sunday," and if it's as good on paper as it sounded over the telephone, it should have as long a run as his "Dancing Mothers." He's a funny guy, Goulding. You tell him he can't do a thing, and he'll break his neck doing it. For "The Trespassers" he wrote a song. When Channing Pollock kidded him about not being able to write, he wrote a play. Many here thought he couldn't do a picture without Irving Thalberg. But after Irving's death, he moved over to Warners and made one hit after another. He directed one of Bette Davis' finest—"Dark Victory." She was more human and less neurotic than in any picture she's done in years. Lord Northcliffe advised Goulding a long time ago to stick with the movies, saying, "One day you'll be able to use everything you've ever learned from them."

Nice Work If You Can Get It.

I see where O. O. Dull, who's been John Considine's assistant for 15 years, has taken Johnny's place as producer of "The Church of the Good Thief." John sure prepared a good script for him before he left Metro. . . . You've heard of ladies arguing about their screen wardrobe. They won't wear this or that. But Brian Donlevy, the big heman, is the first male star I've heard of who insists upon wearing that all black costume that made him famous in "Barbary Coast." He'll wear it—or else—in "The Virginian." Well, it's mighty well-fitting. . . . Walter Pidgeon tells me that just two years ago, Lauren Bacall stopped him on the street for an autograph. He was so struck by her appearance, he said, "You ought to be in pictures," and sent her to several producer friends. . . . Brenda Marshall asked her milkman if he knew of a cook and butler. The milkman quit his job, and he and his wife moved in to buttle.

The bidding:

Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of spades.

The study of card combinations and their proper play is very interesting and will repay the student of the game many times for the effort expended in learning them. A standard play involving a simple knowledge of fundamentals and yet not known by the vast majority of bridge players, came up in today's hand. Against the three no trump contract, West opened the deuce of spades, dummy's 10 was taken by East's ace. The continuation of that suit, naturally did not appear attractive since partner probably had no more than one entry.

East properly realized that in order to defeat the contract, club tricks must be developed. He, therefore, returned his fourth best club. Declarer ducked and won in dummy with the nine. The ace of diamonds was driven out and the king of clubs was still good for a trick. Declarer therefore succeeded in taking two spades, three hearts, three diamonds, and two clubs for a total of ten tricks. East's lead of the low club was very misguided.

The declarer was marked with the king and it should have been no secret that the low club lead would permit him to take two tricks in the suit. The proper return was the queen. This would be won by declarer's king and when West subsequently obtained the lead with the ace of diamonds, a club lead would have trapped dummy's jack.

A simple way to learn the proper play of this particular combination is this: When the dummy is under you [that is, plays before you] and contains an honor which you surround, as in this case the jack is surrounded by the queen and the 10 and you have an honor above that, as in this case the ace, you play as the dummy's honor were in your own hand. In other words, you consider that you hold the ace, queen, [jack] 10 from which the proper lead would be the queen.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM:

DUMMY [North]	EAST

You are East. Against a contract of three no trump your partner leads the jack of spades. Dummy plays low and you win with the king. What card do you return?

COURT UPHOLDS EICHER BAN ON TRIAL ATTORNEY

Decision Split, 3 to 2, on Laughlin Status.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—The United States Court of Appeals in a three to two decision today upheld the right of Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the District court to exclude Defense Attorneys James J. Laughlin from the mass sedition trial. The two dissenting justices, in a strongly worded opinion, said Justice Eicher's order limited the attorney's constitutional right of free speech.

The expulsion order was issued July 5 after Laughlin, who twice had been fined for contempt of court, told Justice Eicher he had petitioned the house of representatives to impeach Eicher because of the manner in which he was conducting the trial. Laughlin then asked the appeals court for a writ of mandamus to compel Justice Eicher to rescind his expulsion order. Today's decision denied Laughlin's plea.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Henry W. Edgerton, asserted Laughlin's action made his continued participation in the case worthless to both his clients and the court. The dissent was written by Justice Harold M. Stephens and concurred in by Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner.

Action Called Penalty.

The dissent said that it is "one thing for a judge to forbid a lawyer's continuing in an unethical position which will vitiate the fairness of a trial and quite another thing for a judge to forbid a lawyer's further appearance in a trial because he has filed outside the court" an impeachment petition.

"The plain fact, under the record upon which the respondent's order of expulsion was made, is, in my opinion, that the order was in the nature of a penalty imposed upon the petitioner for filing the impeachment petition," Justice Stephens wrote.

In the majority opinion, in which Justices Thurman W. Arnold and Justin Miller concurred, Justice Edgerton wrote that Laughlin's action in stating in open court that he had filed the impeachment petition was contemptuous. He added that Eicher might have punished Laughlin for this contempt, but that instead he turned from punishment to prevention.

"He might have initiated proceedings for petitioner's disbarment or suspension from practice," he said. "He chose a more lenient and more promptly effective course."

Represented 2 Defendants.

Laughlin was the attorney for defendants James Edward Smythe of New York and Robert Noble of Los Angeles. Noble subsequently was given a severance. Justice Eicher appointed M. Edward Buckley to represent Smythe despite the latter's protests declining Buckley's services and demanding reinstatement of Laughlin.

The Appeals court decision was issued while the trial neared the end of its sixth month. Today the government's witness was Henry Allen, former member of the Silver Shirts in California, who appeared reluctant to testify against the 26 defendants.

A letter Allen received from George Deatherage, a defendant and former head of the American Nationalist confederation, was read to the jury. In it Deatherage said the vital problem "before us all is to combine in one organization on a national scale for without that we will all be knocked off—one by one." Deatherage added that the unification plan had not been very successful, however, because "each leader has his own ideas and it is difficult to persuade them to work with any one else."

Edward Zikowski, 34, a war worker, fainted outside the courtroom of Circuit Judge Michael Feinburg yesterday after his estranged wife, Adeline, 28, of 2014 N. Hermitage av., spurned his plea for a reconciliation.

Mrs. Zikowski, suing for divorce on a charge of drunkenness, was granted temporary support of $20 a week for her two children, Rose, 5, and Sandra, 2. She appeared in court with Attys. Joseph H. and Norman Becker and said Zikowski tried to burn her clothes when she refused him money to buy drinks.

Zikowski collapsed on a staircase after the hearing, and was propped against the railing as his wife walked hurriedly by.

ACCUSED WOMAN TESTIFIES NURSE KILLED HERSELF

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Roberta Steiger today told a Sangamon county Circuit court jury trying her on a charge of murder that her "best friend, whom I loved like a sister," voluntarily took rat poison last July 2 in a fit of anger after a quarrel. The case will probably go to the jury tomorrow.

The state has charged Mrs. Steiger, 26, mother of a 4 year old daughter and estranged from her husband, with having fed poison in a peanut butter sandwich to the friend, Miss Helen Hovey, 24, a nurse. Miss Hovey died July 8.

State's Atty. Alfred H. Greening had declared the two women "had struck up a strange attachment of a sex nature" and that Mrs. Steiger put poison in her friend's sandwich because she feared their relationship was ending.

Tells of "Happy Sunday."

Taking the stand after Judge L. E. Stone denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of innocent, Mrs. Steiger told the jury of seven housewives and five men of a "happy Sunday" she and Miss Hovey spent in their three room cottage at the outskirts of Springfield.

She said that toward late afternoon Miss Hovey "worked herself into a hysterical state."

"I tried to quiet her," Mrs. Steiger testified. "Helen said she didn't want to go home for her father's birthday. She took a picture I had given her the money to buy for his present and threw it to the floor. She said:

"'See! He won't get it. See? I'm not going and you can't make me.'

"She was in a hysterical state. She threw a lamp to the floor and I took her arms. Then I pushed her back to the wall.

"She pushed me to the floor and said, 'All right, all right. I'll go to the railroad.' She meant she was going to throw herself in front of a train."

Instead, Mrs. Steiger testified, Miss Hovey went into the kitchen and swallowed a quantity of rat poison.

Neighbor Backs Testimony.

Mrs. Steiger said Miss Hovey insisted neighbors and officials should be told the poisoning was accidental.

Earlier a neighbor, Mrs. Myrtle Pritchard, testified:

"When I went to the house I found Miss Hovey very sick. She said, 'Mrs. Pritchard, will you forgive me?' I asked why, and she said, 'For taking poison.'"

WAUKEGAN FIRE SWEEPS STORES; $120,000 DAMAGE

Fire which swept the three-story brick building at 202 S. Genesee st., Waukegan, caused damage totaling $120,000, Fire Chief Thomas McNamara estimated yesterday. The building is occupied by the Sample Furniture store, and the Western Tire & Auto Supply store. The fire, of unknown origin, centered on the top floor, destroying stored furnitured owned by 50 families. The floor was gutted. Smoke and water damage was extensive on lower floors. Waukegan's four truck companies were assisted by companies from the Great Lakes Naval Training center, Gurnee, North Chicago, Zion, and Antioch departments.

CONTINUE TIRE CHARGES; THREE MORE ARRESTED

A charge of receiving stolen property against Jack William Louis Koehne, 42, of 1220 Westview rd., Glenview, vice president of the Koehne Studios, Inc., 17 N. State st., was continued yesterday in Felony court for further investigation. Charges against two others involved in the case also were continued.

The charge grew out of Koehne's purchase a week ago of four new tires which had been stripped from a new car. Koehne surrendered voluntarily when he learned the tires were stolen. Two garage men, where the new car was stripped, are being held by ploice.

Woodlawn police yesterday arrested three other persons in connection with the case. They are Robert Hawes, operator of a garage at 6634 Cottage Grove av.; Peter Moch Jr., 29, of 6745 S. Halsted st., an upholsterer, and Ernest Rhodes, 55, of 6141 Dorchester av., a blacksmith. All are held on open charges.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 28th annual national convention of the Professional Golfers' Association of America opened yesterday in the Continental hotel, 505 N. Michigan av., with delegates from 28 sections attending. Ed Dudley, the amiable Georgian who has fulfilled the presidency since Nov. 12, 1941, presided over the opening session of the two day meeting, and was host at the president's stag dinner last night in the hotel.

Fred J. Corcoran.

The visiting delegates went into meeting with the conviction that golf has done a fine job of assisting in the war, not only with the number of P. G. A. members who are now in service, but also with the variety of exhibition matches and tournaments directed toward war relief since Pearl Harbor.

Book Heavy Program.

Fred J. Corcoran, the hustling Boston Irishman whose contract as manager of the tournament bureau has just been renewed for three years, announced one of the most crowded competitive calendars ever attempted by the P. G. A. There is still a possibility, he indicated, that the annual Masters' tournament, regarded as a peace time highlight of the tournament circuit, may yet be revived. This, of course, will be dependent upon the plans of Robert T. Jones Jr., inspiration of the Masters, who recently received an honorable discharge from the army air forces after serving overseas as a lieutenant colonel. Tournament veterans said there could be no finer climax to one of the best playing schedules Corcoran ever has arranged than a return to the handsome Masters' course in Augusta, Ga.

Corcoran Announces Schedule.

Date.	Event.	Purse [war bonds].
Nov. 23-26—Portland, Ore., Open		$13,333
Dec. 1-4—San Francisco, Cal. Open		13,333
Dec. 7-10—Oakland, Cal., Open		7,500
Dec. 7-11—Miami, Fla., Open [cash]		10,000
Dec. 15-17—Richmond, Cal., Open		7,500
Jan. 5-8—Los Angeles Open		13,333
Jan. 12-14—Phoenix, Ariz., Op. [e'h]		5,000
Jan. 19-21—Tucson, Ariz., Open		5,000
Jan. 26-28—San Antonio, Tex., Open		5,000
Feb. 9-11—Gulfport, Miss., Open		5,000
Feb. 16-18—New Orleans, La., Open		5,000
Feb. 23-25—Pensacola, Fla., Open		5,000
March 10-12—Miami, Fla., Four Ball		7,500
March 16-19—Charlotte, N. C., Open		7,500
March 23-25—Greensboro, N., Open		5,500
March 30-April 1—Durham, N. C., Op.		5,000

In addition to the above dates, Corcoran also has his eye on a number of other sites, for which dates have been left open. Outstanding among these are Dec. 28, 29, 30, and 31, on which Bing Crosby, a fellow who is known to sing and play golf, may entertain the professionals at the Rancho Santa Fe golf course. Still another open set of dates is that embracing Feb. 2-4, when a tournament may be held in one of two Texas cities, Houston or Harlingen.

Veterans to Play in Miami.

The rich Miami Open is not expected to attract the bulk of the swinging stars, but is almost certain of drawing the entries of such able gents as Gene Sarazen, John Revolta, Henry Picard, and Toney Penna. The long swing originating in Portland, Ore., on Nov. 23 will find the year's leading money winners, Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden, vying with such as Craig Wood, Sam Byrd, Bob Hamilton, and Jimmy Hines. An old threat to the Nelson-McSpaden domination will pop up in the person of Samuel Jackson Snead, who has been given a medical discharge by the navy, and who already is headed for the northwest.

The P. G. A. is expected to hold its annual election this morning, with Dudley a favorite to retain the presidency.

Who Gets the Smokes?

No wisecracks, mind you, no puns, no jokes—
What we wanna know is, who gets the smokes,
The soldiers, the sailors, perhaps the marines,
The WACS or the WAVES or the movie queens?
We thought that the dearth of nylons was sad,
But a shortage of pills, that's really bad—
Do you think some old meanie hides them away
To puff in our face come that rainy day?
And what will the cinema actors do
In those scenes where the dialogue seemed to lag
"For a ——— I'd willingly walk a mile"?
Well, there are many who'd go on much longer hikes
Just for a package of ——— ———.
What I wouldn't give for a carton of ———,
[I can't mention names, that's advertising]
But courage, milads, for the sun is rising;
Yes, there's always hope, so never despair,
First bear in mind "C'est la guerre,"
Then let's just dispense with the grouch and the gripe,
For remember, there's always the corncob pipe!

BUY BOND AND SIT WITH IRISH OR WILDCATS!

50 Subscribers Will Get Bench Seats.

Football fans who have had a suppressed, or expressed, yearning to sit on the players' bench during a big league college contest, will have that opportunity when Northwestern and Notre Dame clash Saturday in South Bend.

How do the players react as the tide of battle sways? What does a player say when he comes off the field to rest? Do the coaches remain calm, or do they, like the fans, let off steam during the game? Just what is it like, anyway, down there on the field?

Tribune Accepting Bond Orders.

The 25 fans who will sit on Northwestern's bench and the like complement who will park among Notre Dame's players will learn these answers first hand—and at the same time make a substantial contribution to the sixth war bond drive.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the South Bend Tribune, serving as a medium for this project sponsored by the treasury department, now are accepting war bond orders which will win a prized place on the bench of the purchaser's choice. Minimum amount is $10,000 for a seat. Purchasers in the Chicago area are asked to send their orders to War Bond Football Editor, Sports Department, Chicago Tribune. Order forms with certified checks, bank drafts, or money orders attached, or bona fide orders for 2½ or 2 per cent treasury bonds will be accepted.

Anticipate $500,000 in Sales.

Cashiers' checks or drafts should be made payable to the treasurer of the United States; personal checks to the bank upon which they are drawn, or all forms of remittances to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. All orders must be received by midnight Friday.

Thus, if all 50 bench seats are subscribed, this will mean at least $500,000 in bond sales.

There is another phase to the war bond sale with two sports collectors' items as the prize. This will pit Chicago and Illinois fans against South Bend and Indiana enthusiasts. A football autographed by the late Knute Rockne and members of his last team at Notre Dame, in 1930, is the major award. The other one is a football which will be autographed by the winning team in Saturday's contest.

Coaches Enthusiastic.

One will go to the leading Illinois individual purchaser, the other to the Indiana enthusiast who makes the top purchase in his state. Naturally, the Rockne ball will go to the No. 1 war bond customer.

Fans who reach down for a $10,000 seat on the bench may add this amount to another purchase aimed toward winning the football award.

Northwestern and Notre Dame coaching staffs have responded enthusiastically to the novel event. The Rockne football has been contributed by an anonymous Chicago banker in memory of his son, copilot of a Flying Fortress, who lost his life over Kassel, Germany, last year. Among the autographs on this historic football are those of Frank Carideo, Marchmont Schwartz, Nick Lukats, Tommy Yarr, Jim Harris, Johnny O'Brien, Chuck Jaskwich, Ed Kosky, Regis McNamara, John Rogers, Mike Koken, Frank Butler, Jack Saunders, George Vik, Tom Kassis, Al Howard, Bucky O'Connor, Moon Mullins, Jack Chevigny, Fritz Stahl, and Ed Kosky.

SWEDISH STARS WEIGH OFFERS FROM AMERICA

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 13 (AP).—Airplane transportation to the United States has been offered Swedish track stars Gunder Hagg, Arne Andersson, and Haakan Lidman, according to the Swedish Athletic association which announced it would reply to the American offer on Nov. 22.

Gunder Hagg.

"Acceptance is up to the boys," said Secretary Bo Eklund, altho Hagg and Andersson have been represented by athletic authorities as extremely reluctant to make the journey, principally because of their dislike for indoor racing.

HAWKS TO PLAY BRUINS TONIGHT IN CELLAR GAME

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Blackhawks, National Hockey league cellar dwellers, will escape from the pit tonight—if they have improved enough to beat Herb Cain, Bill Cowley, and the other Boston Bruins who socked them, 6 to 2, in the first meeting of the teams here a week ago Sunday night. Tonight's game will be played in Boston.

The Hawks, tho defeated in the Stadium Sunday night by the world champion Montreal Canadiens, 4 to 2, showed vast improvement over earlier form and were encouraged to believe they might eke out a victory over the Bruins. If they can put Mickey Finns in Cain's and Cowley's beer, they would be almost an even money bet to beat the Bruins by a goal or two.

Meet Leafs Saturday.

On the way back from Boston the Hawks will stop off in Toronto for two afternoons of private hockey practice and a night of experience in competition with the Maple Leafs, who whipped them, 11 to 5, in the Chicago season opener. After a Leaf-Hawk game in Toronto Saturday night, the teams will come to Chicago for a spectacle in the Stadium Sunday.

In the Toronto games the boys will have to vie with the league's two top point scorers, Sweeney Schriner, back in hockey after a year of military service, and Gus Bodnar, linemate of Schriner's.

Schriner and Bodnar Tied.

In the first scoring list of the season announced yesterday by President Red Dutton, Schriner and Bodnar were tied with 15 points apiece. Top point getter for the Hawks is Harvey Fraser, a Vancouver amateur until the opening of this National league season. Clint Smith and Earl Seibert are other Hawks on the initial list of 17 top scorers. The list follows:

	Goals.	Assists.	Pts.
Schriner, Toronto	9	6	15
Bodnar, Toronto	4	11	15
Carr, Toronto	6	7	13
Howe, Detroit	4	9	13
Blake, Montreal	6	5	11
Bruneteau, Detroit	5	5	10
Cowley, Boston	4	6	10
Fraser, Chicago	5	4	9
Lach, Montreal	2	7	9
McAtee, Detroit	6	1	7
Richard, Montreal	5	2	7
C. Smith, Chicago	2	5	7
Cain, Boston	4	2	6

ILLINOIS PLANS SURPRISE PARTY FOR OHIO STATE

"There'll be plenty of fireworks Saturday in Cleveland and we're expecting Illinois to furnish its share," Doug Mills, Illinois athletic director and basketball coach, told guests at the Wailing Wall luncheon yesterday noon in the La Salle hotel.

"The game with Ohio State is a sell-out, in fact we could have sold 150,000 tickets had they been available," he said. "We're not saying much at Illinois, but we figure we have a team that will upset the applecart at least once during the season, and this may be the game."

Games in East to Top Pros' Card Sunday

BY EDWARD PRELL.

New York and Philadelphia will be the twin capitals of professional football Sunday.

Frank Filchock.

The Packers are traveling all the way to New York to clinch the western division crown — they hope. In Washington, two unbeaten teams, the Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles, who fought to a 31 to 31 draw on Oct. 8, will have their second showdown.

A Packer victory in the Polo Grounds would serve a double purpose, that of bringing them a western title for the first time since 1939, and a virtual knockout of the Giants' eastern title ambitions.

Bears Out of Picture.

The Bears? They're now little more than passers-by looking into the championship window and a rare experience for them is this after four straight western championships. The Packers' rebounding job against the Rams in Cleveland Sunday just about eliminated the Bears' thin hope of somehow catching up. Green Bay finishes its campaign a week from Sunday in Chicago against the Cards-Pitts, who afford the northerners a sure fire championship opportunity if they still need a victory.

The Bears' recent shadowy hopes were based on the premise they would win their remaining contests. Now they have three left: Lions in Detroit Sunday; Eagles in Philadelphia Nov. 26, and Card-Pitts in Pittsburgh Dec. 3.

Chicago fans, by the way, will get their first look Sunday at the Card-Pitts, the team which defies explanation. They swatted out more yardage in the air and on the ground Sunday than the Lions, but all it netted them was their seventh straight league defeat. Their opponents Sunday in Comiskey park are the Cleveland Rams, now bogged down with four consecutive losses after a spectacular three-game winning string early in the season.

Observers Differ on Outcome.

Scouts, coaches, and other observers have widely divergent opinions on the ultimate winner in the east's scrambled race. Each of the three contenders — Giants, Eagles, and Redskins — have their supporters.

Those who like the Giants' chances point out that Steve Owen's teams always are whirlwind finishers and his athletes have two games coming up against the Redskins. Many are agreed that the Eagles pack the most power and speed among the eastern trio and that Vic Sears, their great tackle who was hurt early in the season, will be available for games against the Bears, Tigers, and Rams; the Redskins' adherents believe that the old Texan, Sammy Baugh, will play an increasingly important part in Washington's future games. They do not forget, either, that Frank Filchock, teamed with Baugh, gives the Redskins a continuous offensive threat in the air, and that Sammy still is the best punter in the league.

Small Crowd Sees Louis Win in Exhibition Bout

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—A disappointing crowd of 4,068 enabled Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, to earn only about $3,000 tonight in his 3 round exhibition bout with Jimmy Bell, 180 pound Washington boxer. It marked Louis' third barnstorming bout while on a 21 day leave.

AUSTIN LOSES COIN TOSS FOR PLAYOFF BERTH

Victor Will Qualify for Kelly Bowl.

The City high school league football championship will be settled in Soldiers' Field Saturday afternoon when undefeated, untied Fenger High school's Titans meet an unbeaten but twice tied Tilden Tech eleven.

Tilden advanced to the finals yesterday, after winning a coin toss with Austin High school. Tilden and Austin, playing in a City league semi-final game Saturday, in Shewbridge Field, battled to a 7 to 7 tie, which necessitated the coin toss. City league rules do not provide for a playoff of tie games.

9th Straight for Fenger.

Fenger advanced to the league finals by defeating Lane Tech, 8 to 7, in a semi-final contest in Soldiers' Field last Saturday. It was Fenger's ninth straight victory, but the Indians, champions of the north section, gave Fenger its closest call of the season. Previous to the Lane encounter, Fenger had rolled up 288 points in eight games and won the south section championship.

The coin was tossed in the office of August Pritzlaff, director of physical education for the board of education, with Coach Chuck Harvey and Frank Hartmann representing Tilden, while Coach Bill Heiland and Rudolph Schmidt represented Austin.

Austin to Share Honors.

Coach Chuck Palmer of Fenger, and Harvey, after the toss, picked officials for Saturday's contest. Bill Downes of Illinois Tech will referee; Ike Craig, Illinois Wesleyan, umpire; William McHugh, De Paul, head linesman, and Earl Preuss, Army, field judge.

Tilden will go into the championship game with a record that is marred only by the Austin tie, and a 14 to 14 deadlock with Lindblom early in the season. Austin tied two and lost one, in eight starts, before meeting Tilden.

Austin will share any honors Tilden might win in the playoff, or in later games involving the City league, according to a policy followed by the league.

Fenwick to Meet Weber.

The winner of the Fenger-Tilden game will represent the City league in the Kelly bowl game on Dec. 2, when the public and Catholic league champions meet in Soldiers' field. The Catholic league championship will be decided this Sunday, when Fenwick's Friars, champions of the north section, meet Weber's Red Horde, south section titleholder, in Soldiers' field.

The Catholic circuit, refusing to follow a coin tossing policy this year after St. George and Mount Carmel flipped for the title and Kelly bowl representation last season, has ruled that should the Catholic championship game be tied, the contest will be replayed the following Sunday.

Palmer Makes Title Plans.

Coach Palmer of Fenger, in mapping plans for the title contest, voiced satisfaction over the success of the air attack, against Lane. It was the Titan passing offense, featuring Pete Konyar throwing to Tim Madden, that kept Fenger deep in Lane territory most of the afternoon.

Palmer's eleven functioned smoothly in most departments Saturday as its collection of backs reversed, smashed the line, and ran the ends to keep the Lane team from going all out for pass defense. The Fenger line charged hard, and blocked two Indian kicks, altho the Titans had trouble with Lane's two husky tackles, Capt. Bill Fischer, 230 pounds, and Ed Garcea, 210 pounds, who gave Fenger's running attack most of the difficulty it experienced.

154,000 TO SEE OHIO STATE PLAY NEXT 2 GAMES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 13.—On the next two Saturday afternoons 154,000 football fans, the majority of them from the state of Ohio, will pay to see the Ohio State Buckeyes in their climactic bids against Illinois and Michigan for the 1944 Western conference championship. Thus attendance at nine Ohio State games this fall, seven of them in Columbus, will be approximately 450,000, a notable figure for intercollegiate sport handicapped by army orders and argument in some quarters that such competition should have been abandoned for the period of the war.

The Illinois-Ohio State game in the Cleveland Municipal stadium next Saturday is sold out. Today one cannot purchase a ticket except from scalpers. Eighty-two thousand three hundred sixty-three reserved seats have been sold. Three thousand general admission tickets will be given to service men. Illinois authorities—this is Illinois' home game—decided last week not to place 10,000 standing room tickets on sale at $1.20, altho public demand was urgent.

72,000 Will See Title Game.

The Michigan-Ohio State game a week from Saturday in Columbus has been sold out for several weeks. Seventy-two thousand will see the game, which will decide the conference championship regardless of the outcome of the contest here this week.

Ohio State's attendance mark for the season can be exceeded only by Notre Dame, which now has attracted approximately 380,000 spectators in seven games. The Buckeyes' mark, however, is distinctly a state proposition, for eight of the nine games are in Ohio. Notre Dame's largest crowds have been in Pittsburgh, New York, Baltimore, and, strangely enough, in Champaign, Ill.

100,000 More than Expected.

Public interest in intercollegiate football also is reflected in the attendance records for Illinois and Michigan. If 25,000 attend the Northwestern-Illinois game Nov. 25, Illinois will have played before 265,000 fans in nine games, not including attendance at Great Lakes for the Illinois-Bluejackets contest. The figure is 100,000 more than the estimate in the athletic department's budget.

If Michigan and Wisconsin draw 20,000 spectators this week, the Wolverines' season attendance will be approximately 371,000 and will exceed the 1943 mark built around an 87,000 crowd for the Michigan-Notre Dame game. Unofficial figures:

FOOTBALL OLD TIMERS TO HOLD DINNER TONIGHT

The second annual dinner of the Old Time Football Players association in the Morrison hotel's Terrace Casino tonight has been designated at Kick-Off night for the 6th war bond drive. The dinner to start at 6 p. m. is a sellout, with 500 guests anticipated.

Among guests will be Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference; Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National Football league; Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern university coach; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education for the Chicago public schools; Paddy Driscoll of the Chicago Bears, and Alfred Willis of the Illinois High School association. Hal Totten will be toastmaster.

HUGH C. KELLY, IRISH SPORTS LEADER, DIES

BELFAST, Nov. 13 (AP).—Hugh C. Kelly, 95, famous Irish sportsman and yachtsman, died here today.

Kelly who was a member of the Royal Ulster Yacht club for 72 years, represented Sir Thomas Lipton on the Columbia when the first Shamrock was a challenger for the America's cup and made arrangements for other races. In 1886, he took an Irish lacrosse team to the United States and Canada.

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Army, by drubbing Notre Dame Saturday, not only tightened its own grasp on first place in today's Associated Press poll to determine the country's top ranking football team but also knocked the Irish out of the first 10 for the first time since Oct. 12, 1942.

Notre Dame skidded all the way to 11th in the estimation of 106 of the country's writers, following its defeat by Navy and Army on consecutive Saturdays.

Buckeyes Slip Despite Victory.

The Cadets gained 77 of the first place nominations, 25 selections for second place and were third on two and fourth on the remaining pair. On a basis of 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., they totaled 935 points.

Randolph Field climbed to second place with 770 points, exchanging places with Ohio State, which now is in fourth place with 741. Navy, third a week ago, retained that rating with 759 points. The Buckeye drop came despite a 54 to 19 conquest of Pittsburgh. Randolph Field conquered Maxwell Field, 25 to 0, last week.

Georgia Tech and Duke, two southern powers, moved into the top 10, displacing Illinois and Notre Dame. Tech took ninth place while Duke, which spilled previously unbeaten Wake Forest, was awarded 10th.

Two Setbacks and Out.

Filley of Irish Eleven Feared Lost for Year

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 13 (AP).—Notre Dame's football squad returned home today from New York where it suffered the most crushing defeat in its football history in Saturday's 59 to 0 loss to Army. No practice was held this afternoon.

Capt. Pat Filley and Fred Roval, guards, suffered knee injuries in the army game. Filley is expected to be lost for the season and Roval may not see action against Northwestern here Saturday.

N. U.'S SICKELS INJURED.

Northwestern's Wildcats began preparations yesterday for their annual encounter Saturday with Notre Dame at South Bend. A number of Wildcat regulars are nursing bumps and bruises as a result of the Purdue game Saturday, the most serious being Duane Sickels, veteran end, who may be unable to play against the Irish. One cheering note in the Wildcat camp yesterday was the news that Bob Funderburg, regular full back who did not play against Purdue because of a leg injury, will be ready to take over his place in the lineup this week. Funderburg displayed great improvement as a line plunger in recent games and will add punch to the Wildcat attack.

The return of Hap Murphey, freshman half back from Highland Park, also will fortify Northwestern's dwindling back field strength. Murphey, who graduated from the B team midway in the season, sustained a pulled leg muscle in the Minnesota game two weeks ago.

Hank Altepeter, who has blossomed forth as Northwestern's leading ball carrier off his showing against Indiana, Minnesota, and Purdue, showed no ill effects yesterday from being knocked out on the last play of the Purdue game when he was tackled on the one foot line after taking a pass from Johnny Yungwirth. Altepeter, who has averaged six yards per try in the last three games, will carry much of Northwestern's hopes for a victory over the Irish.

BRAY INJURED AGAIN.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 13 [Special].—Eddie Bray, Illinois half back, who has been in and out of the lineup this season, may be absent when the team plays Ohio State in Cleveland, Saturday, Coach Ray Eliot said today. Bray suffered a wrenched knee playing touch football last Christmas while visiting a teammate, Jack Larson, in Riverside. The knee has never quite carried him along the same path which he rode last year to a 7.1 average, tying Bill Daley for the top rushing position in the Western conference. It has forced him to leave the lineup on several occasions.

"It's ironical," said Eliot, "that our boy went thru a tough nine games last year without injury and has never been hurt this year, beyond the recurrence of his touch football mishap."

Buddy Young, tho he made the two longest runs in last Saturday's game with Michigan, 28 and 24 yards, and had the best running average of any back on the field, 4.9 yards for 17 attempts, saw his overall record slide below the national mark for which he is shooting. He went into the game with a 12.5 average, but this is now 10.6, as compared to the modern record of 12.2 credited to Jackie Robinson of U. C. L. A. in 1939.

PURDUE DRILLS FOR NAVY.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 13 [Special].—Purdue, still hoping to figure in the Big Nine title distribution after victories over Wisconsin and Northwestern in the last two weeks, today launched preparations for its battle against a powerful Navy eleven in Baltimore on Saturday.

Coach Cecil Isbell, after praising the performances of the three freshman backs who teamed up with Boris [Babe] Dimancheff in the 27 to 7 victory over Northwestern, devoted his main attention to increasing the sharpness of blocking on running plays.

The Badgers will hold no practice tomorrow and will attend the funeral of Shafer in a body as will former teammates from West High school where he played a year ago.

CRISLER FEARS LETDOWN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13 [Special]. — Michigan started preparations today for its Western conference game at Wisconsin Saturday and Coach Fritz Crisler warned his charges against letting down for a presumably inferior opponent after last week's 14 to 0 triumph over Illinois. The Wolverines must defeat Wisconsin to stay in the title fight which now has narrowed to Ohio State's undefeated Buckeyes, Michigan, and Purdue. The last two have lost one game each.

REVIVE DRIVE TO CHANGE SITE OF SERVICE GAME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP). —A renewed drive to shift the Army-Navy football game from Annapolis to a big city stadium started on Capitol hill today, with a direct appeal to the President in prospect.

The move was touched off by Presidential Secretary Stephen Early's statement at a press conference that he was sure the President would keep the annual service contest on a community basis because of transporation problems.

18,756 Limit at Annapolis.

Previous congressional efforts to swing the game to Philadelphia or some other large city, where 60,000 to 100,000 might see it, fizzled out. The game has been set for Dec. 2 in the naval academy's stadium, which seats 18,756.

Congressional circles reacted quickly to Early's comment.

Rep. Manasco [D., Ala.] said he would ask Speaker Rayburn and House Majority Leader MacCormack, upon their return to the capital tomorrow, to lead a house group in a final appeal to the President for a change.

Teams Among Best in History.

Senator Johnson [D., Colo.], a ranking member of the senate military affairs committee, said he favored transferring the game to a larger stadium.

Calling this year's service teams two of the finest ever turned out by the academies, Johnson predicted that the game this year would be the greatest in the long time rivalry. He volunteered to go with any other congressmen in calling upon the President.

Suggests War Bond Tieup.

Rep. Martin [R., Mass.], house minority leader, said he thought it was foolish to limit the game to residents of the Annapolis area. Capacity crowds have attended games all over the country and any city selected for the Army-Navy contest would fill the stands from people in its immediate area, he said.

Martin suggested tying in the game with the 6th war loan drive. He said millions of dollars worth of bonds could be sold at the game and that it would give the drive impetus all over the nation from the publicity received.

Hunters Take Hens and Law Takes Hunters

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois conservation officers checked automobiles on the Northwest highway last Saturday, first day of the pheasant season, and apprehended 28 hunters who had pheasant hens in their possession. A similar check on a Du Page county road netted the officers nine hen shooters in a couple of hours, according to Tony Maggio, head of the Chicago office of the Illinois department of conservation.

Maggio stated yesterday that he believed northern Illinois hunters must have shot [either deliberately or accidentally] nearly as many hens as cocks during the first two days of the season.

Dogs Are Invaluable.

One hunter who went after pheasants near Pontiac, Ill., reports that the setter dog which his party used found five dead hen pheasants [before 8 a. m. the first morning] which had been shot by hunters who jumped the gun before it was light enough to see birds clearly.

Another annual loss of birds is the large number of cock pheasants which are shot and never found by hunters without dogs. In such heavy cover as we have this year a retrieving dog not only is a time saver and a lot of fun, but it saves the state a good many thousands of dollars worth of game by recovering pheasants which could not be retrieved by hunters alone. Studies of pheasant shooting show that it's not unusual for dogless hunters to lose 50 to 60 per cent of the birds dropped.

This One Is Recaptured.

Two retrievers stand out as unusually interesting during our opening day hunting. Our Labrador located a wing tipped bird in a jungle of rushes and long grass, picked it up and brought it to us. When we tried to take hold of the bird she let go and it slipped away from us. The bird bored into the cover quick as a flash as we let out a yell to our hunting partner. The setter, Huntstone Felicia, was about 20 feet from these goings on. Suddenly she made a jump and came up with the bird. It seemed as if one dog had just relayed it to the other.

But the queerest recovery of the day was this: One of our friends dropped a cock pheasant at the edge of a lake. It fell in the water behind high cattails. The splash of the bird was heard distinctly. But no pheasant could be seen. Then the setter picked up a hot trail on the bank, followed it 150 feet to an ice house on a low hill and picked up the bird in a tuft of grass near the building.

3 OF 4 PUBLIC WLB MEMBERS SEEK TO RESIGN

Only L. K. Garrison Would Remain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—President Roosevelt today was confronted with the task of finding three new appointees for the national war labor board when it was disclosed that three of the four public members have submitted their resignations. They are William H. Davis, chairman; George W. Taylor, vice chairman, and Dr. Frank P. Graham.

The fourth member, Lloyd K. Garrison, former dean of the University of Wisconsin law school, said he had not offered his resignation. He was general counsel of the board until he replaced Wayne L. Morse, who resigned to campaign successfully as a Republican for the United States senate in Oregon.

Garrison was mentioned as a possibility to succeed Davis as chairman.

Members Since 1942.

Davis, Graham, and Taylor have been public members of the board since it was formed in January, 1942. With the labor and management members frequently opposed to each other, the public members often cast the deciding votes in the board's decisions.

Davis told reporters at a press conference today that he had submitted his resignation on his 65th birthday, Aug. 29, to be effective, if possible, Jan. 1. He said he had always planned to "slow down and do things which I regard as recreation" when he became 65.

He said that returning to private law practice as a patents attorney in New York would be recreation compared with the tumultuous work of running the WLB.

Offered Resignation Oct. 9.

Dr. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, submitted his resignation Oct. 9, with the request that it become effective when the board concludes its current wage deliberations, which include labor's demand that the Little Steel wage formula be broken. He said the university trustees have been insisting that he return to the university.

Taylor intends to return to the University of Pennsylvania, where he taught economics. He handed in his resignation Oct. 19 and said he hoped to be relieved of his duties by Dec. 1.

Asked to "Hang On."

Before Davis disclosed his plan to leave the agency, Stephen J. Early, President Roosevelt's secretary, told a press conference that Davis had expressed a wish to quit but that there had been no formal resignation. He said Mr. Roosevelt, replying to Davis' letter of Aug. 29, asked him to "hang on by your eyelids a while longer."

Lewis M. Gill, former chairman of the Cleveland regional board; Dexter M. Keezer, former president of Reed college, Oregon; Edwin E. Witt, professor of economics, University of Wisconsin; and Nathan P. Feinsinger, professor of law at the University of Wisconsin.

CORN RECOVERS ON STRENGTH IN OTHER GRAINS

Corn futures recovered to close irregular on the Chicago Board of Trade after early selling on receipts of more than 1⅛ million bushels and the department of agriculture report late Friday that the corn crop topped 3¼ billion bushels and was the largest on record.

Prices were off about 1 cent a bushel at one time, but when other grains turned strong on late short covering corn rallied rapidly. The close was ½ cent lower to 1 cent higher.

Trade in wheat was not large, but prices rose ⅝ to ⅞ cent. Rye gained ¼ to ⅝ cent. Oats were up ⅝ to 1 cent. Barley finished ½ to 1⅝ cents higher.

December corn was depressed by hedging sales and sold within ⅝ cent of the seasonal low before rallying to close ⅛ cent lower. A large part of the corn receipts was applied on previous contracts.

Dedicate Texas Tire Plant; Synthetic Urged for Security

Cost 6 Millions

Natural Still Better

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Waco, Tex., Nov. 13.—The General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., today dedicated a new 6 million dollar plant in Waco as the city and state celebrated the event as an important step in industrial expansion of the southwest. The dedication was a part of "Texas in the War Week" in which the Lone Star state is telling the world what it is doing in the war.

The new tire plant, when it goes into full production next year, will have a capacity of 3,500 tires a day. Pilot lines already have been started for instruction of the working force.

Quality Highest in U. S.

William O'Neil, president of the company, lauded the American development of synthetic rubber which is expected to make the nation free forever from dependence on foreign nations for this vital material. O'Neil said no other nation had produced synthetic rubber of as high quality. He described the German synthetic rubber, which at one time had been touted highly, as a "phony" which worked all right in a test tube, but did not work out well in quantity production.

O'Neil said that two new synthetic tire rubbers already have been developed which are better than the GRS on which production is concentrated in the interest of large war output. He termed passenger car tires made of synthetic rubber fully 95 per cent as good as tires made of natural rubber, but nevertheless said he wished to have some natural rubber imported after the war.

Asks Some Natural Rubber.

Telling of the narrow squeak the nation had with respect to rubber stocks, he said the army and navy only two weeks before Pearl Harbor revised upward to 300,000 tons an estimate several years earlier that an 80,000 ton stockpile would be sufficient for a five year war. Largely because of industry foresight, he said, a reserve of about 900,000 tons was attained.

O'Neil said establishment of an increasing number of plants in Texas is part of a national trend toward industry decentralization in which plants are built in large consuming areas.

New York, Nov. 13 [Special].—The United States cannot be "truly" strong without self-sufficiency in rubber and should retain a minimum annual production of 200,000 tons of synthetic rubber after the war as a policy of national security, John L. Collyer, president of B. F. Goodrich company, asserted today.

Speaking before the Society of the Plastics Industry, he predicted that the peace time choice between natural and synthetic rubber in any given case would be on the basis of which one proved more economically sound. Collyer said it was probable that by the end of the second year after liberation of Southwest Pacific rubber plantations natural and synthetic rubber would be broad competitors.

Tells of Two Big Unknowns.

Referring to estimates of the probable rate of natural rubber's return to the market in the first two years after the war, he said the world may need a million tons of the synthetic in the first year, but possibly only half that amount in the second year. He said the two big unknowns in forecasting the places of natural and synthetic were their respective future production costs and technical usefulness.

"For tires and most other big volume uses natural rubber is still the better article, and if it were available right now it probably would command a sizeable premium, pound for pound, over synthetic," he said. "But most of our experience with synthetic materials indicates this situation is subject to change without notice.

"Regardless of the economic factors involved, our country should retain a minimum production of 200,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually. No one can say what devilish method might be devised for destroying the rubber trees outside our country."

Makes 100 Million Pounds.

Akron, O., Nov. 13 (AP).—The government synthetic rubber factory at Port Neches, Tex., produced 100 million pounds of rubber in the 14 months ended Nov. 5, the B. F. Goodrich company, operator, reported today. This was equivalent to the yield of 14 million rubber trees during a similar period, Goodrich said.

GREAT NORTHERN TELLS POST-WAR TRAIN PROGRAM

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 13 (AP).—Daily streamliner passenger train service between Chicago, the Twin Cities, and the Pacific northwest will be started by the Great Northern railway as soon as new equipment is available, F. J. Gavin, president, announced today.

The Great Northern program is the first to be announced by the northern transcontinental lines between Chicago and the north Pacific coast.

Gavin also disclosed the board of directors has authorized purchase of five complete new trains, including diesel locomotives, at a cost of approximately 7 million dollars. The trains have been on order for a year. Construction will begin as soon as materials are released by the WPB. The trains will be built by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company and the locomotives by General Motors, Electro-Motive division, La Grange, Ill.

WPB INCREASES CIVILIAN ETHYL ALCOHOL QUOTA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—The immediate release of 2 million gallons of 190 proof ethyl alcohol for nonbeverage civilian use was announced today by the WPB, an addition to regular allocations of industrial alcohol for the fourth quarter of the year.

Additional alcohol will be available to producers of drugs and pharmaceuticals; food products, including candy glazes, flavoring extracts, and vinegar; toiletries and cosmetics, including mouthwashes; photographic materials; brake fluids, and other normal users of ethyl alcohol whose consumption has been restricted.

Industrial alcohol needs for 1945 are estimated at 536 million gallons compared with a potential supply of 607 million gallons.

Middle West Votes $2 Return of Paid Surplus

Middle West corporation directors have declared a capital distribution of $2 a share out of the corporation's paid in surplus created at the time of its organization, the company announced yesterday. Payable Dec. 20, it is subject to approval of the securities and exchange commission. They also declared a 30 cent dividend which will bring to 50 cents the amount distributed this year, the same as in 1943.

People and Events

Selection of Harold Vagtborg, director of the Armour Research Foundation at the Illinois Institute of Technology since 1936, as president of the Midwest Research institute in Kansas City, Mo., was announced yesterday by Robert L. Mehornay, chairman of the Midwest's board of governors, and J. C. Nichols, chairman of the trustees. The appointment becomes effective Jan. 1, and Vagtborg said last night he would leave Armour Research then.

The Illinois Manufacturers association will sponsor a foreign trade luncheon in the La Salle hotel Nov. 21. S. H. Lebensburger, director of the foreign economic administration's requirements and supply branch, will speak on post-war controls affecting foreign trade.

BRITAIN REPAYS 94 MILLION ON LOAN FROM RFC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—Britain has made payments of $133,931,513 on her loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the RFC reported today. It said $120,457,037 came from interest and dividends earned by securities pledged as collateral and $13,474,476 represented proceeds from sale of some of the securities.

A total loan of 425 million dollars was authorized in July, 1941, but only 390 million actually was taken. Of the payments made thru Oct. 1, the RFC said about $94,300,000 had been applied to principal. The remainder was applied to interest or held in reserve accounts for application to principal.

National Air Lines Orders Four Big Passenger Planes

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—G. T. Baker, president of National Airlines, today announced the purchase of four Lockheed Constellation four engine passenger planes at a cost of nearly 3 million dollars. The new ships will be delivered when army requirements have been met.

BRITISH INSIST ON PREFERENCE TRADE METHOD

First Rift Appears at Rye Parley.

Rye, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP).—The first sign of disagreement at the international business conference arose today when British delegates made it clear Great Britain has no intention of abandoning its program of empire preference for an indefinite period after the war.

The point was raised after Henry F. Grady, chairman of the United States delegation, spoke against bilateral trade agreements as leading to economic warfare among nations.

Agrees to Lifted Controls.

Peter Bennett, representing the British delegation, replied that his nation supports the complete lifting of all trade restrictions and controls, except for the imperial preference agreement under which members of the British commonwealth receive favored treatment regarding tariffs and other controls.

Asserting that the British wish to "get rid of controls as soon as possible," he added that nevertheless the nation was bound by the preference agreement and "we intend to honor it."

He said eventually it is hoped that empire preference could be abolished, but it would be some years after the war before any move could be made.

Americans Plan Reply.

This discussion took place at a panel meeting on commercial policy of nations and at the end American delegates said they would reply to the British position at a later meeting. They said they were not ready to agree that preference controls should be continued for any great period after the war.

Grady, San Francisco shipping operator, speaking for the elimination of bilateral trade agreements, said such a policy leads to government controls of international trade because only thru enforced quotas and exchange allocations can agreements favoring one nation against all others be enforced.

Defines Warfare Cure.

"The cure for military war is collective security," he said. "The cure for economic war, of which bilateralism is a potent form, is collective economic security.

"Both these forms of security can only be effectively attained thru adequate world organization and a determination of all the peoples of the world to put their stake in a world order rather than nationalism."

Opposition to the American position was expressed by Sir Chunilel B. Mehta, chairman of the delegation from India, who caused something of a stir when he urged the United States to conclude a treaty with India to put his country on an equal footing with other allied nations.

Assails Treaty Lack.

"At present citizens of the United States have full rights and privileges to come to India, to stay in India, and to trade in India as freely as they would like to," he said. "On the other hand, Indians do not enjoy at present any such rights or privileges to come and stay and trade in the United States. The absence of such a treaty is bound to hamper the growth of economic and commercial relations between the two countries."

Regarding a multilateral trade system among all nations, Mehta said such a plan would be accepted by India only with reservations which are necessary "for the protection of India's existing industries and development of new ones."

The question is not only one of industrialization but of raising the standard of living for the Indian masses, he said.

HOGS BRING BEST SEASONAL PRICE FOR 25 YEARS

Farmers yesterday were paid the highest mid-November prices for hogs in 25 years. The average at the stock yards moved up 5 cents, to $14.40 a hundred pounds, equaling the best average since Oct. 28. Hogs a year ago averaged $13.53, and two years ago $14.

Advances of 5 to 10 cents at the stock yards were confined mostly to best grades of 200 to 250 pound hogs. Most other classes were steady.

Top lambs rose 10 cents to $14.60, the highest price since Oct. 12. Top ewes reached $6.10, highest since Oct. 20. Only top grade steers met dependable demand, equaling the highest prices in seven years, the best bringing a top of $18.50.

Jury Charges Secret Pacts Slowed Arms

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Asserting that German industry secretly hindered United States war production thru agreements with certain American corporations, a federal grand jury today filed a presentment urging congress to tighten anti-trust laws.

"Numerous agreements in violation of the anti-trust laws between foreign and American corporations have resulted in restricting the production in the United States of many products of vital war time necessity and great peace time value," the presentment said.

Lawrence J. Sobel, foreman of the jury, said specified evidence which led to the investigation concerned dealings between certain undisclosed American and foreign companies and persons which caused a severe shortage of a vital raw material used in modern military radio equipment.

Urge Increased Penalties.

Haldeman Johnson, special attorney for the justice department's anti-trust division, said the presentment urged revision of anti-trust laws to increase penalties and force foreign nations to make public any stock ownership or interest in American companies.

Sobel said German owners of stock in United States companies had registered their ownership with Swiss banks in an effort to avoid publication of their identity. He said this interfered greatly with American preparation for war prior to Pearl Harbor.

"We feel that certain German interests which controled industry in Germany under the kaiser, under the republic, and under the Nazis will, unless stopped, control it further under any future government, especially in the chemical, synthetic rubber, and tungsten carbide fields," asserted Sobel.

Formulas, Materials Withheld.

He said vital chemical formulas and basic materials had been withheld from the United States thru patent and cross-patent arrangements German companies had with American companies.

German owners frequently did not reveal all essential parts of patents in filing them in this country, Sobel said.

"American companies which are parties to these agreements are in some instances under foreign ownership or control as a result of stock ownership," the presentment asserted.

Filed with Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell, it said anti-trust law penalties in many cases were not commensurate with the gravity of the crime and the extent of injury to public welfare.

ATTORNEY BUYS MORRIS GROUP'S HANDBAG TRADE

Harry Morris Associates, manufacturer, importer, and jobber of costume jewelry and handbags at 320 W. Adams st., has completed negotiations for the sale of its handbag division to Milton A. Gordon, a Chicago attorney, a Morris spokesman said yesterday. The sale effective Jan. 1, was negotiated thru Herbert E. Exner, vice president of Apple-Cole company, for an undisclosed price.

Currently operated as a partnership, Morris Associates formerly was incorporated as Morris, Mann & Reilly. Both Morris Associates and the handbag division will move about Dec. 1 to the 7 story building at Wells and Monroe sts., the spokesman said.

EXTENDED RENT RULE IN PEACE TIME FORECAST

BY AL CHASE.

Permanent rent control and a vast federal housing program, calling for 2 million new family units built with government funds during the first post-war decade, are possibilities confronting private builders, realtors, and savings and loan associations when the war ends, John W. Galbreath, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said yesterday. He spoke at the United States Savings and Loan league's national conference on veterans' loans and home ownership in the Palmer House.

"There is a large group in our government and a powerful movement in some of the trade unions seeking to make rent control permanent," he said. "The officials of the office of price administration have told us that we must resign ourselves to it for at least four or five years after the war.

Warns of Halt to Building.

"If this occurs, it not only will stop any extensive building activity after the war, but it will make the ownership of a very large section of property devoted to rentals—more than one-half the units of our country—less and less attractive.

"If I were to pick out the No. 1 item in urgency at this time, it would be that we all unite in seeing that rent control is honestly and fairly administered during the war—which it is not—and that as soon as war is over, it be discontinued."

Public housing is a "threat to all of us," he said. The present plan of the federal public housing authority involves the construction of 200,000 new family units annually for 10 years after the war.

"This is not guesswork," he said. "The blueprints are being made. The local housing authorities are perfecting detailed plans. It is a fact. What will the construction of 200,000 housing units per year by public funds do to our business?"

Asks Tax Revision.

Galbreath urged formation of a policy to obtain for private enterprise "those same aids and advantages which public housing now enjoys." He said the property owner needs lower real estate taxes. State and federal governments have now absorbed the entire taxpaying ability of the country, leaving real estate almost the sole resource for local taxation, he asserted.

John H. Fahey, commissioner of the federal home loan bank administration, said at the annual dinner of the league that the building industry must be ready for a vast expansion of home building and home purchasing after the war. The biggest demand will be among families of medium and low incomes, he said.

Stocks Lower in First Selloff of Two Weeks

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Leading stocks, particularly aircrafts, motors, steels, and rails, closed lower in today's market for the first time in nearly two weeks.

Reasons given for the setback were varied. Liquidation was attributed to preparations for the 6th war bond drive, belief the list would be unable to surmount the seven year peaks set in July, decision to await congressional trends and further bearish investment service opinions. Issues with an armament rating had to contend with the revival of reconversion apprehension. Earnings and dividends propped individual issues, but most of these failed to get anywhere.

Dealings were active and trends lower after the opening. Closing declines of fractions to more than a point were widespread. The Associated Press 60 stock average was down 0.5 to 55.1, first drop since Nov. 3 and the widest setback since Oct. 23. Transfers of 917,760 shares, compared with 1,120,630 Friday, were fourth largest since Sept. 7.

The stock exchange summary showed a rise in the October short interest after two monthly recessions. As of Oct. 31 the total was 1,373,540 against 1,275,709 on Sept. 29.

BOND PRICES DECLINE.

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—The bond market closed lower today. Railroad obligations gave ground under light offerings and ended with numerous losses of major fractions to more than a point. Industrials and utilities held close to steady altho some higher priced issues advanced on investment buying.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Prices closed lower in turnover of 34,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Active issues included Athey Truss Wheel, which closed up ⅝ at a 1944 peak of 8¼; Commonwealth Edison, up ¼; Miller & Hart, unchanged, and Middle West corporation, down ⅛.

EXPECTS LITTLE CHANGE IN CIVIL FOOD SUPPLIES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—Little change in civilian food supplies for 1945 is expected by the department of agriculture, even if the European war is ended.

Civilian consumption of food this year has been running about 7 per cent above the 1935-'39 average, the department said, and now civilian requirements will continue to take a "substantial portion" of food supplies thru 1945. Supplies of beef, turkeys and some fruits may be larger, but those of pork, potatoes, butter, and possibly chickens and some fresh vegetables may be smaller, it said.

Better grades of beef have been short of civilian demand in 1944 altho total meat supplies, particularly of pork, were large until summer. Since then meat supplies have been reduced by seasonal drops in production and increasing war requirements for the last quarter.

HARRIS TRUST WOULD BOOST CAPITAL STOCK

Dividend of 1 Share for 3 Proposed.

Directors of Harris Trust and Savings bank have recommended the payment of a dividend of 33⅓ per cent in stock, subject to approval by stockholders Dec. 13, Frank R. Elliott, president, said yesterday. The dividend will amount to 2 million dollars at par value of $100 a share. The stock was quoted yesterday at $430 a share bid.

Frank R. Elliott.

As a preliminary step, 2 million dollars would be transferred from the bank's undivided profits to capital account, increasing that item to 8 million dollars.

This increase would be the first change in the capital account since 1929, during which period surplus has risen from 5 million to 12 million. After the proposed transfer, undivided profits as of Dec. 31, 1944, it was stated, would exceed 1¼ million, with the result that total invested capital funds, including surplus, would exceed 21¼ million, exclusive of reserves of more than 9 million. Deposits as of Sept. 13 were 478 million.

Follows Company Policy.

"With the continued large increase in our deposits, it has been the policy of the directors to accumulate and leave invested in the business all earnings in excess of the reasonable dividends paid," Elliott and Chairman Howard W. Fenton said in a statement to stockholders. "From time to time during the last 15 years substantial amounts of acccumulated earnings have been dedicated to surplus."

On approval of the plan by stockholders, the new stock would be distributed late in December to stockholders of record Dec. 18, in the ratio of one new share for each three shares held. It was also proposed that the regular quarterly cash dividend of $3 a share be paid Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 18. The new stock would not be entitled to dividends until April 1.

Propose Retirement Pension.

The directors also recommended approval of proposals to institute retirement pensions and group life insurance to supplement employe savings and profit sharing trusts. The plan would provide for retirement of men employes at 65 and women at 60, with pensions of 0.75 per cent of the average basic salary during the last 10 years of service, multiplied by the number of years of service, but with a maximum of 30 per cent of the average basic salary. Fifteen years' service would be required for eligibility.

If you do not live to 65, your family receives a substantial cash payment and all future premiums will be waived.

Ask your agent or broker about this combination protection-savings plan for your family, one of the wide range of insurance services offered by this strong Chicago institution.

Ask about Continental's EXCLUSIVE Wartime Payment Plan: 16 monthly payments . . . from wartime earnings . . . and your life insurance or endowment policy is PAID IN FULL.

GRAND!

WHAT a grand word Independence is and what a struggle it's having to survive in the City that first gave it a local habitation and a name.

The Times-Herald is proud to be known as Washington's Independent Newspaper and proud of its reputation as the uncompromising defender of those rugged principles of equality and opportunity which General Washington, 155 years ago, brought to this befuddled town.

WARD'S LOSES 2 SUITS ATTACKING POWERS OF WLB

Plea for Review Refused by Supreme Court.

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday lost in United States Supreme court and Chicago federal District court two cases in which it sued for relief from war labor board orders concerning relations with CIO unions representing company employes.

In Washington, D. C., the Supreme court refused to review a ruling by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals holding that WLB actions are administrative and "at most" simply advisory to the President. The WLB, in the event its orders are disregarded, turns cases over to the President for action.

Contends WLB Exceeds Powers.

The company had contended WLB exceeded its statutory powers in issuing orders involving union maintenance, dues checkoffs and grievance machinery at four Ward stores in Detroit, Mich., and one each in Jamaica, N. Y. and Denver, Colo.

The company argued the Appeals court erred in deciding that WLB could not be restrained from "acting outside its statutory jurisdiction or from failing to follow the procedure specified" in the war labor disputes act.

The Chicago case paralleled the Washington case, and the decision in the latter was reflected in the ruling made by Federal District Judge Barnes. He granted a motion to dismiss the company's suit to set aside a WLB order of June 6 requiring the company to arbitrate employe grievances with local No. 20, United Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes union, CIO.

"Not Well Satisfied with Law."

"I dislike very much to hold that congress was playacting when it adopted the war labor disputes act, and that accordingly the orders of the WLB are not legally enforceable," Judge Barnes said in issuing his decision. "I am not well satisfied with what seems to be the law as announced by the Appeals court in the District of Columbia case.

"I realize that today's ruling by the Supreme court does not mean that the Supreme court endorses all the lower court said, but we must bear in mind that the Supreme court was presented with the opportunity to correct any errors, if there were any, made by the Appeals court. Under the circumstances, I am inclined to think, even tho I don't like what seems to be the law, I must follow the decision of the Appeals court in that case."

Stuart Ball, company counsel, told the court that even tho the Appeals court held that WLB orders are purely advisory, the question still is open to decision by other courts. He indicated the company may appeal Judge Barnes' ruling.

2 MORE COMMITTEES OFFER SURFACE LINES REORGANIZATION PLAN

Committees representing security holders of two constituent companies of the Chicago Surface Lines, Chicago City Railway, and Calumet and South Chicago Railway, yesterday filed with federal District court a new set of suggestions looking to the reorganization by the court of the street car properties.

A similar program, advocating a substantial pay-off of first mortgage bond principal [reducing the principal from 72 million to 63 million dollars] was suggested last week by the first mortgage group. This was regarded as bullish news in La Salle st. and the senior securities advanced from 64⅛ to 68⅛, altho nothing indicated Judge Igoe would rule in favor of the proposal.

The two constituent companies went along with the pay-off suggestion. Their representatives also recommended that if the surface and elevated lines were merged, L securities owners receive not more than 8 million in bonds. This was suggested, apparently, because the city of Chicago has for many years blocked any effort to reorganize either system without a consolidation.

They agreed with the first mortgage bondholders that most of the surface lines securities holders should receive common stock in reorganization, rather than junior bonds.

TO REVIEW FARE BOOST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Supreme court today agreed to hear protests by Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina against an interstate commerce commission order to increase intrastate passenger coach fares in those states.

The interstate commerce commission directed increases of about 33⅓ per cent and required that the fares be not less than the corresponding rates charged interstate travelers. The commission held that lower intrastate fares resulted in unjust discrimination against interstate commerce.

Appeal District Court Rulings.

Economic Stabilization Director Vinson, Price Administrator Bowles, and the states appealed from the order in federal District courts, but were overruled. They then asked the high tribunal for a review.

In other cases the court agreed to review a 10th federal Circuit court decision that "fair trade" contracts involving retail prices on alcoholic beverages shipped into Colorado by seven distillers do not restrain interstate commerce or violate the Sherman anti-trust act. The justice department contended that agreements in interstate sales which provide for contract price maintenance in later intrastate sales are illegal.

Agreed to review several federal power commission orders requiring Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line and other companies to reduce interstate wholesale rates on natural gas.

To Review Transit Fare Cut.

Agreed to review a California railroad commission order directing the Market Street Railway company, San Francisco, to reduce fares 1 cent to 6 cents. The company said the order would force it to operate at a loss. Denied an Atlantic City department store a review on a question of rights, under the national labor relations act, to post notices regarding unionization. The M. E. Blatt company told the court it had complied with an order by the national labor relations board to post a notice that employes were free to join a labor union and placed another sign stating that it was not necessary for an employe to join a union. The 3d federal Circuit court held the second notice constituted an unfair labor practice.

FARNSWORTH TELEVISION.

Some of our G. I.'s on a Pacific Island have asked me for data on Farnsworth Television and Radio corporation stock. Kindly send me information.—T. I.

Normally the company's operations consist chiefly of the manufacture of radios and radio phonograph combinations sold under the trade names Farnsworth and Capehart, and of radios sold under the labels of other distributors. It has done much research and development in commercial television, is understood to hold many patents relating to television and electronics, and has license agreements with Radio Corporation of America and others.

Since April, 1942, the company has devoted its facilities to making electronic devices for military use. Gross revenue expanded from $2,922,000 in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1940, to $33,893,000 in the 1944 fiscal year.

The 1940 fiscal period, first full 12 months' operations of the present company, resulted in a net loss of 53 cents a share, and the following year also was in the red to the extent of 13 cents a share. Earnings improved progressively to 46 cents a share in 1942, 66 cents in 1943, and 72 cents in 1944. In the three months ended July 31, 1944, the profit equaled 20 cents a share, against 15 cents a year ago.

Earnings are reported after reserves for renegotiation of war contracts, but the available record does not provide a satisfactory basis for estimating post-war operating results. Outstanding are 1,411,997 shares, $1 par value. There is no funded debt. Current assets as of April 30 totaled $15,355,000, and current liabilities $11,689,000, including a $5,619,000 V loan. No dividends have been paid.
